Hail-Easter!
Grand To Be 70
Dictator For Holland?

WITH EASTER Sunday comes wide rejoicing. The sorrow of Good Friday, its memory of the long hours of agony are passed. The promised resurrection day has come. This country on Easter 1935 sees a Roosevelt rainbow in the sky, a four billion eight hundred and eighty million dollar rainbow, of hope and promise.

DURING EASTER services at St. Peter's, Rome, Pope Pious, standing on the balcony of the Basilica will, by radio, "impart his blessing to all mankind."

That the head of a great church should be able, literally, to speak to all the earth, is a sufficient miracle. The christians of earlier times would have said it could not happen until the day of judgment, when the world would hear Gabriel's horn. But that is far away, if science is accurate in its statement that the earth, and men on it will last a million, million years more—1,000,000,000,000 years.

MISS MAY ROBSON, well known on the stage fifty years ago, acting in "movies" now, celebrating her 70th birthday, says "it's grand."

May Robson takes the proper view of a seventieth birthday. She had a birthday cake nearly as tall as herself, at the top a real canary singing in a cage made of candy. Miss Robson likes to go with her companion Miss Harmer, to sit in the patio and talk until two or three o'clock in the morning because "that is peace."

"It was a fine birthday," said she, "but wait until you see what I do when I am eighty."

Young women of seventy and over have this advantage over old men of the same age, the women do not complain.

AMSTERDAM'S national socialist bund, a powerful organization in the Netherlands, would set up a fascist dictatorship, making of Queen Wilhelmenia, a mere government ornament, as is the Italian king under Mussolini. The national socialist bund, said to be tainted with anti-Semitism, might learn from early history of the Netherlands, that the greatest period of Dutch prosperity, with domination of world commerce, followed the arrival in Holland, of Jews driven out of Portugal and Spain. You cannot promote national prosperity by discouraging intelligence.

A BRILLIANT young Frenchman, Rene de Chambrun, at present in America, is organizing "a French information bureau in the United States," with the distinguished French soldier, Marshal Petain, as president. Young Mr. de Chambrun, practices law in the United States and in France, thanks to an unusual circumstance. The state of Maryland, in revolutionary days declared every descendant of Lafayette a citizen of Maryland, regardless of his birth place.

Monsieur de Chambrun, a direct descendant of Lafayette and therefore a citizen of Maryland can practice law anywhere in the United States. As a Frenchman he practices at home.

The thoroughness of young Frenchmen, greatly admired by the late Lord Bryce, not always appreciated in this country, led young de Chambrun to spend five years in America studying in the law office of John W. Davis, before undertaking practice here.

LOUIS LEVINE, aged 30, was still warm, and had $42 in his pocket, when picked up in a Brooklyn street called "the Graveyard" because of the number of racketeer victims found there. The police said Levine had been engaged in distributing "vending machines," used for gambling purposes. In that business it is customary to meet competition, by murdering the competitor. Two bullet holes in the head had put an end to Mr. Levine's competition.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., April 20.—(Special)—See where a governor down in Georgia has also seceded from the Union; that gets his state off the relief rolls. Well, that means more to divvy up among the rest. I tell you, I am going to try and get Oklahoma and California to do something in any way that will cause Secretary Ickes to shut off our water.

And speaking about people calling people things, did you see what Hitler called England and what Mussolini called everybody, but Hugh Johnson was the hero. He took the rap himself.

Yours,
Will Rogers

FISHER ASSERTS HIGHWAY MONEY USED FOR VOTES

State Funds Spent By Long Forces In 1931, Declares Solon

COURT IS RECESSED

NEW ORLEANS, April 20.—(AP)—State Representative Joseph Fisher, staunch supporter of Senator Huey P. Long's state administration, testified in federal district court here today during his trial for alleged income tax evasion, that funds of the Louisiana Highway commission were used for political purposes during the 1931 campaign.

The swarthy Jefferson parish lawmaker related details to the jury of the expenditure of approximately $1,400 of highway funds to finance campaign workers who he said were seeking the election of "state ticket" candidates.

A jammed courtroom listened intently as Fisher described the disbursement of the payroll funds in an effort to prove that none of the proceeds of highway payroll checks went to make up a portion of his 1931 income, as charged by the government last week when 33 cancelled drafts were placed in the record.

Fisher readily acknowledged endorsing the names of "A. Crappel," "A. Belsom," and "T. Crappel," to whom the checks were issued, and told of cashing them and distributing the money to his political lieutenants.

The highway payroll testimony came late in the day after Fisher had denied he received anything like the $187,000 income during 1929, 1930, 1931 and 1932 charged to him by the government, on which he allegedly paid no tax and made no returns.

He was still on the witness stand when Judge Wayne G. Borah ordered a week-end recess. Defense Counsel Hugh M. Wilkinson indicated that he will complete direct examination of the defendant Monday morning. The remainder of Monday is expected to be devoted to cross examination, with the case likely going to the jury late Tuesday or early Wednesday.

SMITH IS NAMED RALLY PRESIDENT

Athens Man Elected To Direct School Contests Next Year

RUSTON, La., April 20.—(Special)—With the literary status of North Louisiana high schools having been determined in competitive tests at Louisiana Tech Friday, election of new officers of the rally association here Saturday morning concluded all activities of the meet, with the exception of athletics.

A. A. Smith of Athens was elected president of the North Louisiana High School Rally association, and J. A. Garrett of Collinston was named vice-president. They succeed H. L. Nobles of Gibsland, retiring president, and A. A. Smith, who was vice-president the past year. By request of members of the association, President G. W. Bond of Louisiana Tech has reappointed M. H. Folk, Jr., of the Tech faculty, as general secretary of the rally.

At the meeting of the rally officials Saturday morning, it was decided that next year girls' track events will be added to the rally, with one girl being permitted to enter only two events besides the relay. Members of boys' basketball teams were increased from 8 to 10.

Since Ouachita parish high school of Monroe had already cinched the Class A championship in the early literary tests of the rally Friday, the finals Friday night found Ruston and Minden in a close race for second place. Ruston edged into second, with 76 points, and Minden took third

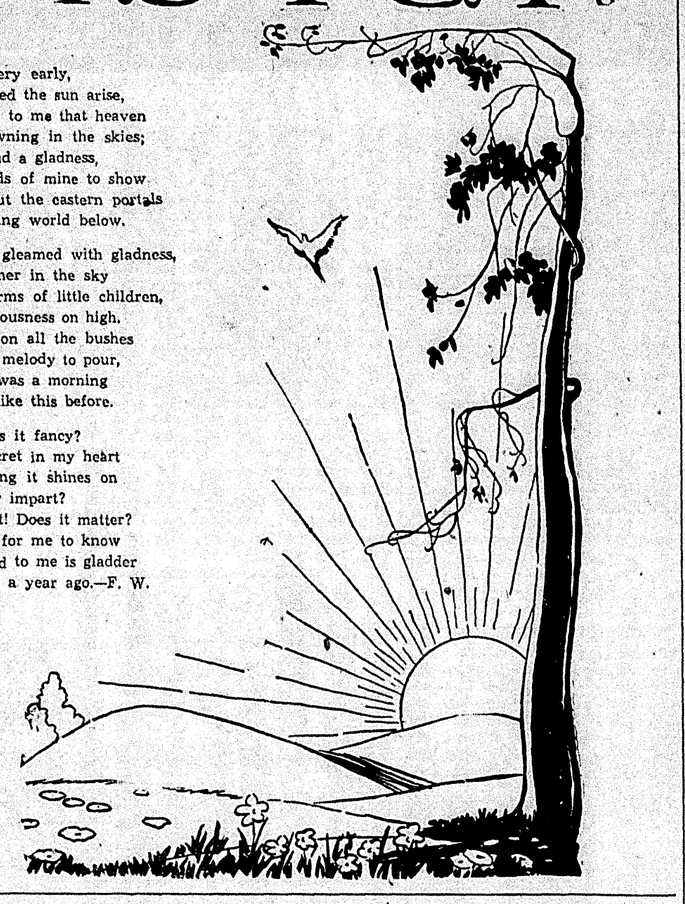
REGIONAL MEETINGS SPURRED BY G. O. P.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(AP)—While an extraordinary gathering here of Republican leaders today sang a theme of spurring regional meetings but steering away from candidates, it was disclosed coincidentally that an incipient presidential boom for Governor Alf Landon, of Kansas, had altered plans for holding a giant G. O. P. meeting in Kansas City.

No word of this shift came from the unusual party strategy meeting that gathered around a capitol luncheon table. Present among a score of prominent Republicans were five men mentioned as possible presidential candidates. It was one of the largest informal party rallies since the 1932 convention.

In other quarters, however, it was asserted that the theme of steering away from candidates at this stage of preparation for 1936 had led to plans for shifting the proposed rally of midwestern Republicans from Kansas City to either St. Louis, Minneapolis, Indianapolis or Chicago.

EASTER



I awakened very early,
And I watched the sun arise,
And it seemed to me that heaven
Must be dawning in the skies;
For a glory and a gladness,
Passing words of mine to show
Shone from out the eastern portals
On the waking world below.

All the water gleamed with gladness,
Every streamer in the sky
Seemed the arms of little children,
Flung in joyousness on high.
All the birds on all the bushes
Joined their melody to pour,
Surely never was a morning
Ushered in like this before.

Is it fact or is it fancy?
Does the secret in my heart
Unto everything it shines on
Spurious joy impart?
Ah, I care not! Does it matter?
'Tis enough for me to know
That the world to me is gladder
Than it was a year ago.—F. W.

LOCAL CHILDREN TO ENJOY EASTER EGG HUNT TODAY

200 Prizes Arranged By Teflis Grotto As Merchants' Gifts

Today promises to be the most joyous Easter celebration in many years for the boys and girls of the Twin Cities.

Two hundred prizes have been offered by local merchants for the most successful searchers for the 5,000 gaily colored eggs that will be hidden in various strategic points at Forsythe park, where fully as many children are expected to gather this afternoon at 2 o'clock to take part in the "egg hunt" sponsored by Teflis Grotto. Bill Perhamus, chairman of the committee on arrangements, expects the greatest gathering of children that has ever participated in the event.

Boys will hunt eggs on one part of the grounds and girls on another while the little kiddies five years and less will be given an opportunity equal to that of the others in another part of the park.

Boy Scouts will aid in placing the eggs early today and in directing traffic. No cars will be permitted in the vicinity of the egg hunt.

The grand prizes will be such as to be well worth the search, Mr. Perhamus said. The first grand prize for girls will be a diamond ring and the first prize for boys will be $10 in cash. The first grand prize for kiddies will consist of a huge rabbit filled with candy. Second prizes also are to be awarded.

Music will be furnished by two large sound trucks during the time the hunt is in progress.

Easter will also be notable in the churches of the city, all of which are to present elaborate services of music, and sermons will be suited to the gladsome Easter season. The music at St. Matthew's and Grace Episcopal church will be especially elaborate.

At 7:30 p. m. an Easter cantata, "Rabbonni," at the First Methodist church, will be presented by the united choirs of the First Presby-

Eight Pages Of Comics In Color, New Feature Of World And News-Star

Responsive to a widespread demand for more and brighter features, the Sunday World and News-Star today begins the publication of a complete section of eight pages of pictorial comedies, printed in color.

This feature marks another forward step in this newspaper's efforts to keep fully abreast of every requirement of progressive journalism. One of those requirements is the satisfying of a demand for entertainment as well as authentic information on every element of current interest.

The comic section of a newspaper is one that finds a responsive interest in the minds of adults as well as children—and it is for all classes of its readers that the new feature has been produced. It will be continued every Sunday.

Subscribers as well as transient patrons should be sure they receive with this issue the eight colored pages, which represent the work of some of the most celebrated comic artists in America today.

PRESIDENT WILL ATTEND CHURCH

White House Family To Lead Nation To Public Worship Today

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(AP)—Amid balmy weather that ended weeks of rain and cold, the capital prepared today for an Eastertide which will see signitaries from the president down attending church services.

On Monday will come the traditional egg rolling on the White House lawn—expected to attract such a large crowd of children that there may be little space for the eggs to roll.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt and members of their household have arranged to lead the nation in public worship. At St. Thomas' church, Mrs. Roosevelt plans also to go to sunrise

AMELIA'S FLIGHT TO MEXICO CITY STOPPED BY BUG

Tiny Insect In Her Eye Causes Noted Flier To Make Landing

MEXICO, D. F., April 20.—(AP)—A bug got in her eye, Amelia Earhart found to her sorrow today, and prevented a non-stop flight from Los Angeles to Mexico.

A tiny insect so blinded her, the famed conqueror of two oceans said as she arrived here today 13 and one-half hours after taking off from the California city, that she could not read her maps and had to land 60 miles short of her goal to get her bearings.

A cow pasture at Nopala, state of Hidalgo, provided an emergency landing field. There she found she was 100 miles off her course. She removed the bug, got her bearings and hopped off again for Mexico where 10,000 persons cheered as she landed.

Miss Earhart herself was disappointed at what she described as her "unsuccessful" 1,700-mile flight, intended to increase good will between Mexico and the United States.

As soon as she sees something of Mexico, she said shortly after landing at 1:27 p. m., local time, "I will try to do a better job of flying nonstop to New York." She also said she hopes to attempt the Los-Angeles-Mexico flight again.

The largest crowd since Lindbergh landed at the same field in 1927 had jammed the air field all morning. A gasp went up from the throng when an announcement from the presidential office stated she had made a forced landing at Nopala.

After a brief wait the announcement was rectified, still not making clear what had happened to her. She was more than an hour overdue, and a group of military planes which had set out to escort her to a landing had returned, unable to locate her.

Another brief wait and the original announcement was confirmed, with the added information that she had lost her bearings and had taken off

GERMANY PUSHES UPBUILDING OF ARMY AIR FORCE

Feverish Increase Centers On Gas, Planes And Personnel

HITLER STRIKES BACK

Says League Has No Right To Act As Judge Over Germans

(Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press)

BERLIN, April 20.—Reliable quarters today asserted intense military air activity "is rapidly placing the German army beyond undreamed of dimensions" since the announcement of conscription a month ago.

A noticeably feverish rearmament increase was concentrated on improving the reich's position as to gas, airplanes, personnel and the storage of materials already at hand.

New factories are being pushed ahead. Recruiting is progressing apace. War games are being played at the new airdromes. Intensified training is being given to special population groups. Not of the least importance is the propaganda; seemingly the people approve conscription as a patriotic duty.

One reliable quarter said that Germany now had 1,500,000 men in uniform, so that the beginning of conscription this autumn "will mean comparatively little, since by then the cream of able-bodied men will be soldiers and the inauguration of compulsory training will mostly be a move to round up the young unemployed."

In this connection it was significant that this last week the receivers of the dole were told that charity no longer could be given to unemployed men under 25. They were told that "other provisions are being made for you." Presumably this will mean a form of military activity and training.

HITLER HITS BACK AT LEAGUE ACTION

BERLIN, April 20.—Adolf Hitler curtly struck back on his 46th birthday today at 13 nations of the world who condemned, through the League of Nations, his scrapping of the Versailles treaty.

"They have no right to appoint themselves judges over the Germans," Der Fuehrer said.

NEW STATE BAR WILL BE TALKED

Louisiana Attorneys To Discuss Organization Set Up By Long

ALEXANDRIA, La., April 20.—(AP)—The "State Bar of Louisiana," created by the legislature in 1934 under one of Senator Huey Long's new statutes, will be one of the most vital subjects discussed in the annual convention of the Louisiana State Bar association here next Friday and Saturday.

The "State Bar of Louisiana," is headed by Attorney General Gaston L. Porterie and supercedes the Louisiana State Bar association in recommendations to the state supreme court on legal qualifications.

Walter J. Burke, of New Iberia, will deliver an address on the new association while former Representative J. Zach Spearing, of New Orleans, will speak on the past and future of the Louisiana State Bar association.

Scott M. Loftin, of Jacksonville, Fla., president of the American Bar association is expected to deliver the convention's keynote address on "The National Bar Program."

Refusing to submit to the demands of blackmailers who threatened to send faked nude pictures of her to her husband unless she paid $5,000, Mrs. George U. Harris (above), New York society woman, enlisted police aid to trap Arthur Ulisse and Dominick Pilotti in an attempt to collect the money.

BOLTON CARRIES OFF HONORS IN SCHOOL CONTEST

Le Compte Is Class B Winner; Jena And Wisner Take Places

ALEXANDRIA, La., April 20.—(AP)—Bolton high school of Alexandria and Le Compte high school carried off honors in literary events in the fourteenth annual central Louisiana high school rally at Louisiana college today as the number of entries broke all previous records.

Bolton won the Class A division with 93 points in class room subjects. Boyce high school was second with 32 and Tioga third with 25. Marksville scored 17, Jena 11 and Bunkie 9. Le Compte carried off the Class B honors with 38 points.

Moreauville high school was second with 23 and Wisner third with 22.

Other Class B schools finished as follows: Ferriday, 16; Bordelonville, 14; Selma, 14; Block high school of Jonesville, 7; Fifth Ward, Marksville, 6; Cheneyville, 5; Lafargue, 5; Hessmer, 6; Cottonport, 4; Mamou, 3; Evergreen, 4; Pollock, 3; Okaloosa, 1. Bolton high school and Le Compte repeated when they won again this year. Both were victorious in the literary events last year.

Winners were:

INCORRECT USES OF MINERAL OIL RAPPED

NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP)—Dr. Irving Graef, pathologist of Bellevue hospital, told the American Association of Pathologists and Bacteriologists today that mineral oils and animal fats drawn into the lungs of infants and adults had proved fatal in six cases of pneumonia.

Four other doctors cited similar cases in the past ten years.

Cod liver oil, described as good when taken into the stomach for bone building, was deadly when it entered the lungs. He cited one case to show that the oil had entered the lungs through forcing a reluctant child to swallow it by holding his nose.

Another doctor told of performing an autopsy on a man whose death was caused by mineral oil in the lungs.

Various mentholated mineral oils dropped into the nose as a protection against colds, were denounced by one doctor as a "public menace."

Other doctors joined in the denunciation.

Dictator Given Authority Over PWA Grants And Vote Counting

28 BILLS ARE SIGNED

Administration Foes Fight To Finish Although Without Hope

BATON ROUGE, La., April 20.—(AP)—The Louisiana legislature's fifth "dictator" special session was at an end tonight after granting Senator Huey P. Long, boss of the state's government, practically the only power he didn't have before—authority over PWA grants to localities and the ability to name the men who count the votes in state primaries.

And, by way of good measure, the law-makers complaisantly obeyed Long's orders and enacted legislation to prevent the senator's political enemies, the city officials of New Orleans, from readjusting that municipality's indebtedness in federal court, and punishing other political opponents.

Anti-Long legislators, hopelessly outvoted, fought to the last against the senator's measures, raising question of unconstitutionality, and declaring his legislation to place the obtaining of PWA funds under supervision of the state a "vicious" act.

The legislature's latest law enactment brought to a head the row between Long and Washington over federal work fund expenditures in Louisiana, and bills it passed to prevent any parish or municipality from incurring PWA indebtedness without consent of Long's state administration officials constituted a gage of battle thrown down to the national administration.

Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes has been considering cancelling all Louisiana PWA grants because of the legislation.

The finishing enactment touch to the PWA legislation was followed by declaration by an anti-Long representative that he had invited Secretary Ickes to "cooperate" with him in a deliberate violation of one of the PWA bills which would provide a mandatory jail sentence for any official to incur federal agency indebtedness without state consent.

Representative Rupert Peyton, Caddo, told the house in an impassioned address in which he cast off his self-assumed title of "house jester," that the PWA restriction was a violation of "every principle of the constitution," and that it was "his intention to violate the law the moment it became effective."

A bill to provide that primary election commissioners shall be named by the parish board of supervisors of election, two of the three members of which are appointed by Governor O. K. Allen, unfailingly responsive to Long's wishes, was finally enacted in the senate in accompaniment of hot debate for and against it.

Satisfied with the law-makers conformity to his wishes, Long immediately arranged to leave for Washington where he has stated he will deliver an address in the senate Monday blasting away at national administration senators and cabinet members.

Hardly had the bills been enrolled and signed by the presiding officers of the house and senate than Governor O. K. Allen affixed his signature to them.

They will become effective in 20 days, but the legislature on its opening night six days ago adopted resolutions to carry the PWA legislation and the bill to prevent the city of New Orleans from going into federal court bankruptcy effective immediately by declaring suspended any law that might prevent immediate operation.

Other acts passed included measures abolishing the office of assistant district attorney of East Baton Rouge, a political foe of Long's, cutting the office expenses of another political enemy, the East Baton Rouge clerk of court in half, and abolishing the status of the politically antagonistic civil sheriff of New Orleans as a member of the Orleans parish board of supervisors of election.

Like the last preceding special ses-

RUPERT PEYTON ASKS ICKES TO CO-OPERATE WITH HIM IN AN INTENTIONAL VIOLATION OF NEW PWA STATUTE

BATON ROUGE, La., April 20.—(AP)—Rep. Rupert Peyton, anti-Long law-maker, today told the house of the Louisiana legislature that he had asked Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes to "cooperate" with him in an intentional violation of an act just passed by the legislature making is a jailable offense for any Louisianians from "obtaining a PWA loan."

The senate yesterday finally enacted an act providing a fine and a jail sentence not exceeding six months as penalty for incurring of local taxing district indebtedness to obtain PWA funds without state board consent.

Deploring that bill and other legislation enacted at the legislature's latest special session at Senator Huey P. Long's behest, Peyton told the house that he had written Ickes the following letter:

"Dear Secretary:

"The Louisiana legislature has enacted a law which forbids any citizen from conferring or obtaining a PWA loan without approval of the political powers that be in this state. Such a law violates every principle of the constitution and Democratic government and should be tested in the courts.

"It is my intention to violate this law the moment it becomes effective. Knowing that you are as interested in preserving democracy as in granting PWA loans, I am asking your cooperation in my proposed plan.

"Will you authorize a federal representative to cooperate with me in this proposed violation?"

Peyton, addressing the house on personal privilege, said he "considered the law so violative of human rights that to obey it is to be vicious and to defy it to be virtuous."

He renounced his self-given title of "house jester." Peyton has repeatedly jibed at Long's dictatorship in humorous vein—and strongly excoriated the legislature's obedience to Long's dicta, and the presence of militia outside the legislature's doors.

"That bill (the PWA act) is one

CHARGE LINDBERGH INFLUENCED JURY

TRENTON, N. J., April 20.—(AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's counsel charged today that Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's daily presence at the Flemington trial "unduly influenced" the jury, which saw in him "a bereaved father for whose sorrow the world demanded a sacrifice."

The allegation was one of 143 "manifest errors" defense counsel filed with the clerk of the court of errors and appeals, the state's highest tribunal, which on June 20 will hear Hauptmann's appeal from conviction of the Lindbergh baby kidnap-murder. Papers were served also on Hunterdon County Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck, Jr.

Egbert Rosecrans, a member of defense staff, announced he would carry the appeal, if necessary, to the United States supreme court.

SHARE PRICES HIKE IN STRONG TRADING

NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP)—Share prices surged up $1 to $3 in the most vigorous Saturday buying in nearly a year today.

Transactions ran close to a million shares in the 2 hour trading session between the Good Friday holiday and the week-end, although the attendance in Wall Street was light, many traders having left town for the week end on Thursday.

Industrial shares set the pace, but virtually all groups participated in the striking bull movement, which lifted price averages within a few points of the year's high.

American Telephone rose about $3 to around $110; Chrysler $2 to above $38; U. S. Steel nearly as much to above $53; similar rise carried Case above $55; Westinghouse Electric rose more than $2 to around $41; Woolworth about $2 to around $59; Allied Chemical $3 to about $1.

FISHER ASSERTS HIGHWAY MONEY USED FOR VOTES

NEW ORLEANS, April 20.—(AP)—State Representative Joseph Fisher, staunch supporter of Senator Huey P. Long's state administration, testified in federal district court here today during his trial for alleged income tax evasion, that funds of the Louisiana Highway commission were used for political purposes during the 1931 campaign.

The swarthy Jefferson parish lawmaker related details to the jury of the expenditure of approximately $1,400 of highway funds to finance campaign workers who he said were seeking the election of "state ticket" candidates.

A jammed courtroom listened intently as Fisher described the disbursement of the payroll funds in an effort to prove that none of the proceeds of highway payroll checks went to make up a portion of his 1931 income, as charged by the government last week when 33 cancelled drafts were placed in the record.

Fisher readily acknowledged endorsing the names of "A. Crappel," "A. Belsom," and "T. Crappel," to whom the checks were issued, and told of cashing them and distributing the money to his political lieutenants.

The highway payroll testimony came late in the day after Fisher had denied he received anything like the $187,000 income during 1929, 1930, 1931 and 1932 charged to him by the government, on which he allegedly paid no tax and made no returns.

He was still on the witness stand when Judge Wayne G. Borah ordered a week-end recess. Defense Counsel Hugh M. Wilkinson indicated that he will complete direct examination of the defendant Monday morning. The remainder of Monday is expected to be devoted to cross examination, with the case likely going to the jury late Tuesday or early Wednesday.

SMITH IS NAMED RALLY PRESIDENT

Athens Man Elected To Direct School Contests Next Year

RUSTON, La., April 20.—(Special)—With the literary status of North Louisiana high schools having been determined in competitive tests at Louisiana Tech Friday, election of new officers of the rally association here Saturday morning concluded all activities of the meet, with the exception of athletics.

A. A. Smith of Athens was elected president of the North Louisiana High School Rally association, and J. A. Garrett of Collinston was named vice-president. They succeed H. L. Nobles of Gibsland, retiring president, and A. A. Smith, who was vice-president the past year. By request of members of the association, President G. W. Bond of Louisiana Tech has reappointed M. H. Folk, Jr., of the Tech faculty, as general secretary of the rally.

At the meeting of the rally officials Saturday morning, it was decided that next year girls' track events will be added to the rally, with one girl being permitted to enter only two events besides the relay. Members of boys' basketball teams were increased from 8 to 10.

Since Ouachita parish high school of Monroe had already cinched the Class A championship in the early literary tests of the rally Friday, the finals Friday night found Ruston and Minden in a close race for second place. Ruston edged into second, with 76 points, and Minden took third

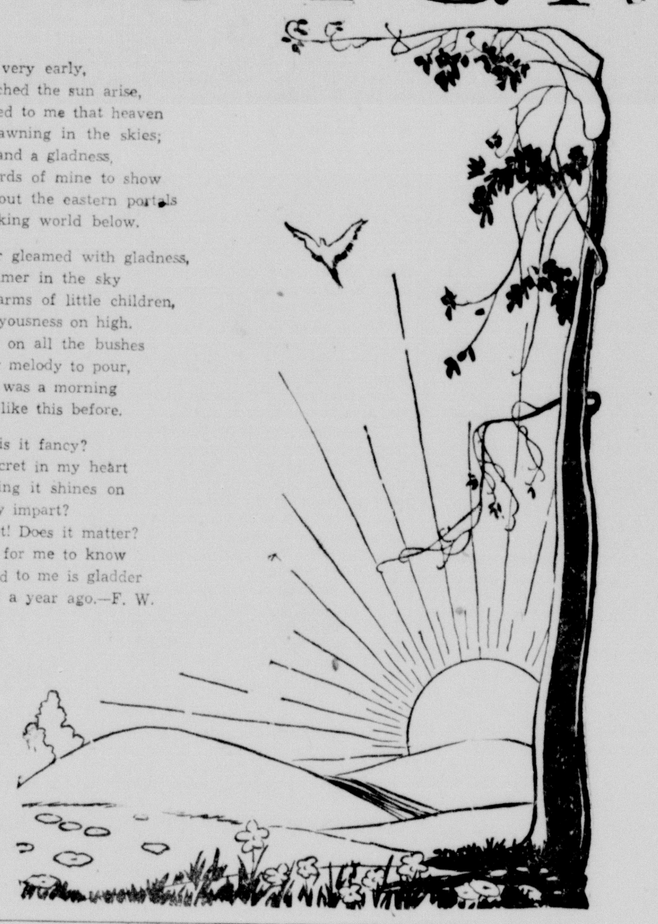
REGIONAL MEETINGS SPURRED BY G. O. P.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(AP)—While an extraordinary gathering here of Republican leaders today sang a theme of spurring regional meetings but steering away from candidates, it was disclosed coincidentally that an incipient presidential boom for Governor Alf Landon, of Kansas, had altered plans for holding a giant G. O. P. meeting in Kansas City.

No word of this shift came from the unusual party strategy meeting that gathered around a capitol luncheon table. Present among a score of prominent Republicans were five men mentioned as possible presidential candidates. It was one of the largest informal party rallies since the 1932 convention.

In other quarters, however, it was asserted that the theme of steering away from candidates at this stage of preparation for 1936 had led to plans for shifting the proposed rally of midwestern Republicans from Kansas City to either St. Louis, Minneapolis, Indianapolis or Chicago.

EASTER



I awakened very early,
And I watched the sun arise,
And it seemed to me that heaven
Must be dawning in the skies;
For a glory and a gladness,
Passing words of mine to show
Shone from out the eastern portals
On the waking world below.

All the water gleamed with gladness,
Every streamer in the sky
Seemed the arms of little children,
Flung in joyousness on high.
All the birds on all the bushes
Joined their melody to pour,
Surely never was a morning
Ushered in like this before.

Is it fact or is it fancy?
Does the secret in my heart
Unto everything it shines on
Spurious joy impart?
Ah, I care not! Does it matter?
'Tis enough for me to know
That the world to me is gladder
Than it was a year ago.—F. W.

LOCAL CHILDREN TO ENJOY EASTER EGG HUNT TODAY

200 Prizes Arranged By Teflis Grotto As Merchants' Gifts

Today promises to be the most joyous Easter celebration in many years for the boys and girls of the Twin Cities.

Two hundred prizes have been offered by local merchants for the most successful searchers for the 5,000 gaily colored eggs that will be hidden in various strategic points at Forsythe park, where fully as many children are expected to gather this afternoon at 2 o'clock to take part in the "egg hunt" sponsored by Teflis Grotto. Bill Perhamus, chairman of the committee on arrangements, expects the greatest gathering of children that has ever participated in the event.

Boys will hunt eggs on one part of the grounds and girls on another while the little kiddies five years and less will be given an opportunity equal to that of the others in another part of the park.

Boy Scouts will aid in placing the eggs early today and in directing traffic. No cars will be permitted in the vicinity of the egg hunt.

The grand prizes will be such as to be well worth the search, Mr. Perhamus said. The first grand prize for girls will be a diamond ring and the first prize for boys will be $10 in cash. The first grand prize for kiddies will consist of a huge rabbit filled with candy. Second prizes also are to be awarded.

Music will be furnished by two large sound trucks during the time the hunt is in progress.

Easter will also be notable in the churches of the city, all of which are to present elaborate services of music, and sermons will be suited to the gladsome Easter season. The music at St. Matthew's and Grace Episcopal church will be especially elaborate.

At 7:30 p. m. an Easter cantata, "Rabbonni," at the First Methodist church, will be presented by the united choirs of the First Presby-

Responsive to a widespread demand for more and brighter features, the Sunday World and News-Star today begins the publication of a complete section of eight pages of pictorial comedies, printed in color.

This feature marks another forward step in this newspaper's efforts to keep fully abreast of every requirement of progressive journalism. One of those requirements is the satisfying of a demand for entertainment as well as authentic information on every element of current interest.

The comic section of a newspaper is one that finds a responsive interest in the minds of adults as well as children—and it is for all classes of its readers that the new feature has been produced. It will be continued every Sunday.

Subscribers as well as transient patrons should be sure they receive with this issue the eight colored pages, which represent the work of some of the most celebrated comic artists in America today.

PRESIDENT WILL ATTEND CHURCH

White House Family To Lead Nation To Public Worship Today

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(AP)—Amid balmy weather that ended weeks of rain and cold, the capital prepared today for an Eastertide which will see signitaries from the president down attending church services.

On Monday will come the traditional egg rolling on the White House lawn—expected to attract such a large crowd of children that there may be little space for the eggs to roll.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt and members of their household have arranged to lead the nation in public worship. At St. Thomas' church, Mrs. Roosevelt plans also to go to sunrise

AMELIA'S FLIGHT TO MEXICO CITY STOPPED BY BUG

Tiny Insect In Her Eye Causes Noted Flier To Make Landing

MEXICO, D. F., April 20.—(AP)—A bug got in her eye, Amelia Earhart found to her sorrow today, and prevented a non-stop flight from Los Angeles to Mexico.

A tiny insect so blinded her, the famed conqueror of two oceans said as she arrived here today 13 and one-half hours after taking off from the California city, that she could not read her maps and had to land 60 miles short of her goal to get her bearings.

A cow pasture at Nopala, state of Hidalgo, provided an emergency landing field. There she found she was 100 miles off her course. She removed the bug, got her bearings and hopped off again for Mexico where 10,000 persons cheered as she landed.

Miss Earhart herself was disappointed at what she described as her "unsuccessful" 1,700-mile flight, intended to increase good will between Mexico and the United States.

As soon as she sees something of Mexico, she said shortly after landing at 1:27 p. m., local time, "I will try to do a better job of flying nonstop to New York." She also said she hopes to attempt the Los-Angeles-Mexico flight again.

The largest crowd since Lindbergh landed at the same field in 1927 had jammed the air field all morning. A gasp went up from the throng when an announcement from the presidential office stated she had made a forced landing at Nopala.

After a brief wait the announcement was rectified, still not making clear what had happened to her. She was more than an hour overdue, and a group of military planes which had set out to escort her to a landing had returned, unable to locate her.

Another brief wait and the original announcement was confirmed, with the added information that she had lost her bearings and had taken off

GERMANY PUSHES UPBUILDING OF ARMY AIR FORCE

Feverish Increase Centers On Gas, Planes And Personnel

HITLER STRIKES BACK

Says League Has No Right To Act As Judge Over Germans

(Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press)

BERLIN, April 20.—Reliable quarters today asserted intense military air activity "is rapidly placing the German army beyond undreamed of dimensions" since the announcement of conscription a month ago.

A noticeably feverish rearmament increase was concentrated on improving the reich's position as to gas, airplanes, personnel and the storage of materials already at hand.

New factories are being pushed ahead. Recruiting is progressing apace. War games are being played at the new airdromes. Intensified training is being given to special population groups. Not of the least importance is the propaganda; seemingly the people approve conscription as a patriotic duty.

One reliable quarter said that Germany now had 1,500,000 men in uniform, so that the beginning of conscription this autumn "will mean comparatively little, since by then the cream of able-bodied men will be soldiers and the inauguration of compulsory training will mostly be a move to round up the young unemployed."

In this connection it was significant that this last week the receivers of the dole were told that charity no longer could be given to unemployed men under 25. They were told that "other provisions are being made for you." Presumably this will mean a form of military activity and training.

NEW STATE BAR WILL BE TALKED

Louisiana Attorneys To Discuss Organization Set Up By Long

ALEXANDRIA, La., April 20.—(AP)—The "State Bar of Louisiana," created by the legislature in 1934 under one of Senator Huey Long's new statutes, will be one of the most vital subjects discussed in the annual convention of the Louisiana State Bar association here next Friday and Saturday.

The "State Bar of Louisiana," is headed by Attorney General Gaston L. Porterie and supercedes the Louisiana State Bar association in recommendations to the state supreme court on legal qualifications.

Walter J. Burke, of New Iberia, will deliver an address on the new association while former Representative J. Zach Spearing, of New Orleans, will speak on the past and future of the Louisiana State Bar association.

Scott M. Loftin, of Jacksonville, Fla., president of the American Bar association is expected to deliver the convention's keynote address on "The National Bar Program."

Dictator Given Authority Over PWA Grants And Vote Counting

Administration Foes Fight To Finish Although Without Hope

BATON ROUGE, La., April 20.—(AP)—The Louisiana legislature's fifth "dictator" special session was at an end tonight after granting Senator Huey P. Long, boss of the state's government, practically the only power he didn't have before—authority over PWA grants to localities and the ability to name the men who count the votes in state primaries.

And, by way of good measure, the law-makers complaisantly obeyed Long's orders and enacted legislation to prevent the senator's political enemies, the city officials of New Orleans, from readjusting that municipality's indebtedness in federal court, and punishing other political opponents.

Anti-Long legislators, hopelessly outvoted, fought to the last against the senator's measures, raising question of unconstitutionality, and declaring his legislation to place the obtaining of PWA funds under supervision of the state a "vicious" act.

The legislature's latest law enactment brought to a head the row between Long and Washington over federal work fund expenditures in Louisiana, and bills it passed to prevent any parish or municipality from incurring PWA indebtedness without consent of Long's state administration officials constituted a gage of battle thrown down to the national administration.

Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes has been considering cancelling all Louisiana PWA grants because of the legislation.

The finishing enactment touch to the PWA legislation was followed by declaration by an anti-Long representative that he had invited Secretary Ickes to "cooperate" with him in a deliberate violation of one of the PWA bills which would provide a mandatory jail sentence for any official to incur federal agency indebtedness without state consent.

Representative Rupert Peyton, Caddo, told the house in an impassioned address in which he cast off his self-assumed title of "house jester," that the PWA restriction was a violation of "every principle of the constitution," and that it was "his intention to violate the law the moment it became effective."

A bill to provide that primary election commissioners shall be named by the parish board of supervisors of election, two of the three members of which are appointed by Governor O. K. Allen, unfailingly responsive to Long's wishes, was finally enacted in the senate in accompaniment of hot debate for and against it.

Satisfied with the law-makers conformity to his wishes, Long immediately arranged to leave for Washington where he has stated he will deliver an address in the senate Monday blasting away at national administration senators and cabinet members.

Hardly had the bills been enrolled and signed by the presiding officers of the house and senate than Governor O. K. Allen affixed his signature to them.

They will become effective in 20 days, but the legislature on its opening night six days ago adopted resolutions to carry the PWA legislation and the bill to prevent the city of New Orleans from going into federal court bankruptcy effective immediately by declaring suspended any law that might prevent immediate operation.

Other acts passed included measures abolishing the office of assistant district attorney of East Baton Rouge, a political foe of Long's, cutting the office expenses of another political enemy, the East Baton Rouge clerk of court in half, and abolishing the status of the politically antagonistic civil sheriff of New Orleans as a member of the Orleans parish board of supervisors of election.

INCORRECT USES OF MINERAL OIL RAPPED

NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP)—Dr. Irving Graef, pathologist of Bellevue hospital, told the American Association of Pathologists and Bacteriologists today that mineral oils and animal fats drawn into the lungs of infants and adults had proved fatal in six cases of pneumonia.

Four other doctors cited similar cases in the past ten years.

Cod liver oil, described as good when taken into the stomach for bone building, was deadly when it entered the lungs. He cited one case to show that the oil had entered the lungs through forcing a reluctant child to swallow it by holding his nose.

Another doctor told of performing an autopsy on a man whose death was caused by mineral oil in the lungs.

Various mentholated mineral oils, dropped into the nose as a protection against colds, were denounced by one doctor as a "public menace."

Other doctors joined in the denunciation.

CHARGE LINDBERGH INFLUENCED JURY

TRENTON, N. J., April 20.—(AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's counsel charged today that Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's daily presence at the Flemington trial "unduly influenced" the jury, which saw in him "a bereaved father for whose sorrow the world demanded a sacrifice."

The allegation was one of 143 "manifest errors" defense counsel filed with the clerk of the court of errors and appeals, the state's highest tribunal, which on June 20 will hear Hauptmann's appeal from conviction of the Lindbergh baby kidnap-murder. Papers were served also on Hunterdon County Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck, Jr.

Egbert Rosecrans, a member of defense staff, announced he would carry the appeal, if necessary, to the United States supreme court.

BATON ROUGE, La., April 20.—(AP)—Rep. Rupert Peyton, anti-Long law-maker, today told the house of the Louisiana legislature that he had asked Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes to "cooperate" with him in an intentional violation of an act just passed by the legislature making is a jailable offense for any Lousianians from "obtaining a PWA loan."

The senate yesterday finally enacted an act providing a fine and a jail sentence not exceeding six months as penalty for incurring of local taxing district indebtedness to obtain PWA funds without state board consent.

Deploring that bill and other legislation enacted at the legislature's latest special session at Senator Huey P. Long's behest, Peyton told the house that he had written Ickes the following letter:

"Dear Secretary:

"The Louisiana legislature has enacted a law which forbids any citizen from conferring or obtaining a PWA loan without approval of the political powers that be in this state. Such a law violates every principle of the constitution and Democratic government and should be tested in the courts.

"It is my intention to violate this law the moment it becomes effective. Knowing that you are as interested in preserving democracy as in granting PWA loans, I am asking your cooperation in my proposed plan.

"Will you authorize a federal representative to cooperate with me in this proposed violation?"

Peyton, addressing the house on personal privilege, said he "considered the law so violative of human rights that to obey it is to be vicious and to defy it to be virtuous."

He renounced his self-given title of "house jester." Peyton has repeatedly jibed at Long's dictatorship in humorous vein—and strongly excoriated the legislature's obedience to Long's dicta, and the presence of militia outside the legislature's doors.

"That bill (the PWA act) is one

SHARE PRICES HIKE IN STRONG TRADING

NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP)—Share prices surged up $1 to $3 in the most vigorous Saturday buying in nearly a year today.

Transactions ran close to a million shares in the 2 hour trading session between the Good Friday holiday and the week-end, although the attendance in Wall Street was light, many traders having left town for the week end on Thursday.

Industrial shares set the pace, but virtually all groups participated in the striking bull movement, which lifted price averages within a few points of the year's high.

American Telephone rose about $3 to around $110; Chrysler $2 to above $38, U. S. Steel nearly as much to above $33; a similar rise carried Case above $55; Westinghouse Electric rose more than $2 to around $41; Woolworth about $2 to around $59; Allied Chemical $3 to about $1.

CCC CAMPS USE HOLSUM BREAD

High Quality Products Are Made By Iron Mountain Bakery

The high quality of the products of the Iron Mountain Bakery, Inc., on Harrison street, is attested by the fact that the United States government regularly uses the concern's products in six civilian conservation corps camps in northeast Louisiana.

The breads and other products of the local bakery establishment are made according to modern standards which require scientific methods, the best of ingredients, efficient employes, and specialized equipment, all of which combined produce a wholesome product of high nutritive value.

In addition to enjoying the distinction of being one of the oldest bakery concerns in the city, the firm, which was formed about 25 years ago, has the distinction of serving one of the most complete bakery coverages of the entire northeast Louisiana trade territory.

Holsum bread is the feature product of the bakery, which serves its trade territory with a variety of breads, including rye bread, buttermilk bread, raisin bread, whole wheat bread and cracked wheat bread. The latter bread is favored by persons following diets. It has honey as one of its ingredients.

The firm specializes in pies and also makes a variety of rolls.

The Iron Mountain Bakery, although old in business years, is housed in a modern building and is fully equipped with modern baking machinery.

Aviator With Rented Plane Being Hunted

ALAMEDA, Calif., April 20.—(AP)—Two government agencies hunted today for Richard Smith, 38-year-old Alameda aviator, who vanished into the skies in a rented plane early this week in company with Mrs. Doris Treathway, 21.

The district attorney's office late yesterday issued a grand theft warrant for Smith at the request of Franklin Rose, from whom he leased the plane for a short hop of "about an hour and a half," Carroll C. Doak, department of commerce inspector, asked all airports to hold Smith if he should appear.

Only once since Smith and Mrs. Treathway disappeared from the San Francisco bay airdrome here on Wednesday have they been reported. That was at Hollister, Calif., where they spent Wednesday night with friends.

which refuses to citizens or officials the right to even confer with federal officials on any PWA loan without first bowing before rulers of this political babel," Peyton said.

The Caddo law-maker said he had been known "as the jester of the house" and that he had thought he had deserved that title.

"Now I realize," he said, "that I have been deluded. My jests, although delivered as such appear amateurish beside the jokes that have been perpetrated here in serious vein. . . .

"Yes, my simple jests pale into insignificance and appear amateurish beside the jests that occur in this legislature.

"What a jest it is that we come here to these special sessions with no knowledge of what we will do and return to our homes and know not what we have done.

"What a jest it is that we concur in senate amendments which virtually rewrite original bills and never have a chance to read them until three or four weeks after we have cast our votes.

"What a jest it is that we meet at all when in fact all we do is to ratify what our lord and master wants us to do.

"What a jest it is that we rush bills through this legislature at the rate of one every two or three minutes, yet we have promised to seriously consider legislation.

"What a jest it is that we, claiming to be Democrats, have reduced our elections to what in reality are mere appointive proceedings.

"What a jest it is that in pretense of claiming our state's rights we seek to secure political slavery. This same argument was made by those who sought to perpetuate human slavery.

"What a jest it is that in this so-called free America we who are the elected representatives of a supposed to be free people are forced to walk down lanes of bayonets. Outside yonder door stands our soldiers armed with the sawed-off shotguns and rifles. I respect our soldiers and hold them blameless. Yonder stands the body guards armed watching every moment we are here. What a jest that such a spectacle exists outside of Soviet Russia or Hitler's Germany.

"Yes, they stand like the Centurion guards who watched over the tomb of our Lord and Savior on that first Easter morning.

"Yes, it is Eastertide—a time of 'peace on earth and good will toward all men!' What a jest it is that we are gathered here on Holy week to present this public spectacle.

"What a jest it is that we enacted moral purity of New Orleans and as our first law a bill to protect the then proceeded to enact spite legislation.

"Tomorrow is Easter and as we go to the shrines of worship of our creeds there to bow before the Prince of Peace may we forget that we have bowed here this week to the Apostle of Hate. It is my hope that you, my fellow members whom I love, will find solace there in your supplications.

"May we find forgiveness there for having created the situation which sent the soldiers to the East Baton Rouge courthouse a few nights ago to order away people peaceably assembled; to refuse unto the elected representatives of the people the right to meet in their courthouse.

"May we find forgiveness there for enacted measures to banish public officials from office whose only offense is political independence."

'SEND-A-DIME' SCHEME WIDENS

Officials Say Chain Letter Plan May Involve Everybody

DENVER, April 20.—(AP)—A weary postoffice inspector surveyed a column of figures tonight and concluded that the mail-jamming "send-a-dime and redistribute wealth" chain letter scheme soon may involve everyone who can read and write.

"You carry this thing through 12 turnovers and you have the astounding result that the letter will go to 305,175,770 persons," said the inspector, Roy E. Nelson.

Nelson was called into conference by Postmaster J. O. Stevic after the Denver postoffice was flooded with the letters. Stevic said the mail rush was "almost as bad as at Christmas."

Postal receipts have soared $20,000 in 12 days—and they're still on the climb.

"A little figuring showed me that if the chain is carried through without a break only 3,911 persons of the 305,175,770 will receive the reward that is promised, a cash sum totaling $1,562.50," Nelson said.

"The other 305,171,869 persons will receive nothing."

The chain letters first began appearing here about a week ago.

They ask the receiver to place his name on a list of names inclosed in the letter. The sender scratches off the top name and sends a dime to the address given in the top place. The sender's name is placed at the bottom of the list and he is asked to copy the letter and the list and to send it to five of his friends.

When his name reaches the top of the list, 15,625 persons who have received letters are supposed to have sent him a dime each, or a total of $1,562.50 in return for his dime—and five stamps.

Nelson said the scheme was illegal because it is against the law to solicit money through the mails and furthermore that it came under the classification of a lottery. He had a hard time convincing those participating.

One woman wrote the newspapers that Stevic was sticking his nose in where it didn't belong. Said she:

"He can mind his own business. President Roosevelt wants to redistribute wealth, doesn't he?"

Stevic said the letters are being delivered, because they cannot be detected. Nelson made no effort to stop delivery but said he was interested in tracking down the sponsors.

OBITUARY

SUTCLIFF FUNERAL

The funeral of Mrs. W. J. Sutcliff, 62, a resident of the Twin Cities for many years, who died early Friday morning at her residence at 222 South Riverfront street in West Monroe, was held at the home Saturday morning.

Rev. Martin Hebert, pastor of the First Methodist church, West Monroe, officiated, assisted by Rev. E. E. Huntsberry, pastor of the First Baptist church, West Monroe. Interment was in Hasley cemetery.

Mrs. Sutcliff was born in Jackson parish but in early childhood removed to West Monroe and had been a member of the First Methodist church since she was 16 years of age. At that time this church was located at Old Trenton.

She was active in church, social and charitable work and was highly esteemed. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Fred Grant and Mrs. Herbert Rinehart, both of West Monroe, two grandchildren and several brothers and sisters.

FISHER ASSERTS HIGHWAY MONEY USED FOR VOTES

if he had ever seen them before. Glancing through the pile hurriedly, Fisher replied that he had.

"Were the names that were placed on those checks ever meant to be the names of men who were to work for the highway department?" Wilkinson asked.

"To be truthful, no," Fisher responded.

Fisher testified that the checks were issued to Adonis Crappel, Taris Crappel and C. Belsom with the full understanding that they were to do campaign work.

"You see, Mr. Wilkinson, we were in the heat of a campaign at that time and my lieutenant, John Christian, came to my office one day and suggested that we put some men to work campaigning, saying the opposition was pretty stiff," Fisher said.

"Christian suggested that Alcee Belsom of Magnolia Village, be employed. I selected Adonis Crappel. George Thompson, (former mayor of Kenner, La.), then came to me and said that we needed someone on the other side of the river and so we put Taris Crappel there."

"Did you handle these funds?"

"Yes, sir. I endorsed the checks, got the money on them and distributed it to Thompson, Christian and Adonis Crappel, Thompson paid Taris Crappel and Christian paid Belsom."

"Did you get one cent out of any of those checks?"

"No, sir. In fact I dug into my pocket and got some money that went with the proceeds of the checks to pay for the campaigning."

"Now, Mr. Fisher, what have you to say as to the honesty or dishonesty, the propriety and impropriety of using payroll checks for those purposes?"

Chief of prosecution counsel Dan Moody interposed an objection which was sustained by the court, and the question went unanswered.

City Briefs

Garden leaders of home demonstration clubs of Ouachita parish held a meeting yesterday morning at the courthouse and discussed the essentials of a good garden, the value of a garden from health and economic viewpoints, fertilization and insect control. The garden leaders also decided to conduct a volunteer project of community garden meetings in the parish next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. It is planned to reached between 300 and 400 people with gardening information on those days.

The condition of Mrs. J. W. Blanchard, who has been seriously ill for about three weeks at her residence on DeSiard road, was critical yesterday.

A meeting of vocational agriculture teachers of north central Louisiana will be held here next Thursday, according to information received by E. R. Strahan, parish agricultural agent, from S. M. Jackson, of Baton Rouge, state supervisor of vocational agriculture.

It is expected that the meeting will be held at the courthouse.

Workings of the Home Owners' Loan corporation, its purposes and how it functions, were explained by John McCormick, of the Monroe district office staff, before the West Monroe Kiwanis club at its last regular meeting, held in the basement of the First Methodist church in West Monroe. Solos by Jack Liner, with piano accompaniment by Miss Mary Grace Lawn were entertainment features of the program.

Miss Lou McBride, of 509 Catalpa street, who underwent a serious operation at St. Francis sanitarium the past week, is said to be recovering nicely. Visitors will be permitted to call after Monday.

Ten Ouachita parish couples obtained marriage licenses yesterday, the eve of Easter, at the office of the clerk of parish court.

ANTHONY STILL HELD

Arrested by police Saturday, April 13, and allegedly implicated in the robbery of three local stores, Merrill Anthony, 18, of Monroe, was still being held in the city jail yesterday. An investigation of his activities was being continued by police. At the time the youth was arrested, he was said to have had in his possession 106 packages of cigarettes stolen from the North Side pharmacy, Serv-U grocery and Clark's pharmacy.

"No more tired, let-down feeling for me"

"I reasoned that my red blood corpuscle strength was low and I simply took a course of S.S.S. Tonic and built it back."

IT is all so simple and reasonable. If your physical let-down is caused by lowered red blood corpuscles—which is all too frequent—then S.S.S. Tonic is waiting to help you . . . and will, unless you have a serious organic trouble that demands a physician or surgeon.

Remember, S.S.S. is not just a so-called "tonic." It is a tonic specially designed to stimulate gastric secretions, and also has the mineral elements so very, very necessary in rebuilding the oxygen-carrying red corpuscles in the blood.

This two-fold purpose is important. Digestion is improved . . . food is better utilized . . . and thus you are enabled to better "carry on" without exhaustion—as you should naturally.

You may have the will-power to be "up and doing" but unless your blood is in top notch form you are not fully yourself and you may remark, "I wonder why I tire so easily."

Let S.S.S. help build back your blood tone . . . if your case is not exceptional, you should soon enjoy again the satisfaction of appetizing food . . . sound sleep . . . steady nerves . . . a good complexion . . . and renewed strength.

S.S.S. is sold by all drug stores in two sizes. The $2 economy size is twice as large as the $1.25 regular size and is sufficient for two weeks treatment. Begin on the uproad today. © S.S.S. Co.

CCC CAMPS USE HOLSUM BREAD

High Quality Products Are Made By Iron Mountain Bakery

The high quality of the products of the Iron Mountain Bakery, Inc., 306 Harrison street, is attested by the fact that the United States government regularly uses the concern's products in six civilian conservation corps camps in northeast Louisiana.

The breads and other products of the local bakery establishment are made according to modern standards which require scientific methods, the best of ingredients, efficient employes and specialized equipment, all of which combined produce a wholesome product of high nutritive value.

In addition to enjoying the distinction of being one of the oldest bakery concerns in the city, the firm, which was formed about 25 years ago, has the distinction of serving one of the most complete bakery coverages of the entire northeast Louisiana trade territory.

Holsum bread is the feature product of the bakery, which serves its trade territory with a variety of breads, including rye bread, buttermilk bread, raisin bread, whole wheat bread and cracked wheat bread. The latter bread is favored by persons following diets. It has honey as one of its ingredients.

The firm specializes in pies and also makes a variety of rolls.

The Iron Mountain Bakery, although old in business years, is located in a modern building and is fully equipped with modern baking machinery.

Aviator With Rented Plane Being Hunted

ALAMEDA, Calif., April 20.—(AP)—Two government agencies hunted today for Richard Smith, 38-year-old Alameda aviator, who vanished into the skies in a rented plane early this week in company with Mrs. Doris Treathway, 21.

The district attorney's office late yesterday issued a grand theft warrant for Smith at the request of Franklin Rose, from whom he leased the plane for a short hop of "about an hour and a half." Carroll C. Doak, department of commerce inspector, asked all airports to hold Smith if he should appear.

Only once since Smith and Mrs. Treathway disappeared from the San Francisco bay airdrome here on Wednesday have they been reported. That was at Hollister, Calif., where they spent Wednesday night with friends.

A BASEBALL FAN FOR A DAY

PEYTON PLANNING TO TEST NEW LAW

which refuses to citizens or officials the right to even confer with federal officials on any PWA loan without first bowing before rulers of this political babel," Peyton said.

The Caddo law-maker said he had been known "as the jester of the house" and that he had thought he had deserved that title.

"Now I realize," he said, "that I have been deluded. My jests, although delivered as such appear amateurish beside the jokes that have been perpetrated here in serious vein. * * *

"Yes, my simple jests pale into insignificance and appear amateurish beside the jests that occur in this legislature.

"What a jest it is that we come here to these special sessions with no knowledge of what we will do and return to our homes and know not what we have done.

"What a jest it is that we concur in senate amendments which virtually rewrite original bills and never have a chance to read them until three or four weeks after we have cast our votes.

"What a jest it is that we meet at all when in fact all we do is to ratify what our lord and master wants us to do.

"What a jest it is that we rush bills through this legislature at the rate of one every two or three minutes, yet we have promised to seriously consider legislation.

"What a jest it is that we, claiming to be Democrats, have reduced our elections to what in reality are mere appointive proceedings.

"What a jest it is that in pretense of claiming our state's rights we seek to secure political slavery. This same argument was made by those who sought to perpetuate human slavery.

"What a jest it is that in this so-called free America we who are the elected representatives of a supposed to be free people are forced to walk down lanes of bayonets. Outside yonder door stands our soldiers armed with the sawed-off shotguns and rifles. I respect our soldiers and hold them blameless. Yonder stands the body guards armed watching every moment we are here. What a jest that such a spectacle exists outside of Soviet Russia or Hitler's Germany.

"Yes, they stand like the Centurion guards who watched over the tomb of our Lord and Savior on that first Easter morning.

"Yes, it is Eastertide—a time of 'peace on earth and good will toward all men!' What a jest it is that we are gathered here on Holy week to present this public spectacle.

"What a jest it is that we enacted moral purity of New Orleans and as our first law a bill to protect the then proceeded to enact spite legislation.

"Tomorrow is Easter and as we go to the shrines of worship of our creeds there to bow before the Prince of Peace may we forget that we have bowed here this week to the Apostle of Hate. It is my hope that you, my fellow members whom I love, will find solace there in your supplications.

"May we find forgiveness there for having created the situation which sent the soldiers to the East Baton Rouge courthouse a few nights ago to order away people peaceably assembled; to refuse unto the elected representatives of the people the right to meet in their courthouse.

"May we find forgiveness there for enacted measures to banish public officials from office whose only offense is political independence."

City Briefs

Garden leaders of home demonstration clubs of Ouachita parish held a meeting yesterday morning at the courthouse and discussed the essentials of a good garden, the value of a garden from health and economic viewpoints, fertilization and insect control. The garden leaders also decided to conduct a volunteer project of community garden meetings in the parish next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. It is planned to reached between 300 and 400 people with gardening information on those days.

The condition of Mrs. J. W. Blanchard, who has been seriously ill for about three weeks at her residence on DeSiard road, was critical yesterday.

'SEND-A-DIME' SCHEME WIDENS

Officials Say Chain Letter Plan May Involve Everybody

DENVER, April 20.—(AP)—A weary postoffice inspector surveyed a column of figures tonight and concluded that the mail-jamming "send-a-dime and redistribute wealth" chain letter scheme soon may involve everyone who can read and write.

"You carry this thing through 12 turnovers and you have the astounding result that the letter will go to 305,175,770 persons," said the inspector, Roy E. Nelson.

Nelson was called into conference by Postmaster J. O. Stevic after the Denver postoffice was flooded with the letters. Stevic said the mail rush was "almost as bad as at Christmas."

Postal receipts have soared $20,000 in 12 days—and they're still on the climb.

"A little figuring showed me that if the chain is carried through without a break only 3,911 persons of the 305,175,770 will receive the reward that is promised, a cash sum totaling $1,562.50," Nelson said.

"The other 305,171,869 persons will receive nothing."

The chain letters first began appearing here about a week ago.

They ask the receiver to place his name on a list of names inclosed in the letter. The sender scratches off the top name and sends a dime to the address given in the top place. The sender's name is placed at the bottom of the list and he is asked to copy the letter and the list and to send it to five of his friends.

When his name reaches the top of the list, 15,625 persons who have received letters are supposed to have sent him a dime each, or a total of $1,562.50 in return for his dime—and five stamps.

Nelson said the scheme was illegal because it is against the law to solicit money through the mails and furthermore that it came under the classification of a lottery. He had a hard time convincing those participating.

One woman wrote the newspapers that Stevic was sticking his nose in where it didn't belong. Said she:

"He can mind his own business. President Roosevelt wants to redistribute wealth, doesn't he?"

Stevic said the letters are being delivered, because they cannot be detected. Nelson made no effort to stop delivery but said he was interested in tracking down the sponsors.

OBITUARY

SUTCLIFF FUNERAL

The funeral of Mrs. W. J. Sutcliff, 62, a resident of the Twin Cities for many years, who died early Friday morning at her residence at 222 South Riverfront street in West Monroe, was held at the home Saturday morning.

Rev. Martin Hebert, pastor of the First Methodist church, West Monroe, officiated, assisted by Rev. E. E. Huntsberry, pastor of the First Baptist church, West Monroe. Interment was in Hasley cemetery.

Mrs. Sutcliff was born in Jackson parish but in early childhood removed to West Monroe and had been a member of the First Methodist church since she was 16 years of age. At that time this church was located at Old Trenton.

She was active in church, social and charitable work and was highly esteemed. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Fred Grant and Mrs. Herbert Rinehart, both of West Monroe, two grandchildren and several brothers and sisters.

Summerfield won the Class B championship, with 51 points. The other winners of the B group include Choudrant, 39; Gibsland, 38, and Athens, 34. These standings were computed in the literary events, and the finals had no effect on the rank.

FISHER ASSERTS HIGHWAY MONEY USED FOR VOTES

if he had ever seen them before. Glancing through the pile hurriedly, Fisher replied that he had.

"Were the names that were placed on those checks ever meant to be the names of men who were to work for the highway department?" Wilkinson asked.

"To be truthful, no," Fisher responded.

Fisher testified that the checks were issued to Adonis Crappel, Taris Crappel and C. Belsom with the full understanding that they were to do campaign work.

"You see, Mr. Wilkinson, we were in the heat of a campaign at that time and my lieutenant, John Christian, came to my office one day and suggested that we put some men to work campaigning, saying the opposition was pretty stiff," Fisher said. "Christian suggested that Alcee Belsom of Magnolia Village, be employed. I selected Adonis Crappel. George Thompson, (former mayor of Kenner, La.), then came to me and said that we needed someone on the other side of the river and so we put Taris Crappel there."

"Did you handle these funds?"

"Yes, sir. I endorsed the checks, got the money on them and distributed it to Thompson, Christian and Adonis Crappel, Thompson paid Taris Crappel and Christian paid Belsom."

"Did you get one cent out of any of those checks?"

"No, sir. In fact I dug into my pocket and got some money that went with the proceeds of the checks to pay for the campaigning."

"Now, Mr. Fisher, what have you to say as to the honesty or dishonesty, the propriety and impropriety of using payroll checks for those purposes?"

Chief of prosecution counsel Dan Moody interposed an objection which was sustained by the court, and the question went unanswered.

MINISTER WILL RUN FOR SENATE

Rev. R. W. Rhodes Of Farmerville Announces For State Post

FARMERVILLE, La., April 20.—(Special)—Rev. R. W. Rhodes, of Farmerville, is the first candidate to announce for the state senate at the January, 1936, primary from the 28th district comprising Union, Morehouse, Lincoln and West Carroll parishes.

Rev. Rhodes is a Baptist minister, having preached for 21 years, has been engaged in farming operations. He was born 42 years ago in Union parish about 15 miles from here.

Present senators from this district are E. B. Robinson, of Bernice, and Leo Terzia, of Bastrop, both being allied with the political faction now in control of state affairs.

SCHOOL NEWS

WISNER

WISNER, La., April 20.—(Special)—According to information disclosed here the honor students of the Wisner high school graduation class this year will be as follows:

Ella Mae Turner, valedictorian; Jewell Thornhill, salutatorian, and Laura Martin, third place; Edward King, fourth place, and Cecil Brewer, Jr., fifth place.

During the past week the chemistry classes of the local high school visited the chemical water testing plant at Fisher Lumber corporation, which proved very interesting for the pupils.

Funds with which expenses of the 37-pupil party to Pineville will be paid were derived from the rendition of a play by pupils of Miss Gladys Roach.

In the event any funds are left over from the Pineville trip this will be placed in the music fund for 1935-36, which proposes to inaugurate a movement of "music in every public school in Louisiana in the form of phonographs, radios and other instruments.

CHOUDRANT

CHOUDRANT, La., April 20.—(Special)—The senior class of Choudrant high school was feted at a class party by Mrs. Leslie Pregreen here Wednesday afternoon. Games and contests were played and music was rendered by Leonard and Rufus White.

SHERROUSE

Sherrouse school won distinction at the state P.-T. A. convention in Alexandria. A certificate for being standard and superior for three years, an honor scroll for the large percentage of subscriptions to magazines, and special notice of the publicity book, made members justly proud of their association.

While the support and cooperation of each member made these honors possible, Mrs. W. S. Vincent, principal, stated that the efforts of the special chairmen should be recognized. These are: Mrs. Roland Seigle, chairman of standard and superior associations; Mrs. H. M. Linquist, chairman of publications; Mrs. H. M. James, chairman of publicity.

The hospitality chairman, Mrs. John P. McCarthy, was a delegate to the convention and conveyed many members and their friends to the convention city.

DODSON

DODSON, La., April 20.—(Special)—The Dodson high school debating team has just closed a very successful season, according to an announcement made by J. G. Canterbury, principal.

The affirmative team, composed of Leah Mae Canterbury, daughter of the school principal, and Margie Cagle, met with unusual success in disposing of five opponents, representing high schools at Boyce, Glenmora, LeCompte, St. Mary's academy and Natchitoches. The negative team of George Roberts, Jr., and Eric Waller put up some good oratorical skirmishes but hardly equaled the record of the affirmative team.

Dodson's debating team is affiliated with the Louisiana debating league and is the only high school in Winn parish sponsoring such an organization.

BERNICE

BERNICE, La., April 20.—(Special)—A literary school, specializing in spelling, has been opened by Mrs. Rela Guillott in the Bernice high school auditorium. Classes are held each Tuesday and Friday night.

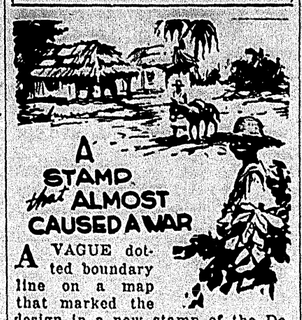
A STAMPING CORNER

By W. J. KIRBY



A VAGUE dotted boundary line on a map that marked the design in a new stamp of the Dominican Republic in 1900 almost brought that country to a clash of arms with its neighbor, Haiti.

The boundary, cried the aroused Haitians, encroached upon their territory. Only a quick disavowal by the Dominican government prevented actual conflict between the inhabitants of the two West Indian countries.

Officially, the blame was placed upon the engraver.

By W. J. Kirby

The initial printing order for the Connecticut Tercentenary stamp calls for 75,000,000 stamps, which means that, should another order not be placed, this will be a very limited issue. It is hoped that this stamp will be placed on sale at the Monroe postoffice soon after its issuance, as Postmaster Wooten has promised the Twin City Stamp club that these commemorative issues will be secured locally in the future.

Advices from Washington forecast a stamp for the California-Pacific International Exposition, which opens at San Diago on May 20. Such exposi tions have caused a stamp, or stamps, to be issued in the past, and with the department doing its utmost to pull itself "out of the red," we really expect such an issue.

The Monroe Junior Stamp club had 15 members present at its last meeting. Following a short business session, interesting talks were made by Brooks Stein, Junior McDonald and Buddy Loeser. An exchange of stamps is a voluable feature of each meeting of the club.

The exhibition of the Twin City Stamp club has been postponed until May 23. While the meeting of the club will not be open to the public, the exhibits will be placed in a down-town show window for several days, where they may be viewed by the public. President J. W. Cunningham, Clarence Atkinson, L. J. Hunnicutt and W. J. Kirby have been appointed to look after details of the exhibition.

2 Negroes Arrested On License Charges

Scott Welch and Ike Watson, negroes, each charged with operating a taxicab without a permit, bond or license, were arrested by police yesterday and placed in the city jail.

Earlier in the week, Sam Caldwell, negro, was convicted in the city court of a similar offense and was fined $30.

Complaints against the negroes were made by taxicab operators who have obtained the required licenses, permits or bonds.

W. L. Whiten was arrested in a negro residential section and charged with peddling without a license. Police were also detaining him for investigation.

ELIZABETH ARDEN'S EIGHT HOUR CREAM

Is indispensable for an oily skin

Here is good news for you! Eight Hour Cream is just the preparation for combatting an oily skin. And it works so quickly...hence its name.

Smooth it on at night...first, thoroughly cleansing and toning your skin, of course. In the morning you will be able to see the improvement. Your skin will be softer, finer...the oily look will be less evident...and will soon disappear altogether. And your make-up will stay on smoothly. Such a sigh of gratitude and relief!

It is good to know, that Eight Hour Cream causes eruptions to vanish quickly and is excellent for pimples and blackheads. It is marvelous, too, for the relief of sunburn.

Elizabeth Arden's Eight Hour Cream comes in two sizes in a lovely opal jar, $1.75

MINISTER WILL RUN FOR SENATE

FARMERVILLE, La., April 20.—(Special)—Rev. R. W. Rhodes, of Farmerville, is the first candidate to announce for the state senate at the January, 1936, primary from the 28th district comprising Union, Morehouse, Lincoln and West Carroll parishes.

Rev. Rhodes is a Baptist minister, having preached for 21 years, has been engaged in farming operations. He was born 42 years ago in Union parish about 15 miles from here.

Present senators from this district are E. B. Robinson, of Bernice, and Leo Terzia, of Bastrop, both being allied with the political faction now in control of state affairs.

SCHOOL NEWS

WISNER

WISNER, La., April 20.—(Special)—According to information disclosed here the honor students of the Wisner high school graduation class this year will be as follows:

Ella Mae Turner, valedictorian; Jewell Thornhill, salutatorian, and Laura Martin, third place; Edward King, fourth place, and Cecil Brewer, Jr., fifth place.

During the past week the chemistry classes of the local high school visited the chemical water testing plant at Fisher Lumber corporation, which proved very interesting for the pupils.

Funds with which expenses of the 37-pupil party to Pineville will be paid were derived from the rendition of a play by pupils of Miss Gladys Roach.

In the event any funds are left over from the Pineville trip this will be placed in the music fund for 1935-36, which proposes to inaugurate a movement of "music in every public school in Louisiana in the form of phonographs, radios and other instruments.

SHERROUSE

Sherrouse school won distinction at the state P.-T. A. convention in Alexandria. A certificate for being standard and superior for three years, an honor scroll for the large percentage of subscriptions to magazines, and special notice of the publicity book, made members justly proud of their association.

While the support and cooperation of each member made these honors possible, Mrs. W. S. Vincent, principal, stated that the efforts of the special chairmen should be recognized. These are: Mrs. Roland Seigle, chairman of standard and superior associations; Mrs. H. M. Linquist, chairman of publications; Mrs. H. M. James, chairman of publicity.

The hospitality chairman, Mrs. John P. McCarthy, was a delegate to the convention and conveyed many members and their friends to the convention city.

DODSON

DODSON, La., April 20.—(Special)—The Dodson high school debating team has just closed a very successful season, according to an announcement made by J. G. Canterbury, principal.

The affirmative team, composed of Leah Mae Canterbury, daughter of the school principal, and Margie Cagle, met with unusual success in disposing of five opponents, representing high schools at Boyce, Glenmora, LeCompte, St. Mary's academy and Natchitoches. The negative team of George Roberts, Jr., and Eric Waller put up some good oratorical skirmishes but hardly equaled the record of the affirmative team.

Dodson's debating team is affiliated with the Louisiana debating league and is the only high school in Winn parish sponsoring such an organization.

A STAMPING CORNER

By W. J. KIRBY

A VAGUE dotted boundary line on a map that marked the design in a new stamp of the Dominican Republic in 1900 almost brought that country to a clash of arms with its neighbor, Haiti.

The boundary, cried the aroused Haitians, encroached upon their territory. Only a quick disavowal by the Dominican government prevented actual conflict between the inhabitants of the two West Indian countries.

Officially, the blame was placed upon the engraver.

By W. J. Kirby

The initial printing order for the Connecticut Tercentenary stamp calls for 75,000,000 stamps, which means that, should another order not be placed, this will be a very limited issue. It is hoped that this stamp will be placed on sale at the Monroe postoffice soon after its issuance, as Postmaster Wooten has promised the Twin City Stamp club that these commemorative issues will be secured locally in the future.

Advices from Washington forecast a stamp for the California-Pacific International Exposition, which opens at San Diago on May 20. Such expositions have caused a stamp, or stamps, to be issued in the past, and with the department doing its utmost to pull itself "out of the red," we really expect such an issue.

The Monroe Junior Stamp club had 15 members present at its last meeting. Following a short business session, interesting talks were made by Brooks Stein, Junior McDonald and Buddy Loeser. An exchange of stamps is a voluable feature of each meeting of the club.

The exhibition of the Twin City Stamp club has been postponed until May 23. While the meeting of the club will not be open to the public, the exhibits will be placed in a down-town show window for several days, where they may be viewed by the public. President J. W. Cunningham, Clarence Atkinson, L. J. Hunnicutt and W. J. Kirby have been appointed to look after details of the exhibition.

2 Negroes Arrested On License Charges

Scott Welch and Ike Watson, negroes, each charged with operating a taxicab without a permit, bond or license, were arrested by police yesterday and placed in the city jail.

Earlier in the week, Sam Caldwell, negro, was convicted in the city court of a similar offense and was fined $30.

Complaints against the negroes were made by taxicab operators who have obtained the required licenses, permits or bonds.

W. L. Whiten was arrested in a negro residential section and charged with peddling without a license. Police were also detaining him for investigation.

Easter Day

The great Christian festival once more centers attention, if only for the day, on the life and the events that Easter commemorates. The world looks back 1,900 years on the life of an obscure Galilean carpenter.

What did He do that produced consequences so momentous for mankind? Not a great deal in a material way. But His soul was so on fire with love for his fellowmen, with a devotion to a way of life that would establish the kingdom of God on earth, that the fire spread to those with whom he associated, and through them to the world.

While He was in a sense a child of His time, as all must be, there was a universality and timelessness in His soul that gave Him mastery of the ages. Through the centuries that have passed since the tragedy on Golgotha, ardent spirits have drunk of His inspiration and have gone out to move vast numbers of people.

"The trouble with Christianity," says Bernard Shaw, "is that it has never been tried." True, the world would not be in its present plight if it had been dominated by His spirit.

The Golden Rule He gave is only a general precept. It has been criticized as affording no real basis in a complex civilization for the settlement of profound domestic and international differences. When both sides believe they are right, how can the admonition, "Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them," help compose the dispute?

Yet the spirit of the Golden Rule, the spirit of generous love and sympathy, would be a universal solvent of problems if it could be sincerely applied.

So Easter will have value to us if we grasp the ideals it brings to our minds so dramatically; if we see a little more clearly that blind adherence to self-interest in the long run courts disaster; that salvation for the world as for individuals lies in following the path He laid out so long ago.

THE LESSON IN A MASTER

The two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of Johann Sebastian Bach, celebrated recently, came at a time when the public was better able than ever before to appreciate the work of this great musical composer, who many believe was the greatest of them all. Bach has always had his worshippers but his music has been widely assumed to be beyond the appreciation of the musically untrained. Even his own generation, and those immediately following, did not rate him at his full worth. Mendelssohn, a century later, is given credit for making the musical world understand what a great creative artist Bach was. Schumann said music owes almost as great a debt to him as a religion owes to its founder.

Lately appreciation of Bach has grown to the proportion, but not the ephemeralness, of a vogue. That is largely due to the expanding understanding and enjoyment of music. Every way we turn, music is in the air; some good, some bad, some commonplace. We hear so much of it that the commonplace palls. Only great music will stand constant repetition. So the great masters come into their own.

There is a lesson in Bach's history for those who are interested in the development of music. It took five generations of musicians to produce him. His great-great-grandfather, Veit Bach, is generally considered the creator of the Bach musical tradition. He was a baker and miller who played the zither to the accompaniment of his mill-stones. Veit's son, Hans, a carpet maker by trade made music his profession. Hans' genius descended through his son and grandson, to Johann Sebastian, in whom it flowered most brilliantly.

It will take more than one generation to produce a musical America. But we are on our way. American talent is about to receive greater encouragement. With patience and steadiness this development can go far and fast.

'THE DUTY OF THE VICTORS'

Alfred A. Stacey, nationl commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, believes that the federal government should pay Civil War pensions to veterans of the Confederate armies as well as to Union men.

This, says Commander Stacey, would not only be a humanitarian act; it would help to remove the last vestiges of bitterness, and it would seal the harmony that now exists between one-time enemies. Such a move, he says, is "the duty of the victors."

Precisely 70 years have passed since the men in blue and gray laid down their arms. The hatred and suspicion of those days are almost dead, by now.

What more fitting way would there be for the country to symbolize this fact than to do as this old soldier suggests and put the Confederate veterans on the pension rolls?

More Truth Than Poetry

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

THE PIONEER

While still a snowflake, here and there,
Came sailing down the sky,
When all the boughs were bleak and bare
And chill winds whistled by,
Before the robin winged his flight
To hail the coming May,
The little shining aconite
Burst bravely by the way,
And starred the damp, half sleeping mold
With tiny blooms of glowing gold.

The violets were hidden deep
Beneath the sodden ground,
The trilliums still were half asleep,
No bloodroot could be found,
Yet stir a leaf-stalk as you pass
When spring is in the skies,
And from the edges of the grass
An aconite doth rise,
And soon its brothers, one by one,
Have struggled forth to meet the sun.

Ere long they'll all be on parade
Among the garden trees,
To flutter in the sun and shade
And lure the singing bees;
But, while the seasons drift along,
While summer takes her flight,
I'll chant a little grateful song
To young Miss Aconite.
Forever may she reappear,

A 'Third Economy'

By BRUCE CATTON

New ways of looking at the unemployment problem are rare. Rexford Tugwell seems to have provided one the other day in his speech at Rochester, N. Y., when he suggested that the unemployed constitute in themselves a great national resource which the country might as well start using.

Mr. Tugwell's point is simple. In addition to depression unemployment, we have technological unemployment—men displaced from their jobs by improvement in productive technique rather than by hard times.

Even when prosperity returns, a large number of these men won't be able to go back to work. They'll be with us in good times as well as bad—skilled and industrious workmen who want nothing under the sun except a chance to work.

It is Mr. Tugwell's idea that these men be used in what he terms a "third economy"—a system half way between Socialism and individualism. The government would put them to work on projects which would not be done by private enterprise, and which would be of benefit to the country as a whole.

Such projects would include the civilian conservation corps, a gigantic slum-clearance program, checking of soil erosion, provision of sanitary and recreational facilities that are now lacking, development of reclamation works, and possibly some large-scale scheme for resettlement of the under-privileged.

All this is worth thinking about, because it reverses our ordinary attitude toward unemployment. We look on it as a sad and expensive responsibility; this plan would have us see it as a great opportunity.

This country is enormous, and it is more richly blessed by nature than any similar place on earth. It can be turned into a veritable garden spot, where human life can be richer and freer than anything we have yet dreamed of. The possibilities are here; all we need do is exploit them.

And that is just another way of saying that there is work enough in America to keep us all busy for generations to come. All we need do is go after it.

Until every American family occupies a modern, up-to-date home, until every region is served by broad, smooth highways, until every river has been harnessed and controlled and every farming region has been freed from threat of flood and wind, until our marvelous productive plant has given an abundance of necessities to every citizen—until that day comes, it is silly for us to say that there is no work for the jobless.

Mr. Tugwell's idea calls our attention to this fact. The work is waiting to be done, and we have millions of men who ask nothing but the chance to do it. Seen in this way, unemployment is a challenge and an opportunity.

New Deal In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON — Blue skies for breakfast, bright sunshine for lunch and blizzards for dinner—

Spring fever Monday, frostbite Tuesday, wet feet Wednesday—

What can you expect from a capital with weather like that? Possibly every other town in the country is having similar experience and similar reactions. But Washingtonians insist their local brand is unique.

No scientific study has ever been made of the effect of these cockeyed climatic zigzags and reversals on the decisions and actions of those who govern our nation. It probably is an enormous one.

Of course everybody knows that early summer heat here always speeds adjournment of congress whereafter all Washington's women and children are packed off to mountains and beaches just as if the descending heat waves were so many murderous Indians and the official community goes misanthropic and is prone to resort to the bottle.

But these hot-and-cold springs keep all hands confused. If the weather man can't make up his mind, why squawk if a president and congress can't? Many folks are sent to bed with colds when they should be up and saving the country, simply because they were caught downtown in a snowstorm without overcoats.

And weather talk is far more wasteful. Instead of a mere "Nice day, huh?" you have to spend about five minutes expressing yourself.

Other Society Notes

Arthur Mullen, celebrated lobbyist and Nebraska political boss, and William B. Shearer, celebrated lobbyist credited with busting up the Geneva naval reduction conference of 1927 on behalf of American shipbuilders, greeted each other heartily in the Mayflower hotel lobby the other night. A notable occasion! . . . Alice Longworth dashed up to Chief Justice Hughes at a White House reception to tell him the great gold clause decision "was pragmatic sanctions." She explained this means "a highly practical way of getting oneself out of a jam." Alice is famous as a local wit. . . . Dr. Ernest Gruening, who as boss of territories and possessions, is responsible for the government's Bluebeard Castle hotel in the Virgin Islands, doesn't mind having it known that Edna St. Vincent Millay has a cottage nearby and that Douglas Fairbanks and Lady Ashley recently were guests at the hotel itself.

Huey! Huey! Nuff Sed

Our newsboys here no longer bother to look at their headlines. They just go through the streets shrieking "Huey Long! Huey Long!"—and sell a lot of papers. . . . Were They Jarred!

Two attractive gals, trusted aides of two famous New Dealers, were sent motoring around the country to check up on certain federal programs and popular reactions. They started approaching strangers in one town and were promptly—but only for a few minutes—picked up for "soliciting." I'd get killed if I told you who they are. . . . Senator Joe Robinson, who bosses the senate for Roosevelt as well as he knows how, carries a cane on trips between the capitol and senate office building. . . . Borah carries a pigskin brief-case and always walks around the office building for exercise on his return from legislating.

Holt In Fast Company

Senator-Elect Rush Holt of West Virginia, who gets floor privilege, salary, clerk hire, office, and patronage even though he can't be a real senator until he becomes 30 years old in June, has become chummy with Huey and Bilbo of Mississippi, though Huey and Bilbo aren't that way with each other.

Roosevelt used to address General Johnson as "Hughie." But not any more. For obvious phonetic reasons.

Jim Farley and Emil Hurja, the Democratic political bosses, were eating seafood the other night at Harvey's—where Abe Lincoln used to like to inhale oysters. Nearly every other person in the place came up to speak to them.

NEW LINCOLNS TO BE SHOWN MONDAY

A notable display of the new seven-passenger Lincoln sedan, described as "the finest modern example of the coachmaker's and the engineer's art, will begin Monday morning at the Milner-Fuller Co., Inc., showrooms, 212 Walnut street.

J. F. Knoff, Lincoln division manager of the New Orleans branch, who is in charge of the display, said, in announcing the showing: "This Lincoln car combines the best of modern design with a dignity which is all its own. Because of its new designing, there is greater room, as well as greater comfort in the new Lincoln. Within the car are many refinements as well as luxurious appointments for the comfort and convenience of passengers. The famous V-12 cylinder is now placed forward of the frame, so that the weight of the rear-seat passengers is poised ahead of the axle rather than directly over it. The new Lincoln represents a distinct advance over its illustrious predecessors and should be seen to be appreciated."

The public is invited to inspect and enjoy a ride in the new car. The display will be open daily from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Mrs. Nell Grigsby's Step-Mother Succumbs

Mrs. Nell Grigsby left Saturday for Tyler, Texas, where she was summoned by the death of her stepmother, Mrs. B. J. Peasley, who died suddenly of a heart attack Friday night. She had been in poor health for some time.

Mrs. Peasley had many friends here, as she and her husband resided in Monroe during the World war when Mr. Peasley was superintendent of motive power on the old V. S. and P. railroad.

No details as to the time of the funeral were conveyed in the brief message received.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE LAUGHLESS ONE—Marcus Licinius Crassus, the grandafther of the triumvir of the same name, was called Agelastus (One Who Does Not Laugh), because all during life he had never been known to laugh, according to Pliny the Elder. And Cicero adds that Crassus well deserved the name of Agelastus, although he did laugh upon a single occasion. Beholding a donkey eating thistles, the dour features of the Never Laughing One at last relaxed into a smile. The remark that escaped him at that moment, was "The lips are like lettuce."

Lights Of New York

By Paul Harrison

NEW YORK—Small boys of Manhattan don't get much of a break when the Greatest Show on Earth comes to town. There's no parade, no carrying of water for the elephants, and no standing by to watch the tents go up.

The tents, of course, don't go up. The circus just disappears into the labyrinthine ramps and corridors of Madison Square Garden. And the Garden is impregnable to the stratagems of small boys. The latter can do no better than congregate at the main entrance and plead with tears in their voices: "Hey, mister, take me in!" A great many of them, I'm gratified to report, are taken in.

Day before the circus opens, your correspondent can be found at the arena, grateful that he is a reporter and not a small boy. I get in the way of riggers and rousters, am shouted out of the paths of galloping horses, stroll through the range of fire of Sitting Bull, Jr., the archer, and have a grand time generally.

Rehearsal Is Best Show

For me a circus rehearsal holds a fascination that I never can find again in a spangled, regular performance. The performers themselves are excited. Hundreds of friends are meeting again after a winter of vaudeville or circus tours in Europe. They'll sit on a crate and chat with you about their triumphs, their families, their new acts, or circus life in general. They represent every nationality from Chinese to Arab. I watched a tearful reunion between a Japanese juggler and a Spanish aerialist.

My guess is that there's less jealousy between circus stars than between people of the theater. A dozen women rushed to congratulate the girl of the Wallenda troupe when they all had come down safely from their high wire. The Rooneys drew a round of spontaneous applause. A hundred admirers were willing to hold Annie Laurie's dressing gown when she slid down a rope from the Garden's rafters.

Costumes Informal

Nondescript rehearsal costumes heighten my interest in the proceedings. Clowns look sillier than ever dressed in natty suits and innocent of makeup. Acrobats are no less acrobatic, while wearing anything from overalls to shorts. Aerialists seem to prefer working in bathing suits. Equestriennes ride in beach pajamas or anything else that happens to be handy in their dressing rooms.

Dorothy Herbert's favorite practice costume is an old sweater and some voluminous white silk shorts. Con Colleano likes plus-fours and a dirty sweater bearing the name of a Brooklyn gymnasium when he rehearses his dancing on a tight-wire. Instead of the brilliant silken cape that the cash customers see, he swirls an ancient raincoat.

Fred Bradna, the ringmaster, is an unimposing figure in a brown suit, but he's absolute dictator of the proceedings. Newspapermen cluster around Dexter Fellows, dean of circus press agents, and guffaw when he confides that Elmer Twisto, the contortionist, comes from Big Bend, Kansas. Frank Braden, another conjurer of publicity, says he hopes the stork will hurry up and visit the menagerie, because the best kind of circus story is the arrival of a baby. Quintuplets, of course, would be the most blessed of all possible events.

More Sex Appeal

My principal circus enthusiasms this year are for the performing bears, practically all of the aerialists, and the Wallendas, who always give me nervous indigestion. Incidentally, that handkerchief-sized net which a few flunkies hold beneath the high-wire troupe doesn't mean a thing except that it saves some of the wear and tear on the nerves of onlookers.

The Ringling show has gone in for sex-appeal this year on a scale appropriate to a Follies chorus. From the time of the grand entry, with three lady drum majors leading the band, the circus is predominantly a girl show. There are ringmistresses, women animal trainers, and more woman than ever in the tumbling, riding and aerial acts. Clowning is the only job that's still exclusively masculine. Somebody ought to page Ray Dooley and Fannie Brice.

OLIVER RETURNS FROM BANK MEET

Travis Oliver, member of the executive council of the American Bankers' association, has returned from Augusta, Ga., where he attended the spring meeting of the organization. He was enthusiastic over the outlook for business as it appeared to leading bankers of the country.

Roger Babson was the outstanding speaker and his forecast of business conditions for 1935 was even more optimistic than that of the bankers, Mr. Oliver said.

There was the usual round of social functions which were enjoyed by about 200 people.

Easter Day

The great Christian festival once more centers attention, if only for the day, on the life and the events that Easter commemorates. The world looks back 1,900 years on the life of an obscure Galilean carpenter.

What did He do that produced consequences so momentous for mankind? Not a great deal in a material way. But His soul was so on fire with love for his fellowmen, with a devotion to a way of life that would establish the kingdom of God on earth, that the fire spread to those with whom he associated, and through them to the world.

While He was in a sense a child of His time, as all must be, there was a universality and timelessness in His soul that gave Him mastery of the ages. Through the centuries that have passed since the tragedy on Golgotha, ardent spirits have drunk of His inspiration and have gone out to move vast numbers of people.

"The trouble with Christianity," says Bernard Shaw, "is that it has never been tried." True, the world would not be in its present plight if it had been dominated by His spirit.

The Golden Rule He gave is only a general precept. It has been criticized as affording no real basis in a complex civilization for the settlement of profound domestic and international differences. When both sides believe they are right, how can the admonition, "Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them," help compose the dispute?

Yet the spirit of the Golden Rule, the spirit of generous love and sympathy, would be a universal solvent of problems if it could be sincerely applied.

So Easter will have value to us if we grasp the ideals it brings to our minds so dramatically; if we see a little more clearly that blind adherence to self-interest in the long run courts disaster; that salvation for the world as for individuals lies in following the path He laid out so long ago.

THE LESSON IN A MASTER

The two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of Johann Sebastian Bach, celebrated recently, came at a time when the public was better able than ever before to appreciate the work of this great musical composer, who many believe was the greatest of them all. Bach has always had his worshippers but his music has been widely assumed to be beyond the appreciation of the musically untrained. Even his own generation, and those immediately following, did not rate him at his full worth. Mendelssohn, a century later, is given credit for making the musical world understand what a great creative artist Bach was. Schumann said music owes almost as great a debt to him as a religion owes to its founder.

Lately appreciation of Bach has grown to the proportion, but not the ephemeralness, of a vogue. That is largely due to the expanding understanding and enjoyment of music. Every way we turn, music is in the air; some good, some bad, some commonplace. We hear so much of it that the commonplace palls. Only great music will stand constant repetition. So the great masters come into their own.

There is a lesson in Bach's history for those who are interested in the development of music. It took five generations of musicians to produce him. His great-great-grandfather, Veit Bach, is generally considered the creator of the Bach musical tradition. He was a baker and miller who played the zither to the accompaniment of his millstones. Veit's son, Hans, a carpet maker by trade made music his profession. Hans' genius descended through his son and grandson, to Johann Sebastian, in whom it flowered most brilliantly.

It will take more than one generation to produce a musical America. But we are on our way. American talent is about to receive greater encouragement. With patience and steadiness this development can go far and fast.

'THE DUTY OF THE VICTORS'

Alfred A. Stacey, nationl commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, believes that the federal government should pay Civil War pensions to veterans of the Confederate armies as well as to Union men.

This, says Commander Stacey, would not only be a humanitarian act; it would help to remove the last vestiges of bitterness, and it would seal the harmony that now ixists between one-time enemies. Such a move, he says, is "the duty of the victors."

Precisely 70 years have passed since the men in blue and gray laid down their arms. The hatred and suspicion of war days are almost dead, by now.

What more fitting way would there be for the country to symbolize this fact than to do as this old soldier suggests and put the Confederate veterans on the pension rolls?

More Truth Than Poetry

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

THE PIONEER

While still a snowflake, here and there,
Came sailing down the sky,
When all the boughs were bleak and bare
And chill winds whistled by,
Before the robin winged his flight
To hail the coming May,
The little shining aconite
Burst bravely by the way,
And starred the damp, half sleeping mold
With tiny blooms of glowing gold.

The violets were hidden deep
Beneath the sodden ground,
The trilliums still were half asleep,
No bloodroot could be found,
Yet stir a leaf-stalk as you pass
When spring is in the skies,
And from the edges of the grass
An aconite doth rise,
And soon its brothers, one by one,
Have struggled forth to meet the sun.

Ere long they'll all be on parade
Among the garden trees,
To flutter in the sun and shade
And lure the singing bees;
But, while the seasons drift along,
While summer takes her flight,
To young Miss Aconite.
Forever may she reappear

A 'Third Economy'

By BRUCE CATTON

New ways of looking at the unemployment problem are rare. Rexford Tugwell seems to have provided one the other day in his speech at Rochester, N. Y., when he suggested that the unemployed constitute in themselves a great national resource which the country might as well start using.

Mr. Tugwell's point is simple. In addition to depression unemployment, we have technological unemployment—men displaced from their jobs by improvement in productive technique rather than by hard times.

Even when prosperity returns, a large number of these men won't be able to go back to work. They'll be with us in good times as well as bad—skilled and industrious workmen who want nothing under the sun except a chance to work.

It is Mr. Tugwell's idea that these men be used in what he terms a "third economy"—a system half way between Socialism and individualism. The government would put them to work on projects which would not be done by private enterprise, and which would be of benefit to the country as a whole.

Such projects would include the civilian conservation corps, a gigantic slum-clearance program, checking of soil erosion, provision of sanitary and recreational facilities that are now lacking, development of reclamation works, and possibly some large-scale scheme for resettlement of the under-privileged.

All this is worth thinking about, because it reverses our ordinary attitude toward unemployment. We look on it as a sad and expensive responsibility; this plan would have us see it as a great opportunity.

This country is enormous, and it is more richly blessed by nature than any similar place on earth. It can be turned into a veritable garden spot, where human life can be richer and freer than anything we have yet dreamed of. The possibilities are here; all we need do is exploit them.

And that is just another way of saying that there is work enough in America to keep us all busy for generations to come. All we need do is go after it.

Until every American family occupies a modern, up-to-date home, until every region is served by broad, smooth highways, until every river has been harnessed and controlled and every farming region has been freed from threat of flood and wind, until our marvelous productive plant has given an abundance of necessities to every citizen—until that day comes, it is silly for us to say that there is no work for the jobless.

Mr. Tugwell's idea calls our attention to this fact. The work is waiting to be done, and we have millions of men who ask nothing but the chance to do it. Seen in this way, unemployment is a challenge and an opportunity.

New Deal In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher

Spring fever Monday, frostbite Tuesday, wet feet Wednesday—

What can you expect from a capital with weather like that? Possibly every other town in the country is having similar experience and similar reactions. But Washingtonians insist their local brand is unique.

No scientific study has ever been made of the effect of these cockeyed climatic zigzags and reversals on the decisions and actions of those who govern our nation. It probably is an enormous one.

Of course everybody knows that early summer heat here always speeds adjournment of congress whereafter all Washington's women and children are packed off to mountains and beaches just as if the descending heat waves were so many murderous Indians and the official community goes misanthropic and is prone to resort to the bottle.

But these hot-and-cold springs keep all hands confused. If the weather man can't make up his mind, why squawk if a president and congress can't? Many folks are sent to bed with colds when they should be up and saving the country, simply because they were caught downtown in a snowstorm without overcoats.

And weather talk is far more wasteful. Instead of a mere "Nice day, huh?" you have to spend about five minutes expressing yourself.

Other Society Notes

Arthur Mullen, celebrated lobbyist and Nebraska political boss, and William B. Shearer, celebrated lobbyist credited with busting up the Geneva naval reduction conference of 1927 on behalf of American shipbuilders, greeted each other heartily in the Mayflower hotel lobby the other night. A notable occasion! . . . Alice Longworth dashed up to Chief Justice Hughes at a White House reception to tell him the great gold clause decision "was pragmatic sanctions." She explained this means "a highly practical way of getting oneself out of a jam." Alice is famous as a local wit. . . . Dr. Ernest Gruening, who as boss of territories and possessions, is responsible for the government's Bluebeard Castle hotel in the Virgin Islands, doesn't mind having it known that Edna St. Vincent Millay has a cottage nearby and that Douglas Fairbanks and Lady Ashley recently were guests at the hotel itself.

Two attractive gals, trusted aides of two famous New Dealers, were sent motoring around the country to check up on certain federal programs and popular reactions. They started approaching strangers in one town and were promptly—but only for a few minutes—picked up for "soliciting." I'd get killed if I told you who they are. . . . Senator Joe Robinson, who bosses the senate for Roosevelt as well as he knows how, carries a cane on trips between the capitol and senate office building. . . . Borah carries a pigskin brief-case and always walks around the office building for exercise on his return from legislating.

Mrs. Nell Grigsby's Step-Mother Succumbs

Mrs. Nell Grigsby left Saturday for Tyler, Texas, where she was summoned by the death of her stepmother, Mrs. B. J. Peasley, who died suddenly of a heart attack Friday night. She had been in poor health for some time.

Mrs. Peasley had many friends here, as she and her husband resided in Monroe during the World war when Mr. Peasley was superintendent of motive power on the old V. S. and P. railroad.

No details as to the time of the funeral were conveyed in the brief message received.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE LAUGHLESS ONE—Marcus Licinius Crassus, the grandafther of the triumvir of the same name, was called Agelastus (One Who Does Not Laugh), because all during life he had never been known to laugh, according to Pliny the Elder. And Cicero adds that Crassus well deserved the name of Agelastus, although he did laugh upon a single occasion. Beholding a donkey eating thistles, the dour features of the Never Laughing One at last relaxed into a smile. The remark that escaped him at that moment, was "The lips are like lettuce."

Lights Of New York

By Paul Harrison

NEW YORK—Small boys of Manhattan don't get much of a break when the Greatest Show on Earth comes to town. There's no parade, no carrying of water for the elephants, and no standing by to watch the tents go up.

The tents, of course, don't go up. The circus just disappears into the labyrinthine ramps and corridors of Madison Square Garden. And the Garden is impregnable to the stratagems of small boys. The latter can do no better than congregate at the main entrance and plead with tears in their voices: "Hey, mister, take me in!" A great many of them, I'm gratified to report, are taken in.

Day before the circus opens, your correspondent can be found at the arena, grateful that he is a reporter and not a small boy. I get in the way of riggers and rousters, am shouted out of the paths of galloping horses, stroll through the range of fire of Sitting Bull, Jr., the archer, and have a grand time generally.

Rehearsal Is Best Show

For me a circus rehearsal holds a fascination that I never can find again in a spangled, regular performance. The performers themselves are excited. Hundreds of friends are meeting again after a winter of vaudeville or circus tours in Europe. They'll sit on a crate and chat with you about their triumphs, their families, their new acts, or circus life in general. They represent every nationality from Chinese to Arab. I watched a tearful reunion between a Japanese juggler and a Spanish aerialist.

My guess is that there's less jealousy between circus stars than between people of the theater. A dozen women rushed to congratulate the girl of the Wallenda troupe when they all had come down safely from their high wire. The Rooneys drew a round of spontaneous applause. A hundred admirers were willing to hold Annie Laurie's dressing gown when she slid down a rope from the Garden's rafters.

Costumes Informal

Nondescript rehearsal costumes heighten my interest in the proceedings. Clowns look sillier than ever dressed in natty suits and innocent of makeup. Acrobats are no less acrobatic, while wearing anything from overalls to shorts. Aerialists seem to prefer working in bathing suits. Equestriennes ride in beach pajamas or anything else that happens to be handy in their dressing rooms.

Dorothy Herbert's favorite practice costume is an old sweater and some voluminous white silk shorts. Con Colleano likes plus-fours and a dirty sweater bearing the name of a Brooklyn gymnasium when he rehearses his dancing on a tight-wire. Instead of the brilliant silken cape that the cash customers see, he swirls an ancient raincoat.

Fred Bradna, the ringmaster, is an unimposing figure in a brown suit, but he's absolute dictator of the proceedings. Newspapermen cluster around Dexter Fellows, dean of circus press agents, and guffaw when he confides that Elmer Twisto, the contortionist, comes from Big Bend, Kansas. Frank Braden, another conjurer of publicity, says he hopes the stork will hurry up and visit the menagerie, because the best kind of circus story is the arrival of a baby. Quintuplets, of course, would be the most blessed of all possible events.

More Sex Appeal

My principal circus enthusiasms this year are for the performing bears, practically all of the aerialists, and the Wallendas, who always give me nervous indigestion. Incidentally, that handkerchief-sized net which a few flunkies hold beneath the high-wire troupe doesn't mean a thing except that it saves some of the wear and tear on the nerves of onlookers.

The Ringling show has gone in for sex-appeal this year on a scale appropriate to a Follies chorus. From the time of the grand entry, with three lady drum majors leading the band, the circus is predominantly a girl show. There are ringmistresses, women animal trainers, and more woman than ever in the tumbling, riding and aerial acts. Clowning is the only job that's still exclusively masculine. Somebody ought to page Ray Dooley and Fannie Brice.

OLIVER RETURNS FROM BANK MEET

Travis Oliver, member of the executive council of the American Bankers' association, has returned from Augusta, Ga., where he attended the spring meeting of the organization. He was enthusiastic over the outlook for business as it appeared to leading bankers of the country.

Roger Babson was the outstanding speaker and his forecast of business conditions for 1935 was even more optimistic than that of the bankers, Mr. Oliver said.

There was the usual round of social functions which were enjoyed by about 200 people.

14 DAIRY HERDS TO BE INSPECTED

Expert Will Visit Plants Of Members Of New Organization

Beginning Monday, the herds of 14 leading dairymen of the parish who have organized the Ouachita Parish Herd Improvement association will be regularly inspected by Darden Taylor, cow tester, formerly a resident of Claiborne parish, but who is now residing here, it was learned from E. R. Strahan, parish agricultural agent.

Mr. Darden will regularly visit each of the herds once each month, carrying his laboratory equipment in his automobile. He will weigh milk of each cow and make a butterfat test of each cow's milk.

Dairymen of the association will use the information obtained by Mr. Darden as a guide to improving their feeding methods, breeding and for the purpose of culling the non-profitable stock.

The work is being financed partly by the ERA and partly by the dairymen, and under present plans will be conducted for at least a year. It will be conducted under the supervision of the dairy division of the extension service of Louisiana State university.

The 14 herds represented in the herd improvement association will require nearly all of Mr. Darden's working time each month, because the larger herds will require about three days' work. It was stated, however, that two additional large herds or three small herds can be added to Mr. Darden's schedule.

Lincoln Parish Negro Arrested In Monroe

Joe Louis, negro, of Monroe, was arrested by police here yesterday and placed in the custody of the sheriff's department of Lincoln parish, where it was stated he is wanted to answer a charge of shooting with intent to kill. Deputy Sheriff Clyde Frazier came here from Ruston and returned the negro there.

Louis was said to be a native of Lincoln parish. It was stated that his brother had previously been arrested and placed in the Lincoln parish jail in connection with the shooting charge.

The two negroes, while in the act of stealing chickens in the night time, were fired upon by the owner of the chickens, and Joe Louis returned the fire wounding the owner, it was reported here.

Jonesboro

Mrs. David Jefress was hostess to the Art club in her lovely new home in north Jonesboro.

The house was attractively decorated with red radiance roses, and bowls of pansies decorated the tables. The club discussed several projects to be carried out later in the year. During the social hour the hostess served strawberry short cake with coffee to Mrs. G. T. Littlefield, Mrs. W. P. Miller, Mrs. D. D. McDonald, Mrs. Carmen Thomas, Mrs. Paul Stinson and Mrs. H. W. Ayers.

The Ruth Brown circle of the Methodist church with Mrs. Neil Thomas as hostess. Mrs. V. L. Brumfield gave the devotional and Mrs. W. W. McDonald offered the opening prayer. Mrs. J. J. Briehm presented the second chapter of the new book "Suzuki Looks At Japan," with Mrs. Fred Callaway, Mrs. N. Thurman, and Mrs. Brumfield taking part in the discussion. After a short business session, Mrs. Thomas served cake and punch to the following ladies: Mesdames J. E. Cox, Sam Walsworth, Fred Calaway, W. W. McDonald, J. J. Briehm, and V. L. Brumfield.

The Young Women's circle of the Methodist church met in the home of Mrs. John Dupree. The meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. Cecil Garrett, and she also taught the mission study class for the afternoon. Two new members were taken into the circle.

Those present for the program were Mesdames A. A. Meredith, president of the missionary society, W. P. Miller, Cecil Garret, David Shively, Paul Stinson, M. L. Dickerson, Carmen Thomas, George Littlefield, W. A. Parish and A. V. Pendarvis.

The Baptist W. M. S. met at the church for a royal service program. The meeting was opened with good attendance and with the following on the program: Mrs. C. McLaren, Mrs. A. Wilson, Mrs. A. L. Weeks, Mrs. C. McLaren, Mrs. P. H. Key, Mrs. W. Sutton, Mrs. P. H. Key, Mrs. W. T. Godfrey, Mrs. A. W. Hayes, Mrs. O. E. Corbett.

The auction bridge club held its weekly meeting with Mrs. Paul Stinson as hostess. The home was made very attractive with bowls and baskets of pink and radiance roses. The tables were decorated with beautiful roses also. Mrs. H. M. Gatlin was the winner of the high score and was presented with a lovely hand made bag as a prize. Mr. W. P. Miller won the gentleman's prize, a handsome box of powder. Delicious refreshments were served to Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Bass, Mr. and Mrs. S. Kirkland, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Gatlin, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Callaway and Mrs. Tommie Cox.

Negro Charged With Shooting His Spouse

Charged with shooting his wife in the leg with a .32-20 caliber pistol yesterday afternoon, Pete Cherry, negro, of near Fairbanks, was arrested by the sheriff's department and placed in the parish jail.

The negro's wife was said to have received a minor wound in the fleshy part of her leg.

Leon Jackson, negro of West Monroe, charged in a warrant sworn out by his wife with the offense of assault and battery, was arrested by the sheriff's department yesterday and lodged in the parish jail.

Real Estate Transfers

Mrs. Bessie Camp sold to Mrs. Marie Anderson, yesterday, a lot located on the south side of a projection of Smith street, in Brownville, for the consideration of $40, it was learned at the office of the clerk of parish court.

MONROE MORNING WORLD and NEWS-STAR

A FORWARD STEP IN NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE

THE fine spirit of enterprise displayed by the publishers and management of the Monroe Morning World and News-Star in presenting today its new comic section deserves the hearty and sincere congratulations of the business interests of Monroe and the public generally throughout the Monroe trade area.

THE innovation means a distinct forward step in the progress made by the World and News-Star in its development as a journal of modern trend and accomplishments. It implies an emergence from that period of depression which restricted business endeavors in any effort to amply meet intellectual and entertainment needs.

ON this Easter day, when human hearts are animated by hopeful happiness and glad optimism it is especially fitting that emphasis should be given to those things which contribute to the enjoyments of life. When those incidents point a lesson of progress in the endeavor to render service they are doubly worthy of attention and appreciation.

IT is emblematic of the spirit of leadership characteristic of the World and News-Star in all of their activities in the public interest in this community.

THE many evidences of inspired progress which have been given by the Morning World and News-Star in their consistent endeavors to serve the reading public command the highest regard of the people of this city. In the present instance that effort is marked by a splendid response to popular demand for a larger measure of pictorial entertainment, one of the essential functions of a metropolitan newspaper.

CITIZENS and business interests of Monroe, whose names are herewith given, desire on behalf of the public at large to offer their congratulations and felicitations to the publishers and management of the World and News-Star for their far-seeing and progressive policies and for their efforts to fulfill an important service to their widespread clientele throughout the Monroe area by affording a well-balanced, wholesome and lively presentation of the best quality of entertainment and literary inspiration.

WE wish you every success in this new and laudable adventure.

the foreign office described it, rejected the league council's resolution rebuking the reich's treaty violations. The note was delivered simultaneously to all the nations voting for it, and to Denmark, which abstained.

The fuehrer gave out his note while ambassadors and ministers accredited to Berlin were entering their names in the book at the executive palace provided for birthday congratulations.

The note denied to the powers the right to judge Germany, declared the council's decision "an attempt at new discriminations against Germany" and rejected it "in the most forceful manner."

The fuehrer, however, was careful not to close entirely the door leading to further international discussions, as the foreign office was quick to point out.

SPECIAL SESSION COMES TO CLOSE

sion, the February-March session, the general assembly met within a circle of militiamen armed with short range armament, including gas guns and automatic rifles.

Anti-Long law-makers protested against the presence of the national guardsmen, who have kept Louisiana's capital under martial law for three months ever since citizens angry at Long's rule took up arms in their resentment, but could do nothing about it.

One, Rep. Norman Bauer, St. Mary, naturally introduced a resolution declaring that since the martial law had been used to break up peaceful public meetings, that the legislature should ask the national guard for permission to deliberate.

Long's followers tabled the proposal.

A total of 28 bills were enacted in all, but the bulk of those were of lesser character, many amending previously enacted laws in technical manner.

One providing for Louisiana Normal college to grant a master's degree died on the calendar. No explanation was given for its demise.

The senate reverberated with argument for and against the primary election commission bill before the measure was finally passed.

The bill was described by Senator W. Scott Heywood, of Jennings, as designed to give Long a "cinch on electing his men."

"It simply sews up the bag which Senator Long and this legislature have filled with dictatorial legislation," he asserted. "I am sure the day is coming when these legislators who could have prevented this dictatorship will regret their voting for such bills."

Senator Gove D. Davis, Jena, warmly defended the bill, declaring it was intended to offset the election influence of the New Orleans old regular political faction arrayed against Long's state machine.

"In the old days the old regulars ran Louisiana politics," he affirmed. "They went out in the country districts and said a candidate must be a silk-stocking to run."

"When Senator Heywood was a member of the Louisiana tax reform commission getting $10 a day expenses he was a good boy . . . " Davis said.

Heywood interrupted:

"When Senator Long offered the tax reform commission $25,000 more money for us not to get out a report," he asserted, "I insisted upon the reports being got out and went on record that if the commission accepted the $25,000 that I would refuse to take a dollar of it.

"I want to say to you, sir, that at my request my expenses were reduced to $3, and my work here cost me thousands of dollars."

CURTIS STILL ILL

The condition of W. W. Curtis, jailer of the Ouachita parish jail, who has been absent from the city several weeks because of illness, remains about the same, it was reported here yesterday. Mr. Curtis, however, was able to travel from Natchitoches, where he spent several weeks at the home of relatives, to San Antonio, Texas, where he is visiting at the home of his son, Fred Curtis. It was hoped that the change in climate would be beneficial.

Hearing Date Fixed For TVA Power Appeal Case

NEW ORLEANS, April 20.—(AP)—Judges of the United States fifth circuit court of appeals here today set June 17 for date of hearing the appeal in the Tennessee valley authority-Alabama Power company electric purchase case in Atlanta, Ga.

In the opinion of James L. Fly, general solicitor for the TVA, the date would permit placing the case before the United States supreme court in October for a final ruling.

Appeal was taken by the authority from final judgment entered in Alabama federal court by District Judge William I. Grubb, of Birmingham, holding that the Tennessee valley authority was without legal right to purchase trans-mission lines from the Alabama Power company leading from the Muscle Shoals plant into northwestern Alabama.

According to her own calculations, Miss Earhart made the 1,700-mile trip in 13 hours, 33 minutes, including the stop of half an hour in Nopala.

Miss Earhart's big red monoplane passed Mazatlan at 8:20 a. m., and turned inland over the mountains, following the regular air route to the capital and keeping in touch by radio with the office of Pan-American airways here. She reported good flying conditions.

Among those who waited patiently for the overdue flier were Foreign Minister Portes Gil and members of the Mexican cabinet and diplomatic corps.

Work and recreation also are prominent in the arrangements of governmental leaders.

Vice President Garner said: "I probably will go to church and then the zoo. That's one of the chief egg rolling centers, you know."

Speaker Joseph Byrns said: "All I plan to do is to go to church."

Several members of the supreme court expect to attend church and, should the weather be favorable, may seek relaxation in afternoon motor rides.

Secretary Hull said his plans are uncertain. "It all depends on what is going on in the department," he said.

Secretary Ickes declared he would be at his desk in the interior department part of the day as usual. In the afternoon he and Mrs. Ickes will leave for New York where he will address the annual meeting of the Associated Press Monday.

Secretary Perkins and Postmaster General Farley said they hoped to get away from the capital and pass the day with their families in New York City.

FIGHT WITH KNIVES

Following a fight in which the participants, Willie Gilbert and Tom Young, negroes, slashed each other with butcher knives in a house at 510 North Eighth street, the pair was carried in an ambulance to St. Francis sanitarium. They were able to leave the institution after their wounds were dressed, and police lodged them in the city jail under charges of fighting and drawing and displaying dangerous weapons.

CWA workers discovered two Indian villages on the shores of dry Buena Vista lake, California; one of the villages is reputed to be 1,900 years old.

terian church and the First Methodist church.

During the morning an interesting service is planned at 9:45 o'clock by the Frank P. Stubbs Bible class of the First Presbyterian church at the Paramount theater. A chorus of 75 voices from Neville high school will furnish Easter musical selections.

Wives of members of the class, as well as members of the women's adult Bible class of the Presbyterian church and the public are invited to attend. A short talk will be made by Fred Williamson, class teacher. R. M. Troy, class president, will preside.

In addition to the Easter egg hunt at Forsythe park, sponsored by the Teflis Grotto, there will also be a similar hunt given for members of the Lakeside Country club on the lawns of the club from 4 to 6 p. m.

Another social function of Easter will be the Phi Kappa fraternity's tea dance at the clubhouse, DeSiard road, from 5 to 8 p. m.

Louisiana May Escape Threatening Weather

NEW ORLEANS, April 20.—(AP)—Easter finery may escape threatening weather which spread over southwest Louisiana last night, Dr. I. M. Cline, principal meteorologist of the New Orleans weather bureau, predicted today. But a cloudy Easter day was forecast.

Dr. Cline said that showers following last night's blustery rains and winds were expected to cease during the day in the New Orleans area. A drenching rain occurred in the parishes adjacent to New Orleans.

The prediction bore no promise of a bright Easter sky. The weather bureau predicted cloudiness Sunday for Louisiana and Mississippi with cooler weather in the southeast portion of Louisiana and south and central Mississippi.

BULGARIA IS STILL WITHOUT A CABINET

SOFIA, Bulgaria, April 20.—(AP)—Bulgaria still had no cabinet tonight, though Premier-Designate Andrea Toscheff had been conferring almost continuously with military leaders during the last 36 hours.

Most of his time Toscheff, called from retirement and botanical research to help solve Bulgaria's government crisis, spent with leaders of the military league which is the dominant factor in Bulgarian politics.

Although the league yesterday consented to have the new government consist of civilians, it apparently feared return to the old system of political parties and declined to relinquish control of governmental affairs until it was certain what form the new government would take.

BIG CROWD EXPECTED

A large attendance is expected at a benefit dance to be given by student nurses of the St. Francis sanitarium next Friday night, beginning at 10 o'clock, in the Cherokee Terrace of the Hotel Frances. The Glen Hutson orchestra will render music. Proceeds from the dance will be used to purchase books for the nurses' library.

THE ADVANTAGE OF "More Cold than you'll ever need"

THE Norge Rollator Refrigerator is powered to make more cold than you'll ever need. A Norge will freeze ice in a warm room in midsummer, with the refrigerator door open!

There are indispensable advantages in having this surplus of cold-making power. Economy, for one thing. Since the Rollator seldom works to capacity, it uses little current to meet every day requirements. And of course you can always depend upon a refrigerator that is surplus powered.

Reserve power however is not the only quality feature of the Rollator Compressor, the cold-making mechanism. It is engineered, designed, built to give more years of dependable refrigeration. On factory test, a Rollator Compressor has been running constantly for the equivalent of 33 years in your home. And the Rollator in today's Norge is actually improved over the one undergoing this test.

Everything you expect of a refrigerator depends upon the performance of the mechanism that makes the cold. Remember that only Norge has the Rollator Compressor. See the Norge before you buy.

THE ROLLATOR COMPRESSOR . . . smooth, easy, rolling power instead of the hurried back-and-forth action of the ordinary refrigerator mechanism. Result—more cold for the current used and a mechanism which actually improves with use.

Thirty million miles of Ford Economy

MORE MILES. Faster miles. Greater economy . . . that is the story of the Ford V-8. There are conclusive figures from owners to show that it is the most economical Ford car ever built.

A particularly interesting and complete report of costs comes from a national fleet owner who has owned 854 Ford cars which were run more than thirty million miles in business use.

175 were Model T Fords which were run 5,017,075 miles. 599 were Model A Ford cars which were run 24,041,632 miles. 80 are Ford V-8 cars which have been run 2,982,886 miles.

This owner's cost records show that Ford V-8 cars cost 12% less to operate than the Model A Fords and 31% less than the Model T Fords. And they covered more miles per month! The monthly average for the Model T Fords was 1508 miles. For the Model A Fords, 1866 miles. . . . And 2571 miles for the Ford V-8.

Each year the Ford car gives you more in value and performance and costs you less to operate. The Ford V-8 was an economical car in 1934. This year it gives you still greater reliability and economy, new beauty, new safety, new ease of control and remarkable new riding comfort.

Actual Figures Show the Ford V-8 is 12% more economical than the Model A. and 31% more economical than the famous Model T.

BULGARIA IS STILL WITHOUT A CABINET

SOFIA, Bulgaria, April 20.—(AP)—Bulgaria still had no cabinet tonight, though Premier-Designate Andrea Toscheff had been conferring almost continuously with military leaders during the last 36 hours.

Most of his time Toscheff, called from retirement and botanical research to help solve Bulgaria's government crisis, spent with leaders of the military league which is the dominant factor in Bulgarian politics.

Although the league yesterday consented to have the new government consist of civilians, it apparently feared return to the old system of political parties and declined to relinquish control of governmental affairs until it was certain what form the new government would take.

BIG CROWD EXPECTED

A large attendance is expected at a benefit dance to be given by student nurses of the St. Francis sanitarium next Friday night, beginning at 10 o'clock, in the Cherokee Terrace of the Hotel Frances. The Glen Hudson orchestra will render music. Proceeds from the dance will be used to purchase books for the nurses' library.

NORGE Rollator Refrigeration

THE ADVANTAGE OF "More Cold than you'll ever need"

THE Norge Rollator Refrigerator is powered to make more cold than you'll ever need. A Norge will freeze ice in a warm room in midsummer, with the refrigerator door open!

There are indispensable advantages in having this surplus of cold-making power. Economy, for one thing. Since the Rollator seldom works to capacity, it uses little current to meet every day requirements. And of course you can always depend upon a refrigerator that is surplus powered.

Reserve power however is not the only quality feature of the Rollator Compressor, the cold-making mechanism. It is engineered, designed, built to give more years of dependable refrigeration. On factory test, a Rollator Compressor has been running constantly for the equivalent of 33 years in your home. And the Rollator in today's Norge is actually improved over the one undergoing this test.

Everything you expect of a refrigerator depends upon the performance of the mechanism that makes the cold. Remember that only Norge has the Rollator Compressor. See the Norge before you buy.

THE ROLLATOR COMPRESSOR . . . smooth, easy, rolling power instead of the hurried back-and-forth action of the ordinary refrigerator mechanism. Result—more cold for the current used and a mechanism which actually improves with use.

Thirty million miles of Ford Economy

MORE MILES. Faster miles. Greater economy . . . that is the story of the Ford V-8. There are conclusive figures from owners to show that it is the most economical Ford car ever built.

A particularly interesting and complete report of costs comes from a national fleet owner who has owned 854 Ford cars which were run more than thirty million miles in business use.

175 were Model T Fords which were run 5,017,075 miles. 599 were Model A Ford cars which were run 24,041,632 miles. 80 are Ford V-8 cars which have been run 2,982,886 miles.

This owner's cost records show that Ford V-8 cars cost 12% less to operate than the Model A Fords and 31% less than the Model T Fords. And they covered more miles per month! The monthly average for the Model T Fords was 1508 miles. For the Model A Fords, 1866 miles. . . . And 2571 miles for the Ford V-8.

Each year the Ford car gives you more in value and performance and costs you less to operate. The Ford V-8 was an economical car in 1934. This year it gives you still greater reliability and economy, new beauty, new safety, new ease of control and remarkable new riding comfort.

Actual Figures Show the Ford V·8 is 12% more economical than the Model A. and 31% more economical than the famous Model T.

TOUR IS MADE BY CAMP FIRE GIRLS

Organization Carries Out Its Program Of "Know Your Town"

In pursuance with the program adopted by Camp Fire of "Know Your Town," a large number of young women of the Monroe organization, guided by Mrs. T. B. Neely, Camp Fire executive, and Mrs. J. G. Cobb, Camp Fire guardian, made their first "exploration" trip Saturday.

Their first call was on Sheriff Miller Coverdale at the courthouse. Here they were told something of the operation of this department and were given opportunity to "explore" the parish jail. Next they visited Pat S. Hamilton, clerk of Ouachita parish court, and were informed concerning operations pursued by this official.

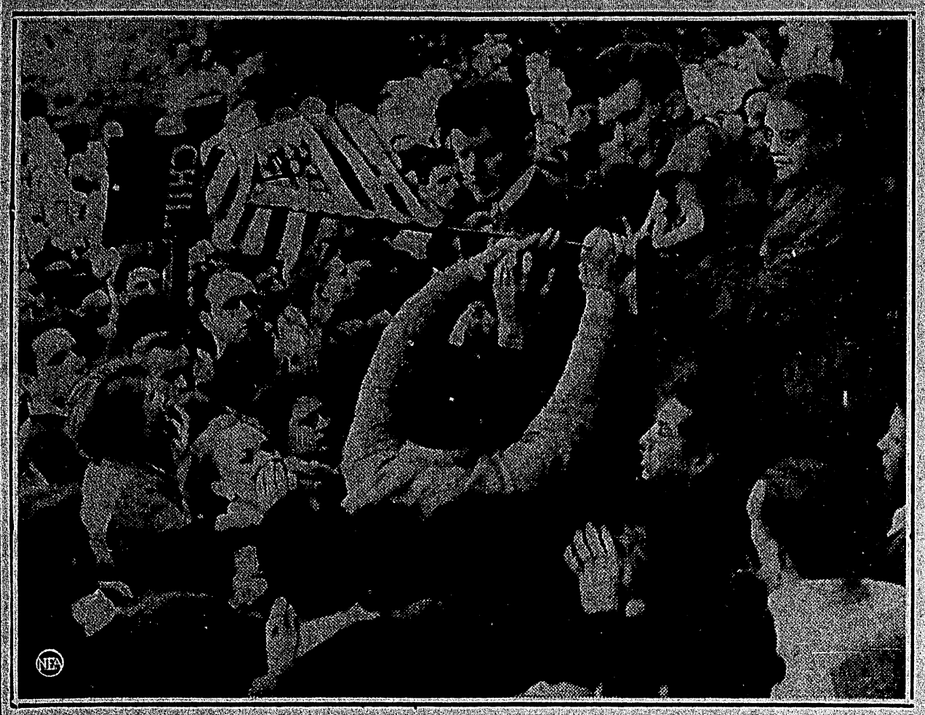
Next the group proceeded to the city hall where Mayor Arnold Bernstein greeted them and they were shown by a guide through the first floor of the building, looking in on City Treasurer P. A. Poag and the water and light department presided over by Joe Petagna.

A real thrill was afforded when the group visited municipal court in session with Judge W. M. Harper on the bench. They rounded out their visit by inspecting the police station and chatting with Police Superintendent L. V. Farver.

A local bottling plant was the next objective. There J. A. Biedenharn entertained them. After they had inspected the workings of the plant, the Camp Fire girls called it a day and went home, eliminating the picnic lunch due to the inclement weather.

According to latest computations, there are 1,902 daily, 10,543 weekly, 548 semi-weekly, and 40 tri-weekly newspapers in the United States, including the District of Columbia.

CALL FOR PEACE BECOMES CALL TO BATTLE



The nation-wide students' strike against war was turned into a series of miniature riots at several points, notably Los Angeles, where police sought to break up a gathering. Two high school girls were casualties of the ensuing battle. Here is an exciting sidelight of the pacifist demonstration—one group of students in Los Angeles junior high school seeks to take down the American flag displayed by the strike leaders.

Scientist Describes Strange World Opened Up In Deep Waters Of Ocean

A strange world where the inhabitants are conscious of neither space nor time, of heat nor cold, is beginning to be opened up by science. It exists in the remote depths of the sea, and millions of sea creatures live out their lives in this timeless infinity. Newest knowledge of this amazing "world apart" and the many mysteries that lurk in it is described by Austin H. Clark, biologist of the Smithsonian Institution, an authority on deep-sea life, in the following article written for the Associated Press.

By Austin H. Clark

(Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 20.—A timeless infinity; no days; no seasons, no boundaries of any kind, no heat, no cold, such is the world to many millions of living things.

These living things that know no time or boundaries, heat or cold, are strange fishes, shrimp, cuttle-fishes, and many other kinds of creatures that live deep down in the open ocean, far beneath the surface, though not on the bottom.

Way down there there is no light, for water is not nearly so transparent as it seems, and the light of the sun does not penetrate for very many hundred feet beneath the surface. Deeper down than the greatest depth to which the sunlight penetrates there is continuous darkness—perpetual and unbroken night. So the creatures living there know nothing of night and day. They cannot know that they are living in darkness, for they have never seen the daylight.

Because the water in which they live is too deep to be affected by the changing seasons it is always of the same temperature. At these depths the water is what we would call cool, or even cold. But that is because we are familiar with warmer water. The creatures living there are not. As the water is always of the same temperature, and their bodies practically of the same temperature as the water, they know nothing of either heat or cold, for they never have had any experience with either, so in the regions where they live, which is all the world to them, there is no winter and no summer.

Since they can know nothing of days or nights, of summer or of winter, they cannot form any idea of time. In their little world times does not exist. Neither do heat or cold exist. And that is not all.

These creatures live suspended in the water, never going to the bottom and never coming up, above their proper depth. They swim about in all directions. For them the ocean has no bottom and no surface. Nor has it any boundaries of any other kind.

To them the world is much the same as the sky is to us on a dark night, just boundless blackness with points of light suspended in it and occasionally bright trails of light shooting through it. But to put ourselves really in the place of one of these creatures we must imagine ourselves a star suspended in the heavens instead of as standing on the firm ground.

Why should the world appear to them as full of stars? Because in the regions where they live very nearly all the living things are provided with light producing organs, like little searchlights, or else as capable of producing a bright light when alarmed or otherwise excited. So the world of the deep sea is a world of blackness punctuated with bright stars, movae and variables, meteors, and suddenly appearing, slowly fading nebulae.

Why should all the creatures of the deep sea either produce light themselves, more or less like fire-flies, or else feed on other light-producing animals? Is the light that they produce necessary for their well-being? If so, is the same sort of usually greenish or bluish light necessary for us? We wish we knew. And we wish we knew very many other things about these strange creatures of the deep. As yet we have only a very imperfect idea of what they are. For every time this region is investigated many new forms of animal life are brought to light.

It is a fascinating region, this timeless, changeless, infinite world of the deep sea animals. We can describe this world in words, but we cannot say that we really understand it.

CLINIC IS MODERN IN EVERY DETAIL

The Vaughan, Wright and Bendel clinic was opened in 1928 and has facilities to care for 35 patients. The staff is what is known as a closed one.

The modern equipment includes X-ray and laboratory for diagnosis and treatment of patients. Facilities, such as are found in larger hospitals of the country, are available here.

Italians conducted experiments in the making of artificial ice as early as the [illegible] century.

ST. FRANCIS KEEPS ABREAST OF TIMES

St. Francis sanitarium, in order to be ever abreast of the times, has recently added two operating rooms to the surgical department. They are fitted with the most modern equipment, with special attention being paid to the lighting system—lights responsive to every surgical need.

Auxiliary rooms embody the latest ideas, such as late type battery of sterilizers, blanket warmers, saline warmers and accommodations for physicians and nurses.

The wing devoted to the obstetrical department is entirely separate from the surgical department. There is a well equipped delivery room and nursery and sterilizing rooms with tiled floors and walls. There are also doctors' dressing rooms.

All the rooms have been newly decorated and there are radio connections. Larger rooms are equipped with private baths.

As to general service, each floor is a complete unit except for food service, which is supplied from the main kitchen by dumb waiters. The diet therapy section is conducted by a university graduate who is responsible for the entire food problem, preparation and actual service of the food to the patient. A large electric ice refrigerating plant and other electric accessories add to the smoothness of operation of this department.

BURN VICTIMS IMPROVE

R. P. Hart, building manager of the Ouachita National bank, and Sam Jacobs, a negro, both burned about the face and head Friday when gas exploded in a boiler on which they had been working in the basement of the building, were resting comfortably yesterday at the St. Francis sanitarium. Neither was seriously burned.

Since the beginning of the automobile industry in the United States, there have been about 650 different "makes" of cars on the market.

Russia has only 65 warships in her navy and most of these are pre-war vessels. Her army, however, is reputed to be the largest in the world.

THE NEW LINCOLN

A finer motor car than ever before

There are a great many people in this community who admire and appreciate fine motor cars. It is they, especially, whom we invite to the Lincoln display, for this interpretation of the coachmakers' and the engineers' art should gratify the most critical tastes.

You will find that the new Lincoln represents a distinct advance over its illustrious predecessors. It combines the best of modern design with a dignity which is Lincoln's own. For all its length, sturdiness and comfort, this year's car is more alert, more flexible, more responsive to gear shifting and braking than ever before.

The famous V-12 cylinder engine is now placed forward in the frame, so that the weight of rear-seat passengers is poised ahead of the axle, rather than directly over it. Because of this new designing, there is greater room, as well as greater comfort, in the new Lincoln bodies. Rear doors in some models are as much as five inches wider. Within the car are many new refinements, such as the redesigned instrument panel and glove compartment, concealed curtains and the inlaid walnut trim. Every luxurious appointment for the comfort and convenience of passengers has been included.

The new Lincoln is available in eighteen standard and custom body types, the latter built by Brunn, Judkins, LeBaron and Willoughby. From honeycomb radiator grille to graceful, slanting rear end, these new cars reflect the creative skill of the country's foremost designers.

The Lincoln will be on display each day from 8 A.M. to 8 P.M.

Learn More About Your Hospitals

IN every city of the land the entire community owes a debt of immeasurable gratitude to its hospitals, an institutional system that contributes more than any other agency to the well-being of humanity through the alleviation of suffering and the competent care and treatment of the sick and afflicted.

AN adequate and efficiently conducted hospital is the star of hope, the angel of mercy, the symbol of comfort to every human being beset by the ills that flesh is heir to. Without it the community would be a drear and desolate place.

MONROE is one of the most fortunate cities of the land, because of its splendidly managed and completely equipped hospital institutions. With every modern facility and with fully trained and competent medical and nursing staffs they afford an assurance of timely help and intelligent service at those times when no other agency can meet the demand of human needs.

IT is especially appropriate during this "Hospital Week" that the public should pay deserved tribute and ample recognition to the Monroe hospitals for the unceasing devotion they accord to the sick and the suffering. All honor to these institutions for what they have done in the past and for the assurance they give of continued service of the highest order to the whole community.

Red Cross Continues Rehabilitation Work In East Carroll

The work of rehabilitation in the Lake Providence area is a considerably greater task than at first assumed by Mrs. W. C. Holstein, executive secretary of the Ouachita parish Red Cross chapter, who has been assigned temporarily to the East Carroll parish seat city following the tornado on April 6. Fully two more weeks will be required, said Mrs. Holstein, to complete the work initiated by the national Red Cross in its disaster relief department.

Refugees are living in box cars and tents while their homes are being entirely rebuilt or repaired. One hundred and fifty families are affected, Mrs. Holstein stated.

Mrs. Holstein spent the week-end in Monroe and will return Monday for a few more days' work in Lake Providence.

On January 1, 1933, there were 3,337 waterpower plants in this country; their combined output of electrical power was approximately 15,817,900 horsepower.

KOREA WARS ON RADICALS

Korea will be cleared of all radicals if plans of officials are successful. This was revealed with the recent disclosure that 200 alleged "reds" have been arrested and 47 of these indicted before the Seishin district court. The leader is said to be Gen-Shun-ho, aged 36, who is declared to have organized a league of communists in Korea which attempted to spread propaganda in Seihin, Kainen and Rashin districts.

MATCHED, BY THEIR LOOKS!

Cupid jumped the gun in Hollywood's newest romance, when Eleanor Bayley and Eddie Foy just couldn't wait for June to roll around, to be married. The pretty blonde actress and her handsome mate, an assistant dance director, are shown here after the ceremony which June will have a hard time matching for loveliness.

CHAPTER XLIV

Brian Westmore said, "May I come in? I'd like to talk to you for a few moments."

He stood in the doorway, almost filling it. He looked very tall and very handsome—his face a trifle paler than Gale remembered it. Or perhaps that was only the effect of the darkness. Gale, who had been sure it was Steve when she heard the knock on the door, still showed her surprise. She said, "Why, yes. Come in."

Brian crossed the threshold. He stood in the shabbily furnished living room with its table lamp casting an arc of yellow radiance on the faded rug and he looked slightly ill at ease.

"You said you wanted to see me," Gale prompted.

"Yes—yes, I did."

Still he hesitated. Gale, remembering her manners, added, "Won't you sit down?"

Brian dropped to the nearest chair. "I didn't hear until a few hours ago," he went on "about the trouble last night. I mean the trouble your brother's in. I came because I thought there might be something I could do. If there is I'll be awfully glad to do it."

"Thank you," Gale's eyes met his squarely. "But there isn't anything."

"I'm sorry. I was hoping—"

"There isn't anything," Gale repeated. "Phil has to stay—where he is for a while. There's nothing anyone can do about it."

"You've employed a lawyer?"

"Not yet."

"But you should! That's the very first thing you should do."

"I know," Gale told him. "We're trying to get one, but lawyers don't seem to want clients who haven't any money—at least the ones we've tried so far."

"But I know plenty of lawyers. I'll get one for you."

Gale shook her head. "No thank you," she said. "Phil wouldn't want you to do that—and neither would I."

"See here!" Brian leaned forward, emphasizing the words, "Your brother's in a bad spot, don't you realize that? This thing is liable to become serious. I don't want to frighten you, but if Vogel should die—"

Gale got to her feet. "I know," she said. "If Vogel dies, Phil will be tried—for murder. And he's innocent. He didn't have any more to do with that shooting than you or I. The men who say he did are simply lying, that's all. They tried to frame Phil. They think they can do it, but they can't. I'll work—I'll do anything to save him!"

"But you can't do it alone. You've got to have help. You'll need a smart lawyer—one of the best. Let me get—"

Gale interrupted sharply. "No," she said. "There's nothing you can do, Mr. Westmore, for Phil—or for me."

"You mean that?"

"I certainly do."

Brian's eyes sought hers, held them. A moment more and he rose to his feet. "Well," he said slowly, "if that's the way you feel about it, I guess there's nothing more to say. Unless you change your mind. If you should—"

"I won't change it," Gale told him. Her cheeks were colorless but her eyes seemed unnaturally bright.

"Just the same, if you should I'll be glad to hear from you." He was at the door now, his hand on the knob. "I'll be glad to hear from you," he repeated, "in case you change your mind. Good night."

Gale closed the door and turned away.

Twenty-four hours can seem an endless time. Gale thought this, walking along the street beside Steve. It had been 24 hours—even a little more than that—since she had seen her brother. Twenty-four hours of hoping, waiting. Twenty-four hours of telling herself that somehow things would be all right, that none of the dreadful things she had imagined were going to happen.

She hadn't wanted to come out tonight, but Steve had insisted. They were on their way to "the meeting."

Steve had said, "It's better for you to get out and see people than to stay cooped up at home."

"But I don't want to see people!"

"It's better for you," Steve insisted. "Besides, Phil would want you to."

Gale knew that was true. That was why she had decided to come, finally.

There were things to be grateful for tonight. Steve had succeeded in finding a lawyer to take Phil's case. He was a young lawyer and Gale had not been greatly reassured by his appearance. But he had promised to represent Phil and to wait a reasonable length of time for payment of his charges. That meant a great deal. The lawyer had talked in legal terms that had at first confused and then encouraged Gale. Since there was no money for bail, the lawyer explained there was no hope of arranging Phil's release. Even with bail it would have been difficult, probably impossible. While Vogel's life hung in the balance the charges would be delayed. Meanwhile, the lawyer would "look into" the facts.

Gale held to Steve's arm, walking down the street. It steadied her somehow, made it easier to think of going into the meeting.

"What are they going to talk about tonight, Steve?"

"Oh—more about getting new members, I guess. Phil's got a lot of friends in this crowd, Gale. A lot of them think that fight the other night was a frame-up. They think Vogel planned the whole thing."

"But why would he do that?"

"Oh, he didn't plan it the way it worked out, of course. Something went wrong. He didn't plan to get hurt himself. I wish I'd been there to see what really happened."

"Those who were there don't seem to know much about it."

"No—"

They had come to the house where the meeting was to be held. Steve knocked and they were admitted. A dozen or more men and women stood about. Some of them were in small groups, talking earnestly. Others smiled, exchanging jokes. Josie Gridley crossed to where Gale stood.

"I'm glad you came," Josie said. "I was afraid you wouldn't."

"Steve thought I ought to."

"Let's go over there and sit down," Josie suggested. "The chairs will be gone by the time everyone gets here."

They made their way to the chairs and sat down. Josie was in her usual high spirits, chattering brightly. Gale scarcely listened. She saw the door open and two girls whom she knew entered. A minute later, three men came in. Joe Gillaspie saw Gale and come over and spoke to her.

Joe said, "Don't you worry—Phil's goin' to come out of this all right."

"I try to make myself believe it."

"Sure he will!"

In 10 minutes more the room was filled. Joe stood up where everyone could see him and said, "Fellow workers, we ain't goin' to wait any longer. This is the time we said the meeting would start and we're goin' to start it."

"Mr. Chairman—" A small man with bushy, dark brows got to his feet. "Since our last meeting," he went on, "one of our members—one of our most active members—has found himself in a very unfortunate situation. You all know who I'm talkin' about. And you know that the other party in the case is an enemy to every member of this organization. The two who made the charges against our member are enemies. Fellow workers, I believe—and I know there are others here who believe the same thing—that our member was framed. I believe Ed Vogel is in the hospital tonight because the bullet that was intended for Phil Henderson hit Vogel instead.

"Fellow workers, the bosses are hiring stool pigeons to watch you all day in the mill and at night on the streets. You aren't safe anywhere. They're armed with guns—"

The words died in the sound of smashing wood and breaking glass.

Red Cross Continues Rehabilitation Work In East Carroll

The work of rehabilitation in the Lake Providence area is a considerably greater task than at first assumed by Mrs. W. C. Holstein, executive secretary of the Ouachita parish Red Cross chapter, who has been assigned temporarily to the East Carroll parish seat city following the tornado on April 6. Fully two more weeks will be required, said Mrs. Holstein, to complete the work initiated by the national Red Cross in its disaster relief department.

Refugees are living in box cars and tents while their homes are being entirely rebuilt or repaired. One hundred and fifty families are affected, Mrs. Holstein stated.

Mrs. Holstein spent the week-end in Monroe and will return Monday for a few more days' work in Lake Providence.

On January 1, 1933, there were 3,337 waterpower plants in this country; their combined output of electrical power was approximately 15,817,900 horsepower.

GIRLS TEST FILMS' ACCURACY

To test whether the treatment accorded to girl operators in city mills is really as good as shown in motion pictures, 11 girls from Iwaia prefecture have gone to work in a spinning mill in Kaminoseko, Japan. The group includes twenty-year-old Kiye Yamada, a girls high school graduate and daughter of well-to-do parents. About half the number will remain at the mill permanently, and the others will return home in a year or so to report the accuracy of the films to their

'ROBERTA'S' PIPE ORGAN NUMBER

AT LOCAL THEATERS

AT THE PARAMOUNT—Combining the talents of the three stars said to be most ideally suited to musical comedy, RKO-Radio brings to the screen, "Roberta," the Jerome Kern hit which proved a stage sensation. Irene Dunne, Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers are headlined in the motion picture.

With Miss Dunne singing, Astaire and Miss Rogers dancing, and a bevy of America's most beautiful girls displaying the latest in feminine style creations, the lavish production is said to move swiftly and tunefully through a most intriguing story. The plot centers about a double romance in Paris, city of color and gaiety.

The central situation sees an All-American football player as the owner of a feminine style salon, by accident of inheritance, and an American college band leader teamed with the favorite of the Paris music halls as the double attraction of a famous night club.

Among the Kern numbers which Miss Dunne sings is the popular "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes." Astaire and Miss Rogers introduce several spectacular dance routines which, it is claimed, outshine even the "Continental" and the "Night and Day" of "The Gay Divorcee."

Playing the romantic lead opposite Miss Dunne in the role of the football hero is Randolph Scott. Others in the brilliant cast include Helen Westley, Victor Varconi, Claire Dodd, Luis Alberni, Ferdinand Munier, Adrian Rosley and Torben Meyer.

In the band which Astaire leads are such headline entertainers as Johnny "Candy" Candido, Muzzy Marcellino, Gene Sheldon, Paul McLarind and Howard Lally. William Seiter directed the Pandro S. Berman production.

It is a colorful and picturesque drama based on Wallace Irwin's best selling novel, "North Shore," and is filled with thrills and intensely dynamic situations. In addition there is a glowing romance and a sensational court trial in which a young girl allows her reputation to be torn to shatters to save an innocent man from conviction of murder.

A society horse show, staged at the famous Los Angeles Breakfast club, and with some of the finest and bluest blooded horses of the west coast taking part, adds to the interest of the production.

There also are exciting polo matches in which Gene Raymond, Miss Stanwyck's romantic lead, and one of the best horsemen in Hollywood, takes active part. This is the first time Miss Stanwyck and Raymond have been cast together and the couple are said to make an ideal pair of screen lovers.

There is a quadrangular love affair, Genevieve Tobin, in the role of a wealthy but vixenish society woman, being Miss Stanwyck's rival for the love of Raymond, while John Eldredge is Raymond's rival, both being enamoured of the star of the picture.

An unusually large and talented cast plays in support of Miss Stanwyck and includes, besides the principals, Phillip Reed, Dorothy Tree, Nella Walker, Claude Gillington, Doris Lloyd, Hale Hamilton, Arthur Treacher, Ed Van Sloan, Forrester Harvey, Ann Shoemaker and Gordon Elliott.

Hildebrand Outlasts Auker And Sullivan To Win Close Battle

DETROIT, April 20. — (AP) — The Cleveland Indians, rated as the most dangerous pennant contender in the American league, went 14 innings today to turn back the Detroit Tigers 2 to 1 in a brilliant pitchers' battle.

Oral Hildebrand, pitching with fine control, went the route for the Tribe, scattering nine hits. He also provided the Indians with their first run in the sixth.

Hildebrand

Against Hildebrand Mickey Cochrane used his submarine ball pitcher, Eldon Auker, lifted him for Pinch Hitter Fox in the eighth, and sent Joe Sullivan, the rookie southpaw, from Hollywood, out to finish the last six innings.

It was Sullivan's debut in the big time, and he worked with the poise of a veteran, holding Cleveland hitless until the first of the fourteenth when he was nicked for the three blows that decided the game. Auker allowed but four blows in the eight frames he worked.

Cleveland broke into the scoring column on Hildebrand's single in the sixth. A sacrifice by Hughes, Vosmik's single and Averill's long fly to White scored the Tribe flinger.

Detroit counted in the ninth when Greenberg doubled and scored on Gehringer's single. Hank doubled again in the 12th, but was left. Gehringer with four hits in six trips was Detroit's most consistent hitter.

BROWNS WHIP CHISOX

ST. LOUIS, April 20.—(AP)—Celebrating their return to the baseball wars after three days of enforced idleness, the St. Louis Browns nicked George Earnshaw for four runs in the sixth today, then went on to take a 9 to 4 victory from the Chicago White Sox in a series opener.

The Browns went into the sixth trailing by a run. Doubles by Hemsley and Knott and singles by Melillo and West counted for four runs. In the next inning, with Stine pitching for Earnshaw, a base on balls forced in another Brownie run. West got a homer in the eighth. Knott was credited with the win.

Ferrell Picks Ferrell To Top American Moundsmen

Wes Thinks He May Hit 30 Victories With Red Sox This Year

By Dillon Graham
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Minus a cantankerous feeling of dissatisfaction with his lot, but with his right wing supple and a world of experience in his possession, the former Cleveland boy prodigy, Wesley Ferrell, figures none other than himself will be the American league's leading pitcher this season.

Wes Ferrell

Never happy during his last stretch with the Indians, the zip gone from his throws, Ferrell feels that happy days are here again for him. The Boston set-up pleases him. He thinks Yawkey and Collins and Cronin are a great trio and that Brother Rick Ferrell is a fine battery partner.

A warm sun beat down on the ball field as the lanky Wes lounged in the Red Sox dugout and peered into the future.

The leading American league hurler?

A grin spread over Ferrell's face. "You mean next to me?" he smiled.

"No joking, I'm expecting to be the head man among the pitchers," he said. "I've got as much stuff on the ball as I ever had. I feel great and I like the Boston setting."

Then more seriously as though talking to himself, Ferrell said:

"They can't beat me!"

Banging a clinched fist into the palm of his hand for emphasis, he added:

"When I'm right they can't beat me. Of course, I'll get my ears knocked off some times, as every pitcher does, but the days I'm right, I'm going to be just too right for anyone."

The blond, good-looking southerner, whose bare 25 years belie his long major league service, hopes to notch around 30 wins.

"I feel confident I'll win 20 games and if Boston continues to hit, my tally sheet may show around 30," said the tosser who won more than 20 games during each of his first four years in the majors.

"They've got a lot of good pitchers in this league, but derned if I know of one who's going to beat me."

HARDIN HOPES TO CRACK RECORD IN HURDLES AT PENN

If the handicappers hang out that sign next Friday at Philadelphia the thousands of fans who gather for the Penn Relays will see the 400-meter hurdle record for the meet knocked into a cocked hat.

The authority for that statement—but, of course, not in so many words—is Glenn (Slats) Hardin, Louisiana State's world record holder in the gruelling 400-meter hurdles. What Hardin said was this:

"If the weather is good and the track is fast, I'll try to really run and set them a record."

Now when Hardin says he will try to really run, brothers and sisters, some real running is in store for the customers. Hardin holds the recognized world's record of 50.6 and although some of the coaches have listed this mark as "perfection," the Louisiana star believes he can better that figure under the proper conditions—weather clear, track fast.

Last summer while touring Europe with a picked team of American track stars, Hardin turned in his 50.6 effort at Stockholm despite the fact that he was forced to run around two sharp curves on a track that was less than 400 meters in length.

Hardin feels confident that on a good track and especially around one curve he will be able to better his "perfection" mark. Just whether the Comet of the Canebrakes will be ready for such a sterling effort Friday remains to be seen, but when "Slats" says he will "try to really run" anything can happen.

Mike Chambers, L. S. U.'s new trainer, has been working overtime on Hardin's injured leg and yesterday the Louisiana star said, "It feels like a new leg." Then he added:

"I hope the weather is good at Philly. I want to try and really run up there. The program is ideal as far as I'm concerned. I'll run the 400-meter hurdles on Friday and the half-mile and quarter on the two-mile and one-mile relay teams on Saturday. I believe we should do right well in these events. We get a two-hour rest between the two-mile and mile races, so we ought to be fairly well rested."

Hardin runs anchor on both of these two fine relay teams and he is capable of turning in a 46.5 quarter and a 1:54 half.

BOLTON, WISNER WIN TRACK CUPS

Alexandria Team Wins Class A Meet, Bulldogs First In Class B

ALEXANDRIA, La., April 20.—(AP)—Bolton high of Alexandria in class A and Wisner in class B captured the track and field meet cups in the fourteenth annual central Louisiana meet at Louisiana college this afternoon with part of the events held in a driving rain.

Two marks, in the high and low hurdles, were set by Johnson of Bunkie.

In class A Bunkie was second and Vinton third. In class B Moreauville and Basile ranked second and third.

Methvin defeated Dry Prong for the volley ball girls cup, while the boys trophy went to Okaloosa which beat Oakdale.

Bolton boys won the tennis singles and doubles and St. Francis (Alexandria) captured the girls singles and doubles. Mixed doubles finals between Bolton and Winnfield were stopped by rain and will be played off Monday.

The track meet point-leaders were:

Class A boys—Bolton 61, Bunkie 17, Vinton 14, Oakdale 9, Rayville 9, Sulphur 6 1-2.

Mississippi College Track Team Noses Out Panthers

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 20.—(AP)—Splashing through a steady rain, the Mississippi college track team nosed out Birmingham-Southern here today, winning 59 1-2 points to 57 1-2. A thrilling relay race victory gave the Choctaws their points for victory.

Captain Hederman, of the Mississippi team was the individual star, with 21 1-4 points. The Choctaw captain won four first places, and was one of the four men on the relay team. His victories included the century dash, both hurdle events and the broad jump.

KING SAXON SETS NEW TRACK MARK

Kneblekamp Entry Beats Singing Wood At Jamaica Inaugural

NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP)—Breezing through the stretch as if out for a morning gallop, King Saxon from C. H. Kneblekamp's Kentucky stable today shattered the track record for six furlongs as the Metropolitan racing season made an auspicious opening at Jamaica with more than 15,000 fans packing the rambling Long Island thoroughbred plant.

With Cal Rainey, tiny apprentice from the blue grass country, aboard, the four-year old son of Saxon whirled around the oval in the electrifying time of 1:10 2-5 for his eighth victory in his last nine trips to the post. The time was three-fifths of a second faster than the track record, hung up by Serenader in 1925 under 110 pounds, eight less than King Saxon packed to victory today.

At the finish of the sprint, King Saxon was three lengths in front of Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Singing Wood, winner of the $100,000 Belmont futurity in 1933. Another four lengths to the rear trailed Mrs. Deering Howe's Only One while John Simonetti's Sergeant Byrne, victor in the event last year, could do no better than fifth.

Ouachita Valley League Starts Schedule Today

Monroe Merchants And Brown Mill, New Clubs, Meet In Opener

The official opening of the Ouachita Valley baseball league, composed of six teams including two represented from the twin cities of Monroe and West Monroe, will be celebrated this afternoon, providing weather permits. The Monroe Merchants clash with the Brown Paper mill nine on the Brownies' diamond at Brownville. The game starts at 3 o'clock. Ruston plays at Fairbanks and Swartz at Sterlington in the other openers.

The Merchants intend to start Joe Demaron, righthander from Biloxi, Miss., on the mound with Bob Avinger, former Big Six player and one time manager of the Waterproof club, behind the bat.

Either Ivy McDonald or Ralph Fields will take up the hurling chores for the Brownmen. Frank Frickle is scheduled to catch.

Both squads are in good shape for the tilt with the Monroe aggregation a little more advanced in respect to training. The Merchants have been busy for the past three weeks at Forsythe park under the direction of Manager Nick Bruscato while the Brownies started their training about ten days ago and have been knocked out of a few days since by bad weather.

The Merchants' starting lineup, in batting order, as announced yesterday will be Curry, short stop; Lee, third base; Joe Williams, left field; Bob Avinger, catcher; Sterling McClain, center field; Cox or Joe Haddad, right field; Bumble, second base; Sonny Hyde, first base; and Demaron, pitcher. Allen Bowen, a curve ball artist from Marion, may also get a chance to do his stuff for the Merchants during the battle, but Manager Bruscato is expected to watch the game from the bench. Bruscato suffered a sprained ankle about two weeks ago, and, although the injured member is back in fairly good shape, Bruscato is afraid to risk the chance of re-hurting the ankle before it has sufficiently healed.

Besides Manager Bruscato, McClain, Haddad and Hyde the remainder of Monroe's aggregation is composed of youths from widely separated towns and cities of the state and country. Lee hails from Chicago and Curry from Arcadia, Williams is a St. Joseph product, while Avinger claims Winnsboro is "home." Cox is from Natchez, Miss. Bumble is from Shreveport.

The Brown paper mill club boasts only local youths, both from West Monroe and Monroe. The paper mill authorities are planning a big program for the opening game and in order to boost the crowd for the "starter" the gates will be wide open to the public.

"Everybody is cordially invited to see this game free," Manager Herbert Steed, of the Brownies, said last night.

Although the batting order of the westside nine had not been definitely decided upon yesterday, the lineup will include Raymond Kitchen, first base; Blackie Craig, second base; Fluit Hundley, short stop; Cary Phillips, third base; Ted Dickson, Bob McNeely and Johnny Holmes, outfield; Frisch, catcher; and McDonald or Fields, pitcher.

The Monroe team is seeking the support of local merchants, according to Bruscato, and those who already have given assistance in equipping the squad are Twin City Motor company, Spatafora's pharmacy, National Biscuit company, Kraft Cheese company, Frenchie's Cafe No. 2, and Malcolm Biedenharn, local Jax distributor.

Large Field To Compete In Texas Women's Meet

HOUSTON, Texas, April 20.—(AP)—of the largest and fastest fields in the history of the 18-year-old Texas Womens Golf association championship will tee off over the River Oaks Country club course Monday morning in the qualifying round of the annual event.

One hundred and eight players had registered this afternoon and additional entries tomorrow are expected to swell that total to near 125 before the list closes late Sunday afternoon.

EAST DIXIE LOOP OPENS WEDNESDAY

Columbus, Greenville, Clarksdale And El Dorado Get Openers

JACKSON, Miss., April 20.—(AP)—With a strengthened league and two new cities back in organized baseball, the East Dixie league opens its 1935 season Wednesday.

Opening games find Jackson playing at Columbus, Miss., Greenwood at Greenville, Helena, Ark., at Clarksdale, and Pine Bluff at El Dorado.

Helena and Columbus are the newcomers to the league, and the interest in these cities is reported to be high.

Alvin Gardner, president of the Texas league, who is also president of the East Dixie, and its sister circuit, the West Dixie, predicts one of the most successful seasons the league has ever experienced.

Most of the clubs have bolstered their line-ups and the season's opener Wednesday will find many new faces in the strengthened roster of players of the various clubs.

Many managerial changes have taken place since last summer. The pilots who will draw the applause or wrath of the railbirds of their respective "home-towns" are: Hershel Bobo, Jackson; Glen Bolton, Greenville; Clay Hopper, Greenwood; Ray Query, El Dorado; Lena Styles, Pine Bluff; Rod Whitney, Helena; slim Brewer, Columbus; and Harry Strohm, Clarksdale.

Opening day festivities have been planned at Columbus, Greenville, Clarksdale and El Dorado, with stores and business houses closed in at least two of the cities.

A split-season will be played the same as last year, with the winner of the first half playing the second-half winner playing the second-half winner for the league championship. An inter-league playoff with the West Dixie champions will follow.

CARDINALS TRIM PIRATES, 4 TO 1; FRISCH IS SPIKED

Manager To Be Out Of Lineup One Week After Clash With Suhr

PITTSBURGH, April 20.—(AP)—St. Louis' champion Cardinals won what may prove to be a costly victory today from the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4 to 1, behind the steady hurling of Lefty Bill Walker.

Frankie Frisch

Three stitches were required to close the wound and a physician said it may be a week before he can return to the lineup.

Up until that period Walker had been master of the Buc's batsmen, aided by two brilliant fielding plays by Pepper Martin in pinches.

The Cards' first run came in the opening inning when Babe Herman misjudged Martin's line single and it went for a triple. Frisch singled Pepper home.

Except for that, Waite Hoyte did well against the Cards until the sixth. With two disposed of, Joe Medwick singled, moved to third on Collins' single and counted as Virgil Davis dropped a pop single back of third.

Hoyt weakened again in the ninth when the Cards again bunched three successive hits, two of them doubles, and counted two runs. Davis looped a double to center and T. Moore duplicated with a hit into short right on which Davis was held at third. Leo Durocher singled sharply into left to drive his two mates home.

After Suhr's double and Thevenow's pinch single, Walker fanned Bill Brubaker, batting for Lloyd Waner, to end the game.

GIANTS FINALLY WIN

PHILADELPHIA, April 20.—(AP)—After two unsuccessful efforts the New York Giants won their first game of the season today, beating the Phillies, 6 to 4, but they had to go 11 long innings to do it.

The Phils, who hammered Hal Schumacher and Carl Hubbell for 18 hits, tossed away many chances to win although they knotted the count once when the Giants had gone ahead in the tenth. Sy Johnson was lifted for a pinch hitter in that inning and the Giants made short work of Joe Bowman, former New Yorker, and John Pezzulo. Hubbell and Dick Bartell rapped Bowman for a single and a double, respectively, and when Pezzulo came in Manager Bill Terry promptly smashed a single that brought both runners home.

Hildebrand Outlasts Auker And Sullivan To Win Close Battle

DETROIT, April 20. — (AP) — The Cleveland Indians, rated as the most dangerous pennant contender in the American league, went 14 innings today to turn back the Detroit Tigers 2 to 1 in a brilliant pitchers' battle.

Hildebrand

Oral Hildebrand, pitching with fine control, went the route for the Tribe, scattering nine hits. He also provided the Indians with their first run in the sixth.

Against Hildebrand Mickey Cochrane used his submarine ball pitcher, Eldon Auker, lifted him for Pinch Hitter Fox in the eighth, and sent Joe Sullivan, the rookie southpaw, from Hollywood, out to finish the last six innings.

It was Sullivan's debut in the big time, and he worked with the poise of a veteran, holding Cleveland hitless until the first of the fourteenth when he was nicked for the three blows that decided the game. Auker allowed but four blows in the eight frames he worked.

Cleveland broke into the scoring column on Hildebrand's single in the sixth. A sacrifice by Hughes, Vosmik's single and Averill's long fly to White scored the Tribe flinger.

Detroit counted in the ninth when Greenberg doubled and scored on Gehringer's single. Hank doubled again in the 12th, but was left. Gehringer with four hits in six trips was Detroit's most consistent hitter.

BROWNS WHIP CHISOX

ST. LOUIS, April 20.—(AP)—Celebrating their return to the baseball wars after three days of enforced idleness, the St. Louis Browns nicked George Earnshaw for four runs in the sixth today, then went on to take a 9 to 4 victory from the Chicago White Sox in a series opener.

The Browns went into the sixth trailing by a run. Doubles by Hemsley and Knott and singles by Melillo and West counted for four runs. In the next inning, with Stine pitching for Earnshaw, a base on balls forced in another Brownie run. West got a homer in the eighth. Knott was credited with the win.

Ferrell Picks Ferrell To Top American Moundsmen

Wes Thinks He May Hit 30 Victories With Red Sox This Year

By Dillon Graham
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Minus a cantankerous feeling of dissatisfaction with his lot, but with his right wing supple and a world of experience in his possession, the former Cleveland boy prodigy, Wesley Ferrell, figures none other than himself will be the American league's leading pitcher this season.

Wes Ferrell

Never happy during his last stretch with the Indians, the zip gone from his throws, Ferrell feels that happy days are here again for him. The Boston set-up pleases him. He thinks Yawkey and Collins and Cronin are a great trio and that Brother Rick Ferrell is a fine battery partner.

A warm sun beat down on the ball field as the lanky Wes lounged in the Red Sox dugout and peered into the future.

The leading American league hurler?

A grin spread over Ferrell's face. "You mean next to me?" he smiled.

"No joking, I'm expecting to be the head man among the pitchers," he said. "I've got as much stuff on the ball as I ever had. I feel great and I like the Boston setting."

Then more seriously as though talking to himself, Ferrell said:

"They can't beat me!"

Banging a clinched fist into the palm of his hand for emphasis, he added:

"When I'm right they can't beat me. Of course, I'll get my ears knocked off some times, as every pitcher does, but the days I'm right, I'm going to be just too right for anyone."

The blond, good-looking southerner, whose bare 25 years belie his long major league service, hopes to notch around 30 wins.

"I feel confident I'll win 20 games and if Boston continues to hit, my tally sheet may show around 30," said the tosser who won more than 20 games during each of his first four years in the majors.

"They've got a lot of good pitchers in this league, but derned if I know of one who's going to beat me."

ALEXANDRIA, La., April 20.—(AP)—Bolton high of Alexandria in class A and Wisner in class B captured the track and field meet cups in the fourteenth annual central Louisiana meet at Louisiana college this afternoon with part of the events held in a driving rain.

Two marks, in the high and low hurdles, were set by Johnson of Bunkie.

In class A Bunkie was second and Vinton third. In class B Moreauville and Basile ranked second and third.

Methvin defeated Dry Prong for the volley ball girls cup, while the boys trophy went to Okaloosa which beat Oakdale.

Bolton boys won the tennis singles and doubles and St. Francis (Alexandria) captured the girls singles and doubles. Mixed doubles finals between Bolton and Winnfield were stopped by rain and will be played off Monday.

The track meet point-leaders were: Class A boys—Bolton 61, Bunkie 17, Vinton 14, Oakdale 9, Rayville 9, Sulphur 6 1-2.

Mississippi College Track Team Noses Out Panthers

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 20.—(AP)—Splashing through a steady rain, the Mississippi college track team nosed out Birmingham-Southern here today, winning 59 1-2 points to 57 1-2. A thrilling relay race victory gave the Choctaws their points for victory.

Captain Hederman, of the Mississippi team was the individual star, with 21 1-4 points. The Choctaw captain won four first places, and was one of the four men on the relay team. His victories included the century dash, both hurdle events and the broad jump.

HARDIN HOPES TO CRACK RECORD IN HURDLES AT PENN

If the handicappers hang out that sign next Friday at Philadelphia the thousands of fans who gather for the Penn Relays will see the 400-meter hurdle record for the meet knocked into a cocked hat.

The authority for that statement—but, of course, not in so many words—is Glenn (Slats) Hardin, Louisiana State's world record holder in the gruelling 400-meter hurdles. What Hardin said was this:

"If the weather is good and the track is fast, I'll try to really run and set them a record."

Now when Hardin says he will try to really run, brothers and sisters, some real running is in store for the customers. Hardin holds the recognized world's record of 50.6 and although some of the coaches have listed this mark as "perfection," the Louisiana star believes he can better that figure under the proper conditions—weather clear, track fast.

Last summer while touring Europe with a picked team of American track stars, Hardin turned in his 50.6 effort at Stockholm despite the fact that he was forced to run around two sharp curves on a track that was less than 400 meters in length.

Hardin feels confident that on a good track and especially around one curve he will be able to better his "perfection" mark. Just whether the Comet of the Canebrakes will be ready for such a sterling effort Friday remains to be seen, but when "Slats" says he will "try to really run" anything can happen.

Mike Chambers, L. S. U.'s new trainer, has been working overtime on Hardin's injured leg and yesterday the Louisiana star said, "It feels like a new leg." Then he added:

"I hope the weather is good at Philly. I want to try and really run up there. The program is ideal as far as I'm concerned. I'll run the 400-meter hurdles on Friday and the half-mile and quarter on the two-mile and one-mile relay teams on Saturday. I believe we should do right well in these events. We get a two-hour rest between the two-mile and mile races, so we ought to be fairly well rested."

Hardin runs anchor on both of these two fine relay teams and he is capable of turning in a 46.5 quarter and a 1:54 half.

KING SAXON SETS NEW TRACK MARK

Kneblekamp Entry Beats Singing Wood At Jamaica Inaugural

NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP)—Breezing through the stretch as if out for a morning gallop, King Saxon from C. H. Kneblekamp's Kentucky stable today shattered the track record for six furlongs as the Metropolitan racing season made an auspicious opening at Jamaica with more than 15,000 fans packing the rambling Long Island thoroughbred plant.

With Cal Rainey, tiny apprentice from the blue grass country, aboard, the four-year old son of Saxon whirled around the oval in the electrifying time of 1:10 2-5 for his eighth victory in his last nine trips to the post. The time was three-fifths of a second faster than the track record, hung up by Serenader in 1925 under 110 pounds, eight less than King Saxon packed to victory today.

At the finish of the sprint, King Saxon was three lengths in front of Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Singing Wood, winner of the $100,000 Belmont futurity in 1933. Another four lengths to the rear trailed Mrs. Deering Howe's Only One while John Simonetti's Sergeant Byrne, victor in the event last year, could do no better than fifth.

Ouachita Valley League Starts Schedule Today

Monroe Merchants And Brown Mill, New Clubs, Meet In Opener

The official opening of the Ouachita Valley baseball league, composed of six teams including two represented from the twin cities of Monroe and West Monroe, will be celebrated this afternoon, providing weather permits. The Monroe Merchants clash with the Brown Paper mill nine on the Brownies' diamond at Brownville. The game starts at 3 o'clock. Ruston plays at Fairbanks and Swartz at Sterlington in the other openers.

The Merchants intend to start Joe Demaron, righthander from Biloxi, Miss., on the mound with Bob Avinger, former Big Six player and one time manager of the Waterproof club, behind the bat.

Either Ivy McDonald or Ralph Fields will take up the hurling chores for the Brownmen. Frank Frickle is scheduled to catch.

Both squads are in good shape for the tilt with the Monroe aggregation a little more advanced in respect to training. The Merchants have been busy for the past three weeks at Forsythe park under the direction of Manager Nick Bruscato while the Brownies started their training about ten days ago and have been knocked out of a few days since by bad weather.

The Merchants' starting lineup, in batting order, as announced yesterday will be Curry, short stop; Lee, third base; Joe Williams, left field; Bob Avinger, catcher; Sterling McClain, center field; Cox or Joe Haddad, right field; Bumble, second base; Sonny Hyde, first base; and Demaron, pitcher. Allen Bowen, a curve ball artist from Marion, may also get a chance to do his stuff for the Merchants during the battle, but Manager Bruscato is expected to watch the game from the bench. Bruscato suffered a sprained ankle about two weeks ago, and, although the injured member is back in fairly good shape, Bruscato is afraid to risk the chance of rehurting the ankle before it has sufficiently healed.

Besides Manager Bruscato, McClain, Haddad and Hyde the remainder of Monroe's aggregation is composed of youths from widely separated towns and cities of the state and country. Lee hails from Chicago and Curry from Arcadia, Williams is a St. Joseph product, while Avinger claims Winnsboro is "home." Cox is from Natchez, Miss. Bumble is from Shreveport.

The Brown paper mill club boasts only local youths, both from West Monroe and Monroe. The paper mill authorities are planning a big program for the opening game and in order to boost the crowd for the "starter" the gates will be wide open to the public.

"Everybody is cordially invited to see this game free," Manager Herbert Steed, of the Brownies, said last night.

Although the batting order of the westside nine had not been definitely decided upon yesterday, the lineup will include Raymond Kitchen, first base; Blackie Craig, second base; Fluit Hundley, short stop; Cary Phillips, third base; Ted Dickson, Bob McNeely and Johnny Holmes, outfield; Frisch, catcher; and McDonald or Fields, pitcher.

The Monroe team is seeking the support of local merchants, according to Bruscato, and those who already have given assistance in equipping the squad are Twin City Motor company, Spatafora's pharmacy, National Biscuit company, Kraft Cheese company, Frenchie's Cafe No. 2, and Malcolm Biedenharn, local Jax distributor.

Large Field To Compete In Texas Women's Meet

HOUSTON, Texas, April 20.—(AP)—of the largest and fastest fields in the history of the 18-year-old Texas Womens Golf association championship will tee off over the River Oaks Country club course Monday morning in the qualifying round of the annual event.

One hundred and eight players had registered this afternoon and additional entries tomorrow are expected to swell that total to near 125 before the list closes late Sunday afternoon.

EAST DIXIE LOOP OPENS WEDNESDAY

Columbus, Greenville, Clarksdale And El Dorado Get Openers

JACKSON, Miss., April 20.—(AP)—With a strengthened league and two new cities back in organized baseball, the East Dixie league opens its 1935 season Wednesday.

Opening games find Jackson playing at Columbus, Miss., Greenwood at Greenville, Helena, Ark., at Clarksdale, and Pine Bluff at El Dorado.

Helena and Columbus are the newcomers to the league, and the interest in these cities is reported to be high.

Alvin Gardner, president of the Texas league, who is also president of the East Dixie, and its sister circuit, the West Dixie, predicts one of the most successful seasons the league has ever experienced.

Most of the clubs have bolstered their line-ups and the season's opener Wednesday will find many new faces in the strengthened roster of players of the various clubs.

Many managerial changes have taken place since last summer. The pilots who will draw the applause or wrath of the railbirds of their respective "home-towns" are: Hershel Bobo, Jackson; Glen Bolton, Greenville; Clay Hopper, Greenwood; Ray Query, El Dorado; Lena Styles, Pine Bluff; Rod Whitney, Helena; slim Brewer, Columbus; and Harry Strohm, Clarksdale.

Opening day festivities have been planned at Columbus, Greenville, Clarksdale and El Dorado, with stores and business houses closed in at least two of the cities.

A split-season will be played the same as last year, with the winner of the first half playing the second-half winner playing the second-half winner for the league championship. An inter-league playoff with the West Dixie champions will follow.

CARDINALS TRIM PIRATES, 4 TO 1; FRISCH IS SPIKED

Manager To Be Out Of Lineup One Week After Clash With Suhr

PITTSBURGH, April 20.—(AP)—St. Louis' champion Cardinals won what may prove to be a costly victory today from the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4 to 1, behind the steady hurling of Lefty Bill Walker.

Frankie Frisch

Three stitches were required to close the wound and a physician said it may be a week before he can return to the lineup.

Up until that period Walker had been master of the Buc's batsmen, aided by two brilliant fielding plays by Pepper Martin in pinches.

The Cards' first run came in the opening inning when Babe Herman misjudged Martin's line single and it went for a triple. Frisch singled Pepper home.

Except for that, Waite Hoyte did well against the Cards until the sixth. With two disposed of, Joe Medwick singled, moved to third on Collins' single and counted as Virgil Davis dropped a pop single back of third.

Hoyt weakened again in the ninth when the Cards again bunched three successive hits, two of them doubles, and counted two runs. Davis looped a double to center and T. Moore duplicated with a hit into short right on which Davis was held at third. Leo Durocher singled sharply into left to drive his two mates home.

After Suhr's double and Thevenow's pinch single, Walker fanned Bill Brubaker, batting for Lloyd Waner, to end the game.

GIANTS FINALLY WIN

PHILADELPHIA, April 20.—(AP)—After two unsuccessful efforts the New York Giants won their first game of the season today, beating the Phillies, 6 to 4, but they had to go 11 long innings to do it.

The Phils, who hammered Hal Schumacher and Carl Hubbell for 16 hits, tossed away many chances to win although they knotted the count once when the Giants had gone ahead in the tenth. Sy Johnson was lifted for a pinch hitter in that inning and the Giants made short work of Joe Bowman, former New Yorker, and John Pezzulo. Hubbell and Dick Bartell rapped Bowman for a single and a double, respectively, and when Pezzulo came in Manager Bill Terry promptly smashed a single that brought both runners home.

NEVILLE AND BYRD REACH RALLY BASEBALL FINALS

TIGERS TO MEET SHREVEPORT NINE AT TECH MONDAY

Ouachita Hurler Pitches No-Hitter But Lions Lose Second Tilt

RUSTON, La., April 20.—(Special)—Eliminating two teams each in the preliminaries of North Louisiana high school baseball championships, Neville of Monroe and Byrd of Shreveport will meet on the Louisiana Tech diamond here Monday afternoon to decide who will wear the rally crown. The Monroe team defeated the Gibsland nine by an 8-to-0 count to go into the semi-finals. The Gibsland boys were held in complete check by Mathinson hurling for Neville, while his teammates touched Stinnette for 11 hits and eight runs. Only two men reached base during the entire contest both of which were from scratch hits.

Score by innings:

Neville	120	05—8	11 0
Gibsland	000	00—0	1 5

Mathinson and Tuzina, C. Stinnette and Merritt.

Neville then gave Simsboro an 11-to-1 trouncing for their second victory, which put them in the final playoff. Stroud held the Simsboro lads to one run and one hit for five innings, with the game being called because of darkness. The Monroe team proved entirely too strong for the Simsboro nine, making runs almost at will until dusk stopped the slaughter.

The elimination process started off with a close contest between Gibsland and Mer Rouge, with the Gibsland lads coming out victorious by a 4-to-2 count. Stinnette, pitching for Gibsland, struck out 11 men to nose out Metheny in a pitching duel.

Gibsland	210	00—3	5 1

C. Stinnette and Merritt; Metheny and Braddock.

Byrd opened the day by defeating Dubach, 6 to 0, in the first no-hit, no-run game of the elimination series. Crowe, pitching for the Yellow Jackets, allowed only two men to reach first base. The Byrd nine bunched five hits to score six runs and beat the Dubach men.

Score by innings:

Byrd	024	00—6	5 1
Dubach	000	00—0	0 6

Crowe and D. Overdyke; Harrist and Harrist.

Takewell, of O. P. H. S., pitched the perfect ball game against the Downsville nine, taking them as they came up throughout the game. Takewell struck out 10 of the 15 men that faced him and the remaining went out in order while his own men amassed four runs off six hits to take the contest.

Downsville	000	00—0	0 0

Jones and Simpson; Takewell and Stewart.

Byrd took an extra inning contest from O. P. H. S. to go into the finals against the Neville nine. The Yellow Jackets took the lead in the second inning by making five runs off three hits, an error and a walk, but were tied in the seventh inning and the contest emerged into an extra period contest with the Byrd group tallying to take the contest.

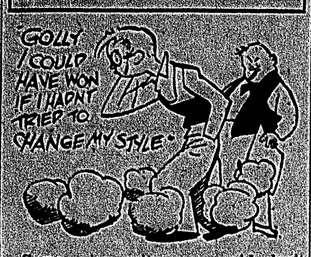
TOM TAW TALKS



Some wise writer once said don't change horses in mid-stream—or something like that. My tip to marble shooters is—don't change your style.

Many a possible champion has lost because he has changed his style of shooting for a new method which he had no chance to perfect. If you start a tournament with an "arch shot"—stick to it. If you begin with a "roll shot"—don't throw it over until the tournament is finished.

Don't try to imitate some other player—his style may be fine—but always remember he has probably spent weeks trying to perfect it and you cannot step in and do the same thing in fifteen minutes.

The "big shots"—the boys and girls who have won honors—never alter their style of play in the midst of a battle.

PLAT EYE WINS 'GRAW FEATURE

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 20. (AP)—Showing his heels to half dozen other Kentucky derby nominees, Plat Eye, 3-year-old brown colt of Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stables, won the $7,500 added mile-and-a-sixteenth Chesapeake stakes here today in a driving finish.

He broke third but took command going into the first turn and set the pace for the remainder of the way to win by a neck. Sun Fairplay, Fairfields stable entry, closed with a tremendous rush in the last half mile to place and Commonwealth, Mrs. W. M. Jeffords' derby nominee, gained fast when released from restraint to show.

Plat Eye, with S. Coucci up, was rated intelligently while setting the pace. The Son of Chicle and Crazy Moon met a strong bid from Bloodroot, E. R. Bradley entry, in the last three sixteenths, but saved ground and held on with excellent courage under strong handling.

The victory was worth $6,900 to the Greentree stables, $1,500 for place, $750 for show and $350 for fourth. The time was 1:46 1-5 on a fast track.

Plat Eye was a four-and-a-half to one shot, paying $11.30 for $2. Sun Fairplay paid $13.30 to place and Commonwealth $2.80 to show.

J. Renick was up on Sun Fairplay and R. Workman on Commonwealth.

The five other Kentucky derby nominees ranged anywhere from fifth to last, with Stickemup, Thomas B. Gay's chestnut colt, in last. Other derby nominees and the order of their placing were:

DAWSON FINALLY WINS MILE RACE WITH CUNNINGHAM

Oklahoman's 'Kick' Beats Kansan In Greatest Upset Of Meet

By Charles Grumich
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

LAWRENCE, Kas., April 20.—(AP)—Glenn Cunningham yielded to the finishing "kick" of his usually consistent victim—Glen Dawson, of Skiatook, Okla.—today in the greatest upset of the 13th annual Kansas relays carnival.

The meet produced eight new records, two of them by the University of Iowa's sprinters bettering accepted world standards.

Banqueted last night in Kansas City and recovering from intestinal influenza that almost cancelled his appearance before a crowd of home-state folks officially estimated at between 10,000 and 15,000, Cunningham suffered his first loss this year after 10 straight victories at various distances.

Dawson's home stretch triumph was timed at 4 minutes, 17.4 seconds, far slower than Cunningham's own world record of 4.6.07.

Five of the seven university class relay races were run in new record time.

Iowa's all-star dash team composed of Jimmy Owen, former high school sensation from St. Louis; C. W. Briggs, A. G. Dooley and Carl F. Nelson, ran the quarter-mile sprint mark down to 40.5 seconds, beating the listed world record of 40.8 made by the University of Southern California in 1931, with Owen running anchor.

The same Hawkeye combination in revised order came back a little later and lowered the half-mile mark to 1:25.2.

The listed world record is 1:25.8, established by Southern California in 1927.

Indiana set up a new meet mark of 10:21.2 in the distance medley.

Indiana's old 3:16.4 standard for the meet in the one mile university relay was beaten by Longhorn quarter-milers from the University of Texas, who stepped the eight furlongs in 3:16.1.

S. J. C. Petty, of Rice institute, hurled the discus to a new meet distance of 154 feet even.

With balmy weather prevailing for the mid-west's first big outdoor parade of thin-clads, Dawson "kicked" down the home stretch to finish a couple of strides ahead of the Kansan in the invitation race paced by a front-running mile relay team.

Cunningham had set the pace through most of the race and thrown down the bell-lap challenge of Harold Manning, the lanky Wichita boy, when the Oklahoman overhauled him from third place. Manning finished third and last.

It was Dawson's second conquest of the man for whom he usually served as a consistent victim. The pacing quarter-miler of "second string" caliber were added to the race with the idea that they would provide Cunningham the kind of competition he needs to equal or approach his world record of 4:06.7.

The university class produced the fastest 2-mile baton event ever run in the Kansas relays. Kansas State college's half-milers, makers of the new record of 7:45.7, conquered Arizona and Oklahoma.

Elwyn Dees, a sturdy Kansas football lineman, pushed the shot 51 feet 3 3-8 inches to a new record.

The 120-yard high hurdle record was set down to 14.5 by Sam Allen, hurdler from Oklahoma Baptist university.

Clyde Coffman, of Ford, Kan., who placed seventh in the Olympic all-around competition, won the decathlon title in a close contest with Loyett Burk, hurdling ace from the University of Oklahoma. They were only 10 points apart, 6719 to 6709.

Five Men Released By Greenville Ball Club

GREENVILLE, Miss., April 20.—(AP)—Glen Bolton, manager of Greenville Buckshots of the East Dixie league, tonight announced release of Leland Faulkner, Senath, Mo., and Marcus Gaines of Blytheville, Ark., pitchers; Lucian Tarranto of New Orleans and Dick Koenig of Jackson, infielders. Pete West, catcher, was returned to Birmingham.

Release of the five men reduced the squad to twenty-four, and Bolton announced that Vitter, second baseman, brother of Joe Vitter of the Pine Bluff Judges and Martina, a shortstop, son of the veteran oyster shucker, Joe Martina, had been secured for tryouts. Al Hunt, an infielder and Bracheen, left-handed pitcher, have been secured from the Galveston club of the Texas league.

Greenville opens the East Dixie league season with Greenwood Chiefs here on next Wednesday.

Ole Miss And Choctaws To Renew Athletic Relations

UNIVERSITY, Miss., April 20.—(AP)—For the first time in ten years the University of Mississippi and Mississippi college, of Clinton, will compete in athletics.

The occasion for this renewal of athletic relations will be a triangular track meet held on the university track Saturday afternoon, April 27, with Millsaps being the third school to compete.

Disagreement over the eligibility of an Ole Miss pitcher in a baseball game in 1922 caused Mississippi college and Ole Miss to sever athletic relations.

The Ole Miss track team was reported in excellent condition and ready for the season's opening meet. The sprints will be the main department of strength for the university.

What Chance Has Chance Sun In The Derby? History Says Favorites Generally Do Well

By Charles M. Guthrie

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 20.—(AP)—Memories of past Kentucky derbies, charged with drama and tension, come winging back as the 61st running draws near.

Will Chance Sun, the favorite, crash through as did Old Rosebud, Hindoo, Halma, Regret and Twenty Grand, dashing down the stretch to turf immortality?

Or will he be another favorite that failed, even as did Proctor Knott, Banburg, Leonard, Runnymede, Robespierre, Upset and Blue Larkspur?

Since the derby inaugural, won by the lion-hearted little Aristides in 1875, favorites have, generally speaking, fared well. In the 60 runnings of the classic they have come home in front 28 times and fihished second 14 times. One was third.

But the picture is likewise studded with failures. Baden Baden, in 1877, was the first colt to upset the derby dope bucket, when he took the lead in the last half mile and trounced the favorite, Leonard.

1880 Finish Like 1933's

A finish similar to the catch-as-catch-can of 1933, when Broker's Tip nosed out Head Play, was staged in 1880, on a track inches deep in dust. Kimball, the favorite, was nosed out by Fonso while the jockeys battled.

A little Kentucky gelding, Apollo, proved the highly touted Runnymede's nemesis in 1882. Apollo had never raced as a two-year-old.

Bersan was figured the victim of a poor ride in 1885 when he lost by a neck to Joe Cotton. Two years later the turf world was startled by Banburg's defeat in the classic. He finished fourth, faltering after challenging the winner, Montrose.

Gallifet gave all he had in 1888, only to run second to the onrushing Macbeth II, lightly played.

The 1889 race, which saw Spokane hang up a new record for the mile and one half race—then the derby route—saw a favorite go down to defeat in the most spectacular derby up to that time, as a game little gelding, Proctor Knott, was beaten by a whisker.

Donerail Phid Best

Riley took the run out of the well-liked Robespierre in 1890 and in 1901 Alard Sheck, favored to win at odds of 10 to 7, made the most dismal showing of any favorite in history, sulking when called upon and finishing far in the ruck.

Early was a 5 to 3 favorite in 1903 but Judge Himes, which everybody thought might as well have remained in the barn, trounced the favorite in a great stretch duel.

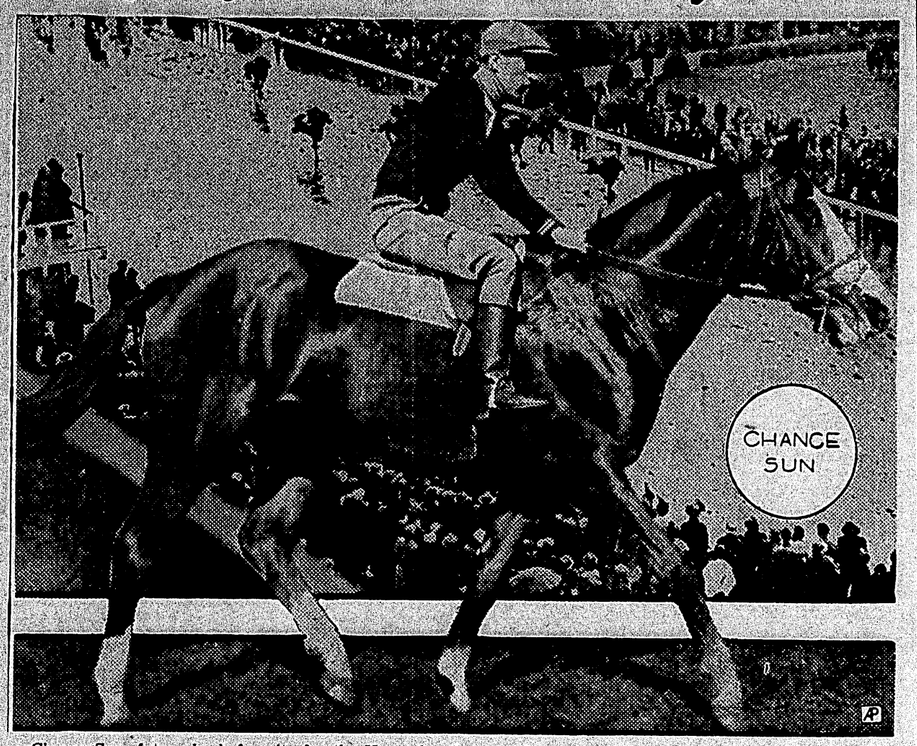
Red Gauntlet was the favorite at 6 to 5 in 1907 but Pink Star, at 15 to 1, won. Red Gauntlet was fifth.

Sir Cleges in 1908 was beaten by Stonestreet, 60 to 1.

But the 1913 race proved the granddaddy of all surprises. It saw Donerail, longest priced horse ever to win, come on with a rush to defeat Ten Point by a head. The odds on the winner were $184.90 to $2.

Upset, the only horse ever to defeat Man o' War, didn't have enough to head off Paul Jones in the 1920 classic and Prudery, a filly, calculated to steal the 1921 show, was no match for the Bradley entry of Behave Yourself and Black Servant.

The most heavily backed favorite of recent years failing to pay off was Blue Larkspur. It was the Bradley colt's misfortune to clash with Clyde Van Dusen on a soggy track in 1929 and the son of Man o' War easily proved himself the best mudder. Blue Larkspur with fourth.



Chance Sun, future book favorite for the Kentucky derby, will have precedent on his side. Twenty-eight favorites have won, 14 placed second, in the 60 previous derbies. Background: the muddy scene of Blue Larkspur's (big favorite) loss to Clyde Van Dusen in 1929.

ALLISON SWEEPS PINEHURST MEET

Texan Takes Singles Title And Shares In Two Doubles Crowns

PINEHURST, N. C., April 20.—(AP)—Wilmer Allison, the United States No. 1 player, made a clean sweep of the North and South tennis titles today by winning the singles and shares of the doubles and mixed doubles.

The fiery Texan annexed the singles championship this morning by polishing off J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J., in less than an hour by scores of 6-1, 6-2, 6-4.

Following lunch, he and Hall teamed to take the doubles from Marcel Rainville and Laird Watt of Montreal, winning 6-2, 6-1, 4-6, 8-6.

After the doubles match, Allison returned to the courts with Mrs. Penelope Anderson McBride, Short Hills, N. J., and added the mixed doubles crown by beating Jane Sharp, Pasadena, Calif., and Hal Surface, Kansas City, 7-5, 7-5.

This made a total of nine sets for Allison for the day and he won in eight of them.

Alabama Track Squad Beats Tennessee Team

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 20.—(AP)—Although taking eight first and five second places, the University of Alabama track team barely nosed out the University of Tennessee here today, 61 1-2 to 56 1-2, on a field made slow by a drizzling rain.

Tennessee captured six first and seven second places.

It was the third southeastern conference victory for the Tide and the Vols' first loss of the season.

ON THE SIDELINES

by Edward J. Neil

Out of the nowhere and into here is the success story of James J. Braddock, the lanky Irishman who gets his shot at fame and glory June 13 against the heavyweight champion, Max Baer, in Madison Square Garden's big bowl on Long Island.

It doesn't seem possible, but six months ago Braddock's manager, Joe Gould, went out and borrowed $36 to pay the Braddock milk bill so the youngsters in the house could keep up with their nourishment. Now he's getting 15 per cent of a gate that may well run to $300,000, and that's a neat chunk of $45,000.

Braddock, during the lean period that preceded his recent comeback, actually worked as janitor in the apartment house where he still lives as payment for his rent. Now, a year later, he won't move from that location because as heavyweight title challenger he adds luster to the house where he formerly carried out the ashes.

He went down to the docks to work as a stevedore, and when he did so they said he was getting back to hard manual labor in order to regain his old time physical condition. That was merely his prayer. He was back on the docks stevedoring because he and his family had to eat.

He Can Fight, All Right

So you like to see the breaks come to that kind of a fellow. He's only 28, but he's had a tough time of it. He wasn't any too smart when he was campaigning as a light heavyweight. He burned up his dough as fast as he got his hands on it. He liked night life, and he liked refreshments.

Adversity taught him a lot, and now that he's back up there, with a fortune wavering beyond his fingertips, with only a man who hasn't learned that same lesson in his way. Can he fight? Enough, probably, to win the heavyweight championship of the world from Baer on the night of June 13. That's not a prediction. It's mostly a hunch. But Braddock right now is like a fellow on a winning streak in a dice game, at a poker table, or a roulette wheel. The odds are all against him. But Lady Luck touches him on the shoulder, wiping out all the odds.

Something To Remember

Remember this about Baer and Braddock. The challenger hits a tremendous poke himself with his right hand. He's far and away a better boxer than Baer. He'll go into the ring cold as ice, perfectly trained. Baer won't.

Baer wouldn't train for his chance at Carnera and the heavyweight championship, so you can't expect him to take Braddock very seriously. Baer, not in shape, fights in flurries, then rests a couple of rounds. Braddock won't let him do that. Unless Jimmy is popped right under the gun, belted over in that first typical Baer onslaught, he'll be a prodding, forcing, tiring fighter the rest of the way. If he gets past six rounds, he'll have Baer falling down from exhaustion.

Max hasn't taken much care of himself in the year that he's held the crown. There's some question of how he will stand up under body punishment. Braddock hits terrifically to the stomach with a left hook. He showed in beating Art Lasky that he has a fine left jab, is hard to hit, and when he is hit, takes a punch well and recovers quickly.

I'd say that the Irish challenger they've been looking for for years is a formidable fighter on his record the past year. Before that doesn't matter now.

Monroe Monarchs Meet Pittsburgh Club Today

One of the best game of the season is expected when the Monroe Monarchs meet the Pittsburgh Crawfords in the first of a game series at Casino park this afternoon.

The game will be called at 3 o'clock if weather permits. Yesterday the ground was somewhat heavy, but neither team risked marring the field by practicing.

Manager Johnson of the Monarchs said that his young team was confident that it could take the measure of the National league stars. For four consecutive seasons the Crawfords have opened the big exhibition series here on Easter Sunday and for four years the locals have tasted defeat.

Other than the good right arm of Barney Morris, speed ball king, the Monarchs' main hope rests in the revamped infield. With Washington at first, Morney on second, Lamar in short, and Maxwell holding down the hot corner, the Monarchs present the fastest all-around infield that has ever been assembled here.

Waterproof High School Ball Team Wants Games

GREAT GOLF

By Art Krenz

BILL MEHLHORN GAMBLED $5,200 ON SIX-FOOT PUTT—COLLECTED

Coming up to the long par five No. 17 hole during the La Gorce championship at Miami Beach, Mehlhorn was trailing the sparkling Horton Smith by one stroke. Horton, who was playing ahead of Bill, had scored a par five on this hole.

Mehlhorn had little hope of picking up a stroke here. No one was getting across the bunkers guarding the green in two shots. They were relying on three to get home. Birdies on this hole were scored with good putting rather than with long play through the fairway.

After a long, well-hit drive, the Louisville colonel decided to gamble. If he failed to carry the bunkers on his second, he still could reach the green with his third shot. If he carried the obstacle, a good approach would put him in position to score a birdie.

Selecting a brassie, Bill hit the pellet squarely on the nose. The shot not only surprised and thrilled the gallery, but Bill as well. The ball rose quickly, sailed over the bunker, rolled onto the green, and came to rest six feet from the pin.

Now was no time to play safe, he decided. Two putts would tie Smith—but here was a chance to pass the leader. Lining up the six-footer, he putted the ball toward the cup and in it fell for an eagle three that put him one up on Smith, his margin of victory.

Mehlhorn says that a duffer's main fault in playing a brassie in his inability to get the ball into the air.

"You must hit through the ball when playing this shot," explains Wild Bill. "The club meets the ball at the lowest point in the arc of the downswing. I play the shot with an open stance, and have the clubhead slightly open."

NEUGASS TO SEEK 100-METER MARK

Tulane Track Star To Compete In Penn Relay Event Saturday

NEW ORLEANS, April 20.—(AP)—Herman Neugass, Tulane's "human bullet," has his eye set on the Penn relays next week-end—and the world's record at 100 meters.

"Nuggie," who clipped off a 9.4 century, equalling the world's record in that race, at Austin, Texas, a few weeks ago, will leave with his coach, Fritz Oakes, for Philadelphia, Wednesday to compete in the track carnival.

Neugass has been tuning up on Tulane university's cinder track for some days and Oakes is satisfied his star is ready for a try on the 100-meter record of 10.4 seconds.

The speedster, "discovered" in a gym class in his freshman year at college, has set up a spectacular trial of accomplishments during the past two years and is now rated among the fastest men in the country.

Neugass has beaten all the talent of the south at one time or another, always in splendid time, and now thinks he's ready to take an official "crack" at a speed mark.

Unorthodox in form, and admittedly "slow at the start," Neugass has a powerful finish "kick" and develops a tremendous speed in the last few yards of a sprint.

Coach Oakes has been training "Nuggie" on starts all spring which resulted in the Greenie's vastly improved performances this year.

Neugass has been running the 100-yard dash consistently under 10 seconds, averaging close to 9.5 all spring. His record-tying performance at Austin was backed by a goodly breeze, it is reported, but still 9.4 is flying under any conditions.

Coach Oakes says he has been clocking his star at 10.6 in test spins over 100 meters during the past week and feels sure Neugass is ready for a serious bid at a new mark in the metric century at the Penn relays. Oakes points out Neugass is a greater threat in the 100 meters than in the 100-yard dash as it is a slightly longer sprint and more adapted to Herman's mode of running.

RALLY TRACK AND FIELD TITLE WON BY HAYNESVILLE

Truman Staples, Ouachita Star, Wins Individual Point Honors

RUSTON, La., April 20.—(Special)—Haynesville, in Class A circles, and Summerfield in Class B took away the major honors in the final track events of the twelfth annual north Louisiana high school rally run off here Saturday afternoon. The Claiborne parish boys took six first places, amassing 46 points to win the Class A crown on the cinders while Summerfield won eight first places, making 54 points, to capture the Class B crown.

The Summerfield thinclads nosed out the Lisbon cinder men by one point to take the lower trophy. Haynesville's closest rival was Homer with 30 1-2 points with Ouachita parish high school of Monroe ranking third in the Class A division with 22 5-6 points. Other Class A teams made points as follows: Ruston, 20 1-6; Mangham, 19 1-3; Winnfield, 9; Byrd, 7, and Minden 7. Besides Summerfield with 54 and Lisbon with 53, other Class B teams ranked as follows: Grayson, 10; Dubberly, 7; Oak Ridge 5.

Although heavy rains made the field and track soft and heavy, two records were broken in the track events. Records in the 440 and the mile were slashed by Mangham entrants. Nash, who set the record in 1933, bettered his own mark in the 440-yard dash today by cutting a tenth of a second off his old mark, which was 52.6. Brown, also of Mangham, established a new record in the mile with a time of four minutes 41.9 seconds.

Truman Staples, O. P. H. S. speedster, led the individual point-making race with two first places, one second and one third place for a total of 15 points for his team. Staples was entirely too fast for all opposition in the 100 and 220 and took first in both the dash events. His strong arm added three more points to the Ouachita team's credit with a second in the shot put event. Two more were added with a third in the discus.

Summary:

100-yard dash—Staples, O. P. H. S., first; Weaver, Homer, second; Maddox, Haynesville, third; Carlson, Byrd, fourth. Time, 10.1.

440-yard dash—Nash, Mangham, first; Tucker, Winnfield, second; Dickinson, Haynesville, third; Butler, O. P. H. S., fourth. Time, 52.5.

Half-mile—Dickinson, Haynesville, first; Morrison, Ruston, second; Watts, Minden, third; Lindey, Byrd, fourth. Time, 2 minutes, 7.9 seconds.

Mile—Brown, Mangham, first; Kaver, Ruston, second; Horten, Winnfield, third; Warren, O. P. H. S., fourth. Time, 4 minutes, 41.9 seconds.

120 high hurdles—Harper, Ruston, first; Sherman, Haynesville, second; Brantly, Homer, third; no fourth. Time, 18.6.

220 low hurdles—Maddox, Haynesville, first; Harper, Ruston, second; Trimble, O. P. H. S., third; Brantly, Homer, fourth. Time 26.2.

High jump—Baker, Homer, and Baker, Minden, tied for first and second; Greer, Haynesville, third; Boyce, O. P. H. S., third; Jones, Mangham, and Bruster, Ruston, tied for fourth place. Height, 5 feet, 4 inches.

Broad jump—Greer, Haynesville, first; Weaver, Homer, second; Milam, Ruston, third; Butler, O. P. H. S., fourth. Distance, 20 feet, 2 inches.

Hop, step and jump—Greer, Haynesville, first; Baker, Homer, and Dring, Ruston, tied for second. No fourth. Distance, 42 feet, 4 inches.

Javelin — Jones, Mangham, first; Weaver, Homer, second; Goree, Haynesville, third; Wadsworth, Winnfield, fourth. Distance, 149 feet, 4 inches.

Pole vault—Baker, Homer, first; Band, Haynesville, second; Powers, Winnfield, third; Boyce, O. P. H. S., and Bruster, Ruston, tied for fourth place. Height, 10 feet, 3 inches.

Discus—Sherman, Haynesville, first; Baker, Homer, second; Staples, O. P. H. S., third; Blair, Winnfield, fourth. Distance, 111 feet, 10 inches.

Mile relay—Haynesville, first; Mangham, second; O. P. H. S., third; Ruston, fourth. Time, 3 minutes, 39.9 seconds.

There are approximately 200,000 known kinds of tree-attacking insects.

RUSTON, La., April 20.—(Special)—Eliminating two teams each in the preliminaries of North Louisiana high school baseball championships, Neville of Monroe and Byrd of Shreveport will meet on the Louisiana Tech diamond here Monday afternoon to decide who will wear the rally crown.

The Monroe team defeated the Gibsland nine by an 8-to-0 count to go into the semi-finals. The Gibsland boys were held in complete check by Mattinson, hurling for Neville, while his teammates touched Stinnette for 11 hits and eight runs. Only two men reached base during the entire contest both of which were from scratch hits.

Score by innings:

Neville	120 05—8	11	0

Mattinson and Iuzina. C. Stinnette and Merritt.

Neville then gave Simsboro an 11-to-1 trouncing for their second victory, which put them in the final playoff. Stroud held the Simsboro lads to one run and one hit for five innings, with the game being called because of darkness. The Monroe team proved entirely too strong for the Simsboro nine, making runs almost at will until dusk stopped the slaughter.

The elimination process started off with a close contest between Gibsland and Mer Rouge, with the Gibsland lads coming out victorious by a 3-to-2 count. Stinnette, pitching for Gibsland, struck out 11 men to nose out Metheny in a pitching duel.

Gibsland	210 00—3	5	1

C. Stinnette and Merritt; Metheny and Braddock.

Byrd opened the day by defeating Dubach, 6 to 0, in the first no-hit, no-run game of the elimination series. Crowe, pitching for the Yellow Jackets, allowed only two men to reach first base. The Byrd nine bunched five hits to score six runs and beat the Dubach men.

Score by innings:

Byrd	024 00—6	5	1
Dubach	000 00—0	0	6

Crowe and D. Overdyke; Harrist and Harrist.

Takewell, of O. P. H. S., pitched the perfect ball game against the Downsville nine, taking them as they came up throughout the game. Takewell struck out 10 of the 15 men that faced him and the remaining went out in order while his own men amassed four runs off six hits to take the contest.

Downsville	000 00—0	0	0

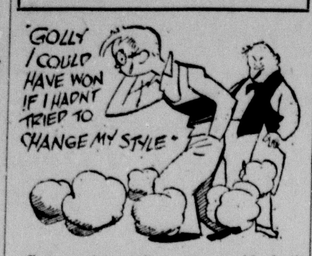
TOM TAW TALKS



Some wise writer once said don't change horses in mid-stream—or something like that. My tip to marble shooters is—don't change your style.

Many a possible champion has lost because he has changed his style of shooting for a new method which he had no chance to perfect. If you start a tournament with an "arch shot"—stick to it. If you begin with a "roll shot"—don't throw it over until the tournament is finished.

Don't try to imitate some other player—his style may be fine—but always remember he has probably spent weeks trying to perfect it and you cannot step in and do the same thing in fifteen minutes.

The "big shots"—the boys and girls who have won honors—never alter their style of play in the midst of a battle.

PLAT EYE WINS 'GRAW FEATURE

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 20. (AP)—Showing his heels to half dozen other Kentucky derby nominees, Plat Eye, 3-year-old brown colt of Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stables, won the $7,500 added mile-and-a-sixteenth Chesapeake stakes here today in a driving finish.

He broke third but took command going into the first turn and set the pace for the remainder of the way to win by a neck. Sun Fairplay, Fairfields stable entry, closed with a tremendous rush in the last half mile to place and Commonwealth, Mrs. W. M. Jeffords' derby nominee, gained fast when released from restraint to show.

Plat Eye, with S. Coucci up, was rated intelligently while setting the pace. The Son of Chicle and Crazy Moon met a strong bid from Bloodroot, E. R. Bradley entry, in the last three sixteenths, but saved ground and held on with excellent courage under strong handling.

The victory was worth $6,900 to the Greentree stables, $1,500 for place, $750 for show and $350 for fourth. The time was 1:46 1-5 on a fast track.

Plat Eye was a four-and-a-half to one shot, paying $11.30 for $2. Sun Fairplay paid $13.30 to place and Commonwealth $2.80 to show.

J. Renick was up on Sun Fairplay and R. Workman on Commonwealth.

The five other Kentucky derby nominees ranged anywhere from fifth to last, with Stickemup, Thomas B. Gay's chestnut colt, in last. Other derby nominees and the order of their placing were:

DAWSON FINALLY WINS MILE RACE WITH CUNNINGHAM

Oklahoman's 'Kick' Beats Kansan In Greatest Upset Of Meet

By Charles Grumich
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

LAWRENCE, Kas., April 20.—(AP)—Glenn Cunningham yielded to the finishing "kick" of his usually consistent victim—Glen Dawson, of Skiatook, Okla.—today in the greatest upset of the 13th annual Kansas relays carnival.

The meet produced eight new records, two of them by the University of Iowa's sprinters bettering accepted world standards.

Banqueted last night in Kansas City and recovering from intestinal influenza that almost cancelled his appearance before a crowd of homestate folks officially estimated at between 10,000 and 15,000, Cunningham suffered his first loss this year after 10 straight victories at various distances.

Dawson's home stretch triumph was timed at 4 minutes, 17.4 seconds, far slower than Cunningham's own world record of 4.6.07.

Five of the seven university class relay races were run in new record time.

Iowa's all-star dash team composed of Jimmy Owen, former high school sensation from St. Louis; C. W. Briggs, A. G. Dooley and Carl F. Nelson, ran the quarter-mile sprint mark down to 40.5 seconds, beating the listed world record of 40.8 made by the University of Southern California in 1931, with Owen running anchor.

The same Hawkeye combination in revised order came back a little later and lowered the half-mile mark to 1:25.2.

The listed world record is 1:25.8, established by Southern California in 1927.

Indiana set up a new meet mark of 10:21.2 in the distance medley.

Indiana's old 3:16.4 standard for the meet in the one mile university relay was beaten by Longhorn quartermilers from the University of Texas, who stepped the eight furlongs in 3:16.1.

S. J. C. Petty, of Rice institute, hurled the discus to a new meet distance of 154 feet even.

With balmy weather prevailing for the mid-west's first big outdoor parade of thin-clads, Dawson "kicked" down the home stretch to finish a couple of strides ahead of the Kansan in the invitation race paced by a front-running mile relay team.

Cunningham had set the pace through most of the race and thrown down the bell-lap challenge of Harold Manning, the lanky Wichita boy, when the Oklahoman overhauled him from third place. Manning finished third and last.

It was Dawson's second conquest of the man for whom he usually served as a consistent victim. The pacing quarter-miler of "second string" caliber were added to the race with the idea that they would provide Cunningham the kind of competition he needs to equal or approach his world record of 4:06.7.

The university class produced the fastest 2-mile baton event ever run in the Kansas relays. Kansas State college's half-milers, makers of the new record of 7:45.7, conquered Arizona and Oklahoma.

Elwyn Dees, a sturdy Kansas football lineman, pushed the shot 51 feet 3 3-8 inches to a new record.

The 120-yard high hurdle record was set down to 14.5 by Sam Allen, hurdler from Oklahoma Baptist university.

Clyde Coffman, of Ford, Kan., who placed seventh in the Olympic all-around competition, won the decathlon title in a close contest with Loyett Burk, hurdling ace from the University of Oklahoma. They were only 10 points apart, 6719 to 6709.

Five Men Released By Greenville Ball Club

GREENVILLE, Miss., April 20.—(AP)—Glen Bolton, manager of Greenville Buckshots of the East Dixie league, tonight announced release of Leland Faulkner, Senath, Mo., and Marcus Gaines of Blytheville, Ark., pitchers; Lucian Tarranto of New Orleans and Dick Koenig of Jackson, infielders. Pete West, catcher, was returned to Birmingham.

Release of the five men reduced the squad to twenty-four, and Bolton announced that Vitter, second baseman, brother of Joe Vitter of the Pine Bluff Judges and Martina, a shortstop, son of the veteran oyster shucker, Joe Martina, had been secured for tryouts. Al Hunt, an infielder and Bracheen, left-handed pitcher, have been secured from the Galveston club of the Texas league.

Greenville opens the East Dixie league season with Greenwood Chiefs here on next Wednesday.

Ole Miss And Choctaws To Renew Athletic Relations

UNIVERSITY, Miss., April 20.—(AP)—For the first time in ten years the University of Mississippi and Mississippi college, of Clinton, will compete in athletics.

The occasion for this renewal of athletic relations will be a triangular track meet held on the university track Saturday afternoon, April 27, with Millsaps being the third school to compete.

Disagreement over the eligibility of an Ole Miss pitcher in a baseball game in 1925 caused Mississippi college and Ole Miss to sever athletic relations.

The Ole Miss track team was reported in excellent condition and ready for the season's opening meet. The sprints will be the main department of strength for the university.

What Chance Has Chance Sun In The Derby? History Says Favorites Generally Do Well

By Charles M. Guthrie

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 20.—(AP)—Memories of past Kentucky derbies, charged with drama and tension, come winging back as the 61st running draws near.

Will Chance Sun, the favorite, crash through as did Old Rosebud, Hindoo, Halma, Regret and Twenty Grand, dashing down the stretch to turf immortality?

Or will he be another favorite that failed, even as did Proctor Knott, Banburg, Leonard, Runnymede, Robespierre, Upset and Blue Larkspur?

Since the derby inaugural, won by the lion-hearted little Aristides in 1875, favorites have, generally speaking, fared well. In the 60 runnings of the classic they have come home in front 28 times and finished second 14 times. One was third.

But the picture is likewise studded with failures. Baden Baden, in 1877, was the first colt to upset the derby dope bucket, when he took the lead in the last half mile and trounced the favorite, Leonard.

1880 Finish Like 1933's

A finish similar to the catch-as-catch-can of 1933, when Broker's Tip nosed out Head Play, was staged in 1880, on a track inches deep in dust. Kimball, the favorite, was nosed out by Fonso while the jockeys battled.

A little Kentucky gelding, Apollo, proved the highly touted Runnymede's nemesis in 1882. Apollo had never raced as a two-year-old.

Bersan was figured the victim of a poor ride in 1885 when he lost by a neck to Joe Cotton. Two years later the turf world was startled by Banburg's defeat in the classic. He finished fourth, faltering after challenging the winner, Montrose.

Gallifet gave all he had in 1888, only to run second to the onrushing Macbeth II, lightly played.

The 1889 race, which saw Spokane hang up a new record for the mile and one half race—then the derby route—saw a favorite go down to defeat in the most spectacular derby up to that time, as a game little gelding, Proctor Knott, was beaten by a whisker.

Donerail Paid Best

Riley took the run out of the well-liked Robespierre in 1890 and in 1901 Alard Sheck, favored to win at odds of 10 to 7, made the most dismal showing of any favorite in history, sulking when called upon and finishing far in the ruck.

Early was a 5 to 3 favorite in 1903 but Judge Himes, which everybody thought might as well have remained in the barn, trounced the favorite in a great stretch duel.

Red Gauntlet was the favorite at 6 to 5 in 1907 but Pink Star, at 15 to 1, won. Red Gauntlet was fifth.

Sir Cleges in 1908 was beaten by Stonestreet, 60 to 1.

But the 1913 race proved the granddaddy of all surprises. It saw Donerail, longest priced horse ever to win, come on with a rush to defeat Ten Point by a head. The odds on the winner were $184.90 to $2.

Upset, the only horse ever to defeat Man o' War, didn't have enough to head off Paul Jones in the 1920 classic and Prudery, a filly, calculated to steal the 1921 show, was no match for the Bradley entry of Behave Yourself and Black Servant.

The most heavily backed favorite of recent years failing to pay off was Blue Larkspur. It was the Bradley colt's misfortune to clash with Clyde Van Dusen on a soggy track in 1929 and the son of Man o' War easily proved himself the best mudder. Blue Larkspur with fourth.

Chance Sun, future book favorite for the Kentucky derby, will have precedent on his side. Twenty-eight favorites have won, 14 placed second, in the 60 previous derbies. Background: the muddy scene of Blue Larkspur's (big favorite) loss to Clyde Van Dusen in 1929.

ALLISON SWEEPS PINEHURST MEET

Texan Takes Singles Title And Shares In Two Doubles Crowns

PINEHURST, N. C., April 20.—(AP)—Wilmer Allison, the United States No. 1 player, made a clean sweep of the North and South tennis titles today by winning the singles and shares of the doubles and mixed doubles.

The fiery Texan annexed the singles championship this morning by polishing off J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J., in less than an hour by scores of 6-1, 6-2, 6-4.

Following lunch, he and Hall teamed to take the doubles from Marcel Rainville and Laird Watt of Montreal, winning 6-2, 6-1, 4-6, 8-6.

After the doubles match, Allison returned to the courts with Mrs. Penelope Anderson McBride, Short Hills, N. J., and added the mixed doubles crown by beating Jane Sharp, Pasadena, Calif., and Hal Surface, Kansas City, 7-5, 7-5.

This made a total of nine sets for Allison for the day and he won in eight of them.

Alabama Track Squad Beats Tennessee Team

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 20.—(AP)—Although taking eight first and five second places, the University of Alabama track team barely nosed out the University of Tennessee here today, 61 1-2 to 56 1-2, on a field made slow by a drizzling rain.

Tennessee captured six first and seven second places.

It was the third southeastern conference victory for the Tide and the Vols' first loss of the season.

ON THE SIDELINES

By Edward J. Neil

Out of the nowhere and into here is the success story of James J. Braddock, the lanky Irishman who gets his shot at fame and glory June 13 against the heavyweight champion, Max Baer, in Madison Square Garden's big bowl on Long Island.

It doesn't seem possible, but six months ago Braddock's manager, Joe Gould, went out and borrowed $36 to pay the Braddock milk bill so the youngsters in the house could keep up with their nourishment. Now he's getting 15 per cent of a gate that may well run to $300,000, and that's a neat chunk of $45,000.

Braddock, during the lean period that preceded his recent comeback, actually worked as janitor in the apartment house where he still lives as payment for his rent. Now, a year later, he won't move from that location because as heavyweight title challenger he adds luster to the house where he formerly carried out the ashes.

He went down to the docks to work as a stevedore, and when he did so they said he was getting back to hard manual labor in order to regain his old time physical condition. That was merely his prayer. He was back on the docks stevedoring because he and his family had to eat.

He Can Fight, All Right

So you like to see the breaks come to that kind of a fellow. He's only 28, but he's had a tough time of it. He wasn't any too smart when he was campaigning as a light heavyweight. He burned up his dough as fast as he got his hands on it. He liked night life, and he liked refreshments.

Adversity taught him a lot, and now that he's back up there, with a fortune wavering beyond his fingertips, with only a man who hasn't learned that same lesson in his way.

Can he fight? Enough, probably, to win the heavyweight championship of the world from Baer on the night of June 13. That's not a prediction. It's mostly a hunch. But Braddock right now is like a fellow on a winning streak in a dice game, at a poker table, or a roulette wheel. The odds are all against him. But Lady Luck touches him on the shoulder, wiping out all the odds.

Something To Remember

Remember this about Baer and Braddock. The challenger hits a tremendous poke himself with his right hand. He's far and away a better boxer than Baer. He'll go into the ring cold as ice, perfectly trained. Baer won't.

Baer wouldn't train for his chance at Carnera and the heavyweight championship, so you can't expect him to take Braddock very seriously. Baer, not in shape, fights in flurries, then rests a couple of rounds. Braddock won't let him do that. Unless Jimmy is popped right under the gun, belted over in that first typical Baer onslaught, he'll be a prodding, forcing, tiring fighter the rest of the way. If he gets past six rounds, he'll have Baer falling down from exhaustion.

Max hasn't taken much care of himself in the year that he's held the crown. There's some question of how he will stand up under body punishment. Braddock hits terrifically to the stomach with a left hook. He showed in beating Art Lasky that he has a fine left jab, is hard to hit, and when he is hit, takes a punch well and recovers quickly.

I'd say that the Irish challenger they've been looking for for years is a formidable fighter on his record the past year. Before that doesn't matter now.

GREAT GOLF

By Art Krenz

BILL MEHLHORN GAMBLED $5,200 ON SIX-FOOT PUTT—COLLECTED

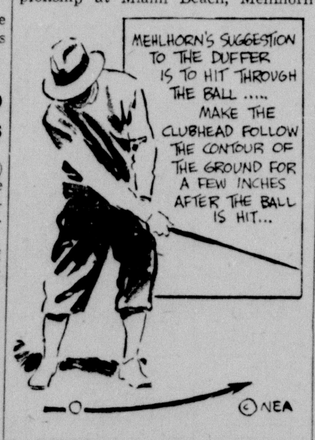
Coming up to the long par five No. 17 hole during the La Gorce championship at Miami Beach, Mehlhorn



was trailing the sparkling Horton Smith by one stroke. Horton, who was playing ahead of Bill, had scored a par five on this hole.

Mehlhorn had little hope of picking up a stroke here. No one was getting across the bunkers guarding the green in two shots. They were relying on three to get home. Birdies on this hole were scored with good putting rather than with long play through the fairway.

After a long, well-hit drive, the Louisville colonel decided to gamble. If he failed to carry the bunkers on his second, he still could reach the green with his third shot. If he carried the obstacle, a good approach would put him in position to score a birdie.

Selecting a brassie, Bill hit the pellet squarely on the nose. The shot not only surprised and thrilled the gallery, but Bill as well. The ball rose quickly, sailed over the bunker, rolled onto the green, and came to rest six feet from the pin.

Now was no time to play safe, he decided. Two putts would tie Smith—but here was a chance to pass the leader. Lining up the six-footer, he putted the ball toward the cup and in it fell for an eagle three that put him one up on Smith, his margin of victory.

Mehlhorn says that a duffer's main fault in playing a brassie in his inability to get the ball into the air.

"You must hit through the ball when playing this shot," explains Wild Bill. "The club meets the ball at the lowest point in the arc of the downswing. I play the shot with an open stance, and have the clubhead slightly open."

Monroe Monarchs Meet Pittsburgh Club Today

One of the best game of the season is expected when the Monroe Monarchs meet the Pittsburgh Crawfords in the first of a game series at Casino park this afternoon.

The game will be called at 3 o'clock if weather permits. Yesterday the ground was somewhat heavy, but neither team risked marring the field by practicing.

Manager Johnson of the Monarchs said that his young team was confident that it could take the measure of the National league stars. For four consecutive seasons the Crawfords have opened the big exhibition series here on Easter Sunday and for four years the locals have tasted defeat.

Other than the good right arm of Barney Morris, speed ball king, the Monarchs' main hope rests in the revamped infield. With Washington at first, Morney on second, Lamar in short, and Maxwell holding down the hot corner, the Monarchs present the fastest all-around infield that has ever been assembled here.

Waterproof High School Ball Team Wants Games

WATERPROOF, La., April 20.—(Special)—A baseball team has been organized at Waterproof high school and prospects are bright for a winning team.

Tulane Track Star To Compete In Penn Relay Event Saturday

NEW ORLEANS, April 20.—(AP)—Herman Neugass, Tulane's "human bullet," has his eye set on the Penn relays next week-end—and the world's record at 100 meters.

"Nuggie," who clipped off a 9.4 century, equalling the world's record in that race, at Austin, Texas, a few weeks ago, will leave with his coach, Fritz Oakes, for Philadelphia, Wednesday to compete in the track carnival.

Neugass has been tuning up on Tulane university's cinder track for some days and Oakes is satisfied his star is ready for a try on the 100-meter record of 10.4 seconds.

The speedster, "discovered" in a gym class in his freshman year at college, has set up a spectacular trial of accomplishments during the past two years and is now rated among the fastest men in the country.

Neugass has beaten all the talent of the south at one time or another, always in splendid time, and now thinks he's ready to take an official "crack" at a speed mark.

Unorthodox in form, and admittedly "slow at the start," Neugass has a powerful finish "kick" and develops a tremendous speed in the last few yards of a sprint.

Coach Oakes has been training "Nuggie" on starts all spring which resulted in the Greenie's vastly improved performances this year.

Neugass has been running the 100-yard dash consistently under 10 seconds, averaging close to 9.5 all spring. His record-tying performance at Austin was backed by a goodly breeze, it is reported, but still 9.4 is flying under any conditions.

Coach Oakes says he has been clocking his star at 10.6 in test spins over 100 meters during the past week and feels sure Neugass is ready for a serious bid at a new mark in the metric century at the Penn relays. Oakes points out Neugass is a greater threat in the 100 meters than in the 100-yard dash as it is a slightly longer sprint and more adapted to Herman's mode of running.

RALLY TRACK AND FIELD TITLE WON BY HAYNESVILLE.

Truman Staples, Ouachita Star, Wins Individual Point Honors

RUSTON, La., April 20.—(Special)—Haynesville, in Class A circles, and Summerfield in Class B took away the major honors in the final track events of the twelfth annual north Louisiana high school rally run off here Saturday afternoon. The Claiborne parish boys took six first places, amassing 46 points to win the Class A crown on the cinders while Summerfield won eight first places, making 54 points, to capture the Class B crown.

The Summerfield thinclads nosed out the Lisbon cinder men by one point to take the lower trophy. Haynesville's closest rival was Homer with 30 1-2 points with Ouachita parish high school of Monroe ranking third in the Class A division with 22 5-6 points. Other Class A teams made points as follows: Ruston, 20 1-3; Mangham, 19 1-3; Winnfield, 9; Byrd, 7, and Minden 7. Besides Summerfield with 54 and Lisbon with 53, other Class B teams ranked as follows: Grayson, 10; Dubberly, 7; Oak Ridge 5.

Although heavy rains made the field and track soft and heavy, two records were broken in the track events. Records in the 440 and the mile were slashed by Mangham entrants. Nash, who set the record in 1933, bettered his own mark in the 440-yard dash today by cutting a tenth of a second off his old mark, which was 52.6. Brown, also of Mangham, established a new record in the mile with a time of four minutes 41.9 seconds.

Truman Staples, O. P. H. S. speedster, led the individual point-making race with two first places, one second and one third place for a total of 15 points for his team. Staples was entirely too fast for all opposition in the 100 and 220 and took first in both the dash events. His strong arm added three more points to the Ouachita team's credit with a second in the shot put event. Two more were added with a third in the discus.

Summary:

100-yard dash—Staples, O. P. H. S., first; Weaver, Homer, second; Maddox, Haynesville, third; Carlson, Byrd, fourth. Time, 10.1.

440-yard dash—Nash, Mangham, first; Tucker, Winnfield, second; Dickinson, Haynesville, third; Butler, O. P. H. S., fourth. Time, 52.5.

Half-mile—Dickinson, Haynesville, first; Morrison, Ruston, second; Watts, Minden, third; Lindey, Byrd, fourth. Time, 2 minutes, 7.9 seconds.

Mile—Brown, Mangham, first; Kaver, Ruston, second; Horten, Winnfield, third; Warren, O. P. H. S., fourth. Time, 4 minutes, 41.9 seconds.

120 high hurdles—Harper, Ruston, first; Sherman, Haynesville, second; Brantly, Homer, third; no fourth. Time, 18.6.

220 low hurdles—Maddox, Haynesville, first; Harper, Ruston, second; Trimble, O. P. H. S., third; Brantly, Homer, fourth. Time 26.2.

High jump—Baker, Homer, and Baker, Minden, tied for first and second; Greer, Haynesville, third; Boyce, O. P. H. S., third; Jones, Mangham, and Bruster, Ruston, tied for fourth place. Height, 5 feet, 4 inches.

Broad jump—Greer, Haynesville, first; Weaver, Homer, second; Milam, Ruston, third; Butler, O. P. H. S., fourth. Distance, 20 feet, 2 inches.

Hop, step and jump—Greer, Haynesville, first; Baker, Homer, and Dring, Ruston, tied for second. No fourth. Distance, 42 feet, 4 inches.

Javelin — Jones, Mangham, first; Weaver, Homer, second; Goree, Haynesville, third; Wadsworth, Winnfield, fourth. Distance, 149 feet, 4 inches.

Pole vault—Baker, Homer, first; B. Band, Haynesville, second; Powers, Winnfield, third; Boyce, O. P. H. S., and Bruster, Ruston, tied for fourth place. Height, 10 feet, 3 inches.

Discus—Sherman, Haynesville, first; Baker, Homer, second; Staples, O. P. H. S., third; Blair, Winnfield, fourth. Distance, 111 feet, 10 inches.

Mile relay—Haynesville, first; Mangham, second; O. P. H. S., third; Ruston, fourth. Time, 3 minutes, 39.9 seconds.

STECHER, PLUMMER SIGNED FOR WEDNESDAY SHOW

Youngster Hopes To Beat Tough Iowan With Scientific Wrestling

Joe Stecher, the long-legged Nebraskan, made such a good showing in holding Ernest Kelly to a draw at Roosevelt stadium last week that Promoter Charlie Bruscato is sending him against a tougher foe this week. Stecher will tackle Johnny Plummer, 219-pounder who hails from his neighboring state of Iowa, in the main event of the weekly mat show Wednesday night, Bruscato announced yesterday.

Young Stecher, who was named for his illustrious uncle, the gent who made the scissors famous when he held the heavyweight wrestling championship of the world, turned in a fine exhibition against Kelly last Wednesday. In fact, the Nebraskan outwrestled the stadium favorite during most of their one-hour match and only some heroic work with his pet hold, the hook scissors, gave the Tennessean an even break with Stecher. Joe won the first fall in 22 minutes when he leaped on Kelly and entwined his legs about Ernest's middle. Stecher also had the better of it during most of the second fall but Kelly finally clamped on that hook scissors and won in 29 minutes. Neither was able to gain a winning hold during the remaining minutes of the battle.

Stecher uses his long legs to good advantage. He is a smart performer and indicates that he knows plenty of holds besides the scissors.

However, the Nebraska youth will be going up against a seasoned campaigner in Plummer. Not only does Johnny have quite an edge in experience, but he'll tote about 12 pounds more weight than Stecher. However, that isn't worrying the Nebraskan.

"I may lose the match," Bruscato said Stecher told him, "but Plummer will know he's been in a real battle. I'm going to work hard and try to win."

When Bruscato sought Plummer for his signature on the contract, Johnny attempted to get Stecher to agree to wrestle on a winner-take-all basis. Joe refused, because of the difference in weight, but he made the husky Iowan a counter proposition, according to Bruscato.

Stecher agreed to give Plummer 50 per cent of his purse if Johnny threw him in straight falls. On the other hand, if Plummer fails to win in two straight falls, Stecher is to get one-third of Johnny's purse. The agreement was signed, Bruscato said, so the two principals may be expected to "put out" in an effort to protect their cash.

Stecher will depend upon his skill to beat Plummer, the Nebraskan realizing that he'd have little luck against Johnny in a rough-and-tumble affair. Plummer, on the other hand, may resort to the rough stuff before it's over. Johnny wrestled Frenchie LaRue in last week's main event and showed little of his tougher side. However, he is capable of some sly work, as the fans well know, and he may use his tricks against the less experienced Stecher.

Bruscato said he hoped to bring a couple of newcomers here for the main event but added that the card had not been completed.

BRAVES TRIM DODGERS

BOSTON, April 20.—(AP)—A pitching duel between Ben Cantwell and Van Mungo broke wide apart in the eighth inning when the Braves battered Mungo for five runs and defeated Brooklyn, 7 to 1. Cantwell held the Dodgers to seven hits.

Babe Ruth provided a source of excitement in the sixth inning when he pulled up lame at second after Wally Berger's hit which sent Boston into the lead. He was forced out of the game but later discovered the trouble was nothing more serious than a cramp in his right leg. The Babe had singled behind a walk to Les Mallon, who scored on Berger's single.

The big eighth inning included a walk, four hits, including a double by Frank Hogan and an error by Lonnie Frey.

CUBS SHADE REDS

CHICAGO, April 20.—(AP)—Chicago's Cubs shoved over a run in the tenth inning today to defeat Cincinnati, 4 to 3, and pull up even in their series.

Tex Carleton, making his debut as a Cub, allowed only three hits in eight innings, but wobbled in the ninth and the Reds scored three runs on a double by Hank Erickson, Harlan Pool's single and a homer by Lew Riggs to tie it up. Lon Warneke went to the rescue and was credited with his second victory of the week.

BOBBY JONES SAYS

The keynote of the address position should be ease, comfort, and relaxation. Above all else the first posture must be one from which the movement of the swing may start smoothly without having to break down successive barriers of tension set up by taut or strained muscles. To go a bit farther, the player should feel himself alert, sensitive to impulses, and ready to move in either direction.

Avoid Uncomfortable Posture

It is always better at this point to be one's own natural self than to make an effort to look like someone else. Any posture that feels uncomfortable is certain to produce a strain somewhere that will cause the ensuing movement to be jerky. It is well to remember that there are no forces outside of the player's own body that have to be resisted or balanced. There is no need for him to set or brace himself for there is nothing to brace against. If one could conceive that he were standing naturally, with a club in his hands, engaged in ordinary conversation, and that he then bent over enough to ground the club behind a ball not too far away, the resulting posture would be quite good.

The illustrations A and B above show a natural, comfortable position. The body has been erect and is now bent over just enough to reach the ball, which is near enough so that this can be done while the arms hang almost vertically from the shoulders. The knees are slightly bent so that their movement can be free and the weight is about equally divided between the two feet, which are not abnormally spread apart.

Contrast this with illustration C. This player has actually "set" his body. His knees are locked so that his legs are useless; his feet are so far apart, his legs cannot turn; his arms and wrists are as lengths of wood. He is making of his game as hard work as he possibly can.

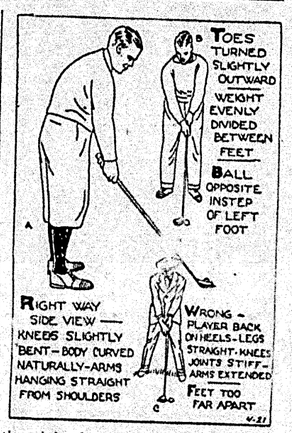
Only two points which might not result naturally, would I emphasize. One is the location of the ball. The swing is greatly simplified by placing the ball as far forward as it is shown in illustration A, about opposite the instep of the left foot, for here the player is sufficiently behind it so that he can get into position to hit without complicating his backswing by the addition of a shift to the right. The effect of placing the ball too far back will appear later.

The other point, is that the toes of both feet should be turned slightly outward. This is done in order to make equally easy the turning of the hips in either direction. To point the right foot to the front or to turn it inward would tend to block or restrict the turn to the right, as a similar placement of the left would affect the turn in that direction.



When should you use an open stance? When a closed stance? Bobby Jones tells you in one of his latest leaflets: "Closed Stance vs. Open Stance." Write for this leaflet now, enclosing a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

While Bobby Jones will be glad to answer as many readers' questions in this column as possible, it will be impossible for him to answer letters personally. Write your problems to him care of Monroe Morning World. (Copyright, 1935, Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Two Tech Golfers Will Play In Georgia Tourney

RUSTON, La., April 20.—(Special)—Two young golfers from Tech, Jim Cole with a record of 67, and John Thurmon, Jr., with a record of 72, par on the local course, will compete with college and university players from every section of the country at Athens, Georgia, on April 26, 27 and 28, according to D. G. Armstrong, faculty adviser for the Tech players.

Cole's record made here recently when he tied Freddie Haas, L. S. U. player and southern amateur champion, with a score of 67, five under par, encourages Tech's friends to look for victory when the meet is ended at Athens. Mr. Armstrong will leave Monday with his two proteges and expects to be away until the end of the week.

TEXAS DERBY TO ROMAN SOLDIER

Kentucky Derby Eligible Closes Fast To Take $15,000 Classic

ARLINGTON DOWNS, Texas, April 20.—(AP)—Sachsenmaier and Reuters Famous Roman Soldier, black 3-year-old colt eligible for the Kentucky derby, opened with bursting stretch speed today to take the lead from Whiskolo and win the third renewal of the $15,000 added Texas derby.

A crowd of 25,000 persons braved misting rain to cheer the winner. Racing on a muddy track at one mile and a furlong, Roman Soldier went the route in 1:53, four seconds slower than the track record.

Whiskolo, running as a Milky Way Farm entry along with South Gallant, got second place. Whizzaway, the Geneseo stables speedy thoroughbred, which has won nine consecutive races, finished third.

With Jockey Lester Balaski up and carrying 120 pounds, Roman Soldier got away fast but saved himself when outrun in the early stages. When Furfiber, with Wayne Wright up, slipped and fell in the mud, Roman Soldier responded well in the stretch, swerved to inside when taking command and won easily, two and one-half lengths ahead of Whiskolo, which in turn led Whizzaway by four lengths.

Roman Soldier's victory was worth $11,175 to his owners. The winner paid mutuels of $4.20, $3.60 and $2.80. Whiskolo paid $5.60 and $3.30. Whizzaway paid $3.20 to show.

GEORGIA TECH WINS

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 20.—(AP)—Completing their conquest of the tennis team from the University of Alabama, Georgia Tech players won three of the four matches played today to take the series by a count of 8 to 1. Tech won five matches to none on Friday. Billy Recse, Georgia Tech captain and rising tennis star, decisively defeated Bob Lake, faculty tennis advisor of Alabama, in an exhibition match, 6-1, 6-3.

George Sisler's Son Pitches No-Hit Game

ST. LOUIS, April 20.—(AP)—George Sisler, Jr., whose dad ranks with baseball's immortals, is following in his father's footsteps.

Sisler struck out 13 players, walked two and hit one. The latter lapses and a teammate's error gave the opposition its runs.

YANKS BEST MACKS

NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP)—Joe Cascarella's wildness brought about his undoing in a keen mound duel with Lefty Gomez today and the Yankees defeated the Athletics 3 to 1 before a crowd of 24,342.

Cascarella gave only four hits but handed out six walks while Gomez was granting seven blows and only one pass. The deciding runs were scored in the fifth on passes to Frank Crosetti and Red Rolfo, a double by Dixie Walker and George Selkirk's single. The Yanks scored again in the eighth on Rolfe's double. Cascarella drove in the Philadelphia run following Alex Hooks' double in the seventh.

MANY PRIZES TO BE OFFERED IN MARBLE TOURNEY

Big Event Is Officially Opened With Movie Party For 500 Kids

The northeast Louisiana marble tournament got off to a great start yesterday when some 500 enthusiastic youngsters attended the movie party at the Capitol theater, and heard a brief outline of the plans and purposes of the big mibs tourney which the News-Star—World is staging.

The movie party was a grand success and the kids were given free rein at the Capitol. They cheered and whistled and otherwise gave noisy evidence that they were having a big time.

The movie party officially opened the tournament. Following the show, a number of boys who had not previously entered the tourney signed an entry blank and said they were going to start practicing at once to make up for lost time.

Boys and girls of northeast Louisiana who have not entered are urged to do so at once, for the list will close within a few days. If you haven't already signed an entry blank, go to the marble director at your school and tell him or her that you want to enter. Or if a director hasn't been appointed for your school, go to your principal. And if the principal can't give you the information you want, write the marble editor in care of the News-Star—World and he will see that you are enrolled.

Marbles and buttons will be distributed to the various schools this week. A bag of 20,000 marbles arrived in Monroe Friday and was placed on the stage of the Capitol Saturday morning. Each boy or girl in the tournament will get his or her share of the marbles and they won't cost a cent.

You all know that the grand prize is a week's vacation at Gulfport, Miss., where the local winner will compete against other champions in the Southern finals. Well, there are many other prizes besides this all-expense trip. Progressive merchants of Monroe wanted to give you further incentive to do your best, so they've offered numerous valuable awards as extra prizes.

Five merchants are going to give prizes valued at $5 or more to the grand final competitors. They are J. C. Penney company, R. and A. Jewelry company, Collens Pharmacy, E. Jack Selig, Inc., and the Monroe Hardware and Furniture company. Monroe civic clubs are going to award gold medals to the district champions. And a number of other merchants will give valuable prizes to winners in the school tournaments. These merchants are as follows:

Griffin studio, Faser's Drug company, Ferd Levi Stationery company, T. John Department Store, Kennedy-Bennett Drug company, Hemp's Cafeteria, D. Masur and Sons, Culp's Music Shop, New South Drug store, Moore's Fashionable Tailoring, Standard Office Supply company, the Woman's Shop, Renfrow and Son, Hunt and Whitaker, Johnson Drug store, Wolff Brothers, Fink the Tailor, Miller-Guerriero Hardware company, Montgomery Ward, Motor Supply company and Auto Lec stores.

These prizes will be on display in the merchants' windows and you are invited to go by and inspect them.

The time is drawing near for the school elimnations, so you'd better be practicing. Directors of the school tourneys will be given the dope on these eliminations this week, and it won't be long before you'll be called upon to play your first official game.

Torrance And Hardin To Compete In Track Events At Capitol

BATON ROUGE, La., April 20.—(Special)—Topped by two world champions—"Baby Jack" Torrance and Glenn "Slats" Hardin, both of L. S. U.—and America's latest sprint sensation, Herman ("Nuggie") Neugass, of Tulane, some 500 athletes of the south will assemble in Tiger stadium, of Louisiana State university, May 3 and 4, for the annual Southern Amateur Athletic Union championships. The junior championship meet will be staged on Friday, with the senior program Saturday.

Present indications are that the state of Mississippi will furnish the largest number of athletes for the championship competition, with no less than 15 colleges and universities sending athletes after individual titles. Entries from the 15 Mississippi schools include those from 11 junior colleges.

More than a little interest has been created by the entry of Billy Brown, sensational high school performer from Baker high. This lad, hailed as a track team in himself, promises all sorts of competition to college, university and club athletes in the high jump, broad jump and the hop-step-jump.

Both meets are open to all registered athletes of high schools, colleges, universities and clubs of Louisiana, Mississippi and north and central Texas. Prizes will be gold medals emblematic of the championship of the south, with silver medals for second place athletes and bronze medals for third place winners. The Southern A. A. U. team trophy will be awarded the team scoring the highest number of points. A special trophy will be awarded the team winning the relay and the relay will not count for points in the team trophy competition.

DRAKE RELAYS TO DRAW TRACK ACES

Biggest Entry List In History Reported For Annual Track Meet

DES MOINES, Iowa, April 20.—(AP) Track and field celebrities from all parts of the country will assemble here next week-end for the twenty-fifth annual Drake relays, one of the outstanding athletic carnivals of the nation.

More than 3,000 performers, a record-breaking group, are coming to the annual classic, Director Franklin (Pop) Johnson said today as he busied himself with closing details.

"It appears like the biggest meet in history," the Drake University track coach said. "And from the class of competitors already entered, I expect several of the existing marks to fall."

As one of the headline attractions Johnson has arranged to have Glenn Cunningham, premier distance runner now taking post graduate work at the University of Iowa, run a featured mile against opponents yet to be selected.

Every section of the United States will be represented in the 31 events of university, college and high school forms. Every big ten school, except Chicago, and every school in the big six and the Missouri valley will have their stars here. Notre Dame, long prominent in the relays, will be back with a full squad, including Vincent Murphy, who is expected to crack the high jump record.

Out of the far west will come California (Los Angeles) San Diego State Teachers, Montana, Fresno college and Oregon.

The usual group of southwestern schools also will return. They include the University of Texas, Abilene Christian, Arizona, North Texas Teachers and Rice institute.

Dempsey Goes Into Training Again For Refereeing Job

By John J. Romano

Jack Dempsey is in training again. Jack signalized his return to the sport of modified mayhem with a one-round setto of love taps with Jack Doyle, the Irish Thrush, who has designs on Max Baer's heavyweight crown.

Dempsey is not the narrow cheeked, prominent cheek-boned and brown-as-a-berry individual fight fans knew in his best fighting days. Today his face is round and full. His smile is broad and fullsome—unlike the tightened smirk of lips and curt greeting of those days when sharp, glittering eyes bespoke the fighting man in trim for a fight or frolic.

Dempsey is now a successful master of ceremonies in a tavern opposite Madison Square Garden. He has grown heavy and those weak underpins, which cost him the chance to regain his title in that unforgettable battle at Soldier Field in 1927, must needs be strengthened if he is going to carry on a full sixty minutes of hustling when he referees a 15-round fight.

Unlike fighters who get a minute respite between rounds, the referee cannot draw up a stool and take a rest. The best he can do is lean against the ropes in a neutral corner and then step to the center of the ring as soon as the bell rings for another round.

Always On the Go

The nervous energy of Dempsey as he slides around, Indian fashion, and keeps eternally on the go is a marvel to those who know that Jack has done nothing much in the way of training since the country-wide exhibition tour which wound up with that four-round encounter with King Levinsky several years ago.

Dempsey cannot let down suddenly. He is the vigorous type who must be doing something or his nerves will burn out with the suppressed emotion for one of his type. Hence, the need to return to the gym and keep in shape.

The customers at Dempsey's tavern come from far and near to shake the hand of the fighter called the greatest of his time, and Jack does his best to keep them entertained. They enjoy him immensely. It is extremely doubtful if the enjoyment is mutual. Dempsey is a happy-go-lucky fellow who takes a joke well and who is not shy on the retort. But the idea of shaking hands four hours a day to every Tom, Dick and Harry who comes along and saying in parrot-like fashion; "Glad to meet you, How's things?" is beginning to pall on the wanderer who wants to be away and in different places. He is a gypsy at heart. He does not go in for bluffing and the terms of his contract binding him to spend a certain number of hours daily in the tavern is beginning to make him jumpy and restless. How long it will last is a matter of conjecture on the part of those who know the real Jack Dempsey.

Miner to Millionaire

The former world's champion has had an eventful career. Starting off as a lowly paid miner in the mountains of his native Colorado, self-promoter, wrestler, fighter, hobo and jack of all trades, Dempsey was the first principal to share in a million-dollar purse.

As a mere hobo, without the means of knowing where he would rest his weary body from day to day, Jack made his way to New York. He got a fight and emerged with two broken ribs and the callous remark of the promoter ringing in his ears, "the less I see of you the better off we will be." The promoter, or manager as he liked to call himself when Jack was on top, lived to rue the day he chased the ambitious Colorado 'bum' out of his club.

Two years ago Dempsey vouched for Max Baer after the latter made a poor showing in New York and was dubbed "a clown with little to recommend him but an impish grin and a flare for silly dramatics." Jack convinced the fans that Baer was a better fighter than he showed against Tommy Loughran, Ernie Schaf and Tom Henney. The fans took Dempsey at his word and Max came through with a resounding knockout over Max Schmeling. Then came the Carnera fracas and with it the world's heavyweight title.

Cold Toward Jack Now

There are two sides to the story. The Baer management no longer talks of Jack Dempsey promoting the fights of the world's champion. Dempsey remains silent, as expected from one who does little talking when questioned about a controversial matter.

If freed of their contract with Madison Square Garden, Baer and Hoffman were reported to go under the direction of Jack Dempsey as promoter and referee of any bout indulged in by the champion. But nothing is heard about that arrangement these days.

With Baer under his control Dempsey was expected to hold the whip hand in all titular fights. This would have given Jack an opportunity to barge into the affairs of the Madison Square Garden corporation as matchmaker and executive, a position he would welcome, and restore it to the pinnacle it once enjoyed. Ancil Hoffman at one time went to the extent of offering an outright sum, with a percentage over a certain amount of the profits, to lease Madison Square Garden from year to year. Nothing came of it, however, and now we find Jack Dempsey not so close to the Baer outfit, in a managerial capacity and the future of the former champion in doubt as to future plans.

STECHER, PLUMMER SIGNED FOR WEDNESDAY SHOW

Joe Stecher, the long-legged Nebraskan, made such a good showing in holding Ernest Kelly to a draw at Roosevelt stadium last week that Promoter Charlie Bruscato is sending him against a tougher foe this week. Stecher will tackle Johnny Plummer, 219-pounder who hails from his neighboring state of Iowa, in the main event of the weekly mat show Wednesday night, Bruscato announced yesterday.

Young Stecher, who was named for his illustrious uncle, the gent who made the scissors famous when he held the heavyweight wrestling championship of the world, turned in a fine exhibition against Kelly last Wednesday. In fact, the Nebraskan outwrestled the stadium favorite during most of their one-hour match and only some heroic work with his pet hold, the hook scissors, gave the Tennessean an even break with Stecher. Joe won the first fall in 22 minutes when he leaped on Kelly and entwined his legs about Ernest's middle. Stecher also had the better of it during most of the second fall but Kelly finally clamped on that hook scissors and won in 29 minutes. Neither was able to gain a winning hold during the remaining minutes of the battle.

Stecher uses his long legs to good advantage. He is a smart performer and indicates that he knows plenty of holds besides the scissors.

However, the Nebraska youth will be going up against a seasoned campaigner in Plummer. Not only does Johnny have quite an edge in experience, but he'll tote about 12 pounds more weight than Stecher. However, that isn't worrying the Nebraskan.

"I may lose the match," Bruscato said Stecher told him, "but Plummer will know he's been in a real battle. I'm going to work hard and try to win."

When Bruscato sought Plummer for his signature on the contract, Johnny attempted to get Stecher to agree to wrestle on a winner-take-all basis. Joe refused, because of the difference in weight, but he made the husky Iowan a counter proposition, according to Bruscato.

Stecher agreed to give Plummer 50 per cent of his purse if Johnny threw him in straight falls. On the other hand, if Plummer fails to win in two straight falls, Stecher is to get one-third of Johnny's purse. The agreement was signed. Bruscato said, so the two principals may be expected to "put out" in an effort to protect their cash.

Stecher will depend upon his skill to beat Plummer, the Nebraskan realizing that he'd have little luck against Johnny in a rough-and-tumble affair. Plummer, on the other hand, may resort to the rough stuff before it's over. Johnny wrestled Frenchie LaRue in last week's main event and showed little of his tougher side. However, he is capable of some sly work, as the fans well know, and he may use his tricks against the less experienced Stecher.

Bruscato said he hoped to bring a couple of newcomers here for the main event but added that the card had not been completed.

BRAVES TRIM DODGERS

BOSTON, April 20.—(AP)—A pitching duel between Ben Cantwell and Van Mungo broke wide apart in the eighth inning when the Braves battered Mungo for five runs and defeated Brooklyn, 7 to 1. Cantwell held the Dodgers to seven hits.

Babe Ruth provided a source of excitement in the sixth inning when he pulled up lame at second after Wally Berger's hit which sent Boston into the lead. He was forced out of the game but later discovered the trouble was nothing more serious than a cramp in his right leg. The Babe had singled behind a walk to Les Mallon, who scored on Berger's single.

The big eighth inning included a walk, four hits, including a double by Frank Hogan and an error by Lonnie Frey.

BOBBY JONES SAYS

The keynote of the address position should be ease, comfort, and relaxation. Above all else the first posture must be one from which the movement of the swing may start smoothly without having to break down successive barriers of tension set up by taut or strained muscles. To go a bit farther, the player should feel himself alert, sensitive to impulses, and ready to move in either direction.

Avoid Uncomfortable Posture

It is always better at this point to be one's own natural self than to make an effort to look like someone else. Any posture that feels uncomfortable is certain to produce a strain somewhere that will cause the ensuing movement to be jerky. It is well to remember that there are no forces outside of the player's own body that have to be resisted or balanced. There is no need for him to set or brace himself for there is nothing to brace against. If one could conceive that he were standing naturally, with a club in his hands, engaged in ordinary conversation, and that he then bent over enough to ground the club behind a ball not too far away, the resulting posture would be quite good.

The illustrations A and B above show a natural, comfortable position. The body has been erect and is now bent over just enough to reach the ball, which is near enough so that this can be done while the arms hang almost vertically from the shoulders. The knees are slightly bent so that their movement can be free and the weight is about equally divided between the two feet, which are not abnormally spread apart.

Contrast this with illustration C. This player has actually "set" his body. His knees are locked so that his legs are useless; his feet are so far apart, his legs cannot turn; his arms and wrists are as lengths of wood. He is making of his game as hard work as he possibly can.

Only two points which might not result naturally, would I emphasize. One is the location of the ball. The swing is greatly simplified by placing the ball as far forward as it is shown in illustration A, about opposite the instep of the left foot, for here the player is sufficiently behind it so that he can get into position to hit without complicating his backswing by the addition of a shift to the right. The effect of placing the ball too far back will appear later.

The other point, is that the toes of both feet should be turned slightly outward. This is done in order to make equally easy the turning of the hips in either direction. To point the right foot to the front or to turn it inward would tend to block or restrict the turn to the right, as a similar placement of the left would affect the turn in that direction.

When should you use an open stance? When a closed stance? Bobby Jones tells you in one of his latest leaflets: "Closed Stance vs. Open Stance." Write for this leaflet now, enclosing a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

While Bobby Jones will be glad to answer as many readers' questions in this column as possible, it will be impossible for him to answer letters personally. Write your problems to him care of Monroe Morning World. (Copyright, 1935, Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Two Tech Golfers Will Play In Georgia Tourney

RUSTON, La., April 20.—(Special)—Two young golfers from Tech, Jim Cole with a record of 67, and John Thurmon, Jr., with a record of 72, par on the local course, will compete with college and university players from every section of the country at Athens, Georgia, on April 26, 27 and 28, according to D. G. Armstrong, faculty adviser for the Tech players.

Cole's record made here recently when he tied Freddie Haas, L. S. U. player and southern amateur champion, with a score of 67, five under par, encourages Tech's friends to look for victory when the meet is ended at Athens. Mr. Armstrong will leave Monday with his two proteges and expects to be away until the end of the week.

TEXAS DERBY TO ROMAN SOLDIER

Kentucky Derby Eligible Closes Fast To Take $15,000 Classic

ARLINGTON DOWNS, Texas, April 20.—(AP)—Sachsenmaier and Reuters Famous Roman Soldier, black 3-year-old colt eligible for the Kentucky derby, opened with bursting stretch speed today to take the lead from Whiskolo and win the third renewal of the $15,000 added Texas derby.

A crowd of 25,000 persons braved misting rain to cheer the winner. Racing on a muddy track at one mile and a furlong, Roman Soldier went the route in 1:53, four seconds slower than the track record.

Whiskolo, running as a Milky Way Farm entry along with South Gallant, got second place. Whizzaway, the Geneseo stables speedy thoroughbred, which has won nine consecutive races, finished third.

With Jockey Lester Balaski up and carrying 120 pounds, Roman Soldier got away fast but saved himself when outrun in the early stages. When Furfiber, with Wayne Wright up, slipped and fell in the mud, Roman Soldier responded well in the stretch, swerved to inside when taking command and won easily, two and one-half lengths ahead of Whiskolo, which in turn led Whizzaway by four lengths.

Roman Soldier's victory was worth $11,175 to his owners. The winner paid mutuels of $4.20, $3.60 and $2.80. Whiskolo paid $5.60 and $3.30. Whizzaway paid $3.20 to show.

GEORGIA TECH WINS

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 20.—(AP)—Completing their conquest of the tennis team from the University of Alabama, Georgia Tech players won three of the four matches played today to take the series by a count of 8 to 1. Tech won five matches to none on Friday. Billy Reese, Georgia Tech captain and rising tennis star, decisively defeated Bob Lake, faculty tennis advisor of Alabama, in an exhibition match, 6-1, 6-3.

George Sisler's Son Pitches No-Hit Game

ST. LOUIS, April 20.—(AP)—George Sisler, Jr., whose dad ranks with baseball's immortals, is following in his father's footsteps.

Sisler struck out 13 players, walked two and hit one. The latter lapses and a teammate's error gave the opposition its runs.

YANKS BEST MACKS

NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP)—Joe Cascarella's wildness brought about his undoing in a keen mound duel with Lefty Gomez today and the Yankees defeated the Athletics 3 to 1 before a crowd of 24,342.

Cascarella gave only four hits but handed out six walks while Gomez was granting seven blows and only one pass. The deciding runs were scored in the fifth on passes to Frank Crosetti and Red Rolfe, a double by Dixie Walker and George Selkirk's single. The Yanks scored again in the eighth on Rolfe's double. Cascarella drove in the Philadelphia run following Alex Hooks' double in the seventh.

MANY PRIZES TO BE OFFERED IN MARBLE TOURNEY

Big Event Is Officially Opened With Movie Party For 500 Kids

The northeast Louisiana marble tournament got off to a great start yesterday when some 500 enthusiastic youngsters attended the movie party at the Capitol theater and heard a brief outline of the plans and purposes of the big mibs tourney which the News-Star—World is staging.

The movie party was a grand success and the kids were given free rein at the Capitol. They cheered and whistled and otherwise gave noisy evidence that they were having a big time.

The movie party officially opened the tournament. Following the show, a number of boys who had not previously entered the tourney signed an entry blank and said they were going to start practicing at once to make up for lost time.

Boys and girls of northeast Louisiana who have not entered are urged to do so at once, for the list will close within a few days. If you haven't already signed an entry blank, go to the marble director at your school and tell him or her that you want to enter. Or if a director hasn't been appointed for your school, go to your principal. And if the principal can't give you the information you want, write the marble editor in care of the News-Star—World and he will see that you are enrolled.

Marbles and buttons will be distributed to the various schools this week. A bag of 20,000 marbles arrived in Monroe Friday and was placed on the stage of the Capitol Saturday morning. Each boy or girl in the tournament will get his or her share of the marbles and they won't cost a cent.

You all know that the grand prize is a week's vacation at Gulfport, Miss., where the local winner will compete against other champions in the Southern finals. Well, there are many other prizes besides this all-expense trip. Progressive merchants of Monroe wanted to give you further incentive to do your best, so they've offered numerous valuable awards as extra prizes.

Five merchants are going to give prizes valued at $5 or more to the grand final competitors. They are J. C. Penney company, R. and A Jewelry company, Collens Pharmacy, E. Jack Selig, Inc., and the Monroe Hardware and Furniture company. Monroe civic clubs are going to award gold medals to the district champions. And a number of other merchants will give valuable prizes to winners in the school tournaments. These merchants are as follows:

Griffin studio, Faser's Drug company, Ferd Levi Stationery company, T. John Department Store, Kennedy-Bennett Drug company, Hemp's Cafeteria, D. Masur and Sons, Culp's Music Shop, New South Drug store, Moore's Fashionable Tailoring, Standard Office Supply company, the Woman's Shop, Renfrow and Son, Hunt and Whitaker, Johnson Drug store, Wolff Brothers, Fink the Tailor, Miller-Guerriero Hardware company, Montgomery Ward, Motor Supply company and Auto Lec stores.

These prizes will be on display in the merchants' windows and you are invited to go by and inspect them.

The time is drawing near for the school eliminations, so you'd better be practicing. Directors of the school tourneys will be given the dope on these eliminations this week, and it won't be long before you'll be called upon to play your first official game.

Torrance And Hardin To Compete In Track Events At Capitol

BATON ROUGE, La., April 20.—(Special)—Topped by two world champions—"Baby Jack" Torrance and Glenn "Slats" Hardin, both of L. S. U.—and America's latest sprint sensation, Herman ("Nuggie") Neugass, of Tulane, some 500 athletes of the south will assemble in Tiger stadium, of Louisiana State university, May 3 and 4, for the annual Southern Amateur Athletic Union championships. The junior championship meet will be staged on Friday, with the senior program Saturday.

Present indications are that the state of Mississippi will furnish the largest number of athletes for the championship competition, with no less than 15 colleges and universities sending athletes after individual titles. Entries from the 15 Mississippi schools include those from 11 junior colleges.

More than a little interest has been created by the entry of Billy Brown, sensational high school performer from Baker high. This lad, hailed as a track team in himself, promises all sorts of competition to college, university and club athletes in the high jump, broad jump and the hop-step-jump.

Both meets are open to all registered athletes of high schools, colleges, universities and clubs of Louisiana, Mississippi and north and central Texas. Prizes will be gold medals emblematic of the championship of the south, with silver medals for second place athletes and bronze medals for third place winners. The Southern A. A. U. team trophy will be awarded the team scoring the highest number of points. A special trophy will be awarded the team winning the relay and the relay will not count for points in the team trophy competition.

DRAKE RELAYS TO DRAW TRACK ACES

Biggest Entry List In History Reported For Annual Track Meet

DES MOINES, Iowa, April 20.—(AP)—Track and field celebrities from all parts of the country will assemble here next week-end for the twenty-sixth annual Drake relays, one of the outstanding athletic carnivals of the nation.

More than 3,000 performers, a record-breaking group, are coming to the annual classic, Director Franklin (Pitch) Johnson said today as he busied himself with closing details.

"It appears like the biggest meet in history," the Drake University track coach said. "And from the class of competitors already entered, I expect several of the existing marks to fall."

As one of the headline attractions Johnson has arranged to have Glenn Cunningham, premier distance runner now taking post graduate work at the University of Iowa, run a featured mile against opponents yet to be selected.

Every section of the United States will be represented in the 31 events for university, college and high school teams. Every big ten school, except Chicago, and every school in the big six and the Missouri valley will have its stars here. Notre Dame, long prominent in the relays, will be back with a full squad, including Vincent Murphy, who is expected to crack the high jump record.

Out of the far west will come California (Los Angeles) San Diego State teachers, Montana, Fresno college and Oregon.

The usual group of southwestern schools also will return. They include the University of Texas, Abilene Christian, Arizona, North Texas Teachers and Rice institute.

Dempsey Goes Into Training Again For Refereeing Job

By John J. Romano

Jack Dempsey is in training again. Jack signalized his return to the sport of modified mayhem with a one-round setto of love taps with Jack Doyle, the Irish Thrush, who has designs on Max Baer's heavyweight crown.

Dempsey is not the narrow cheeked, prominent cheek-boned and brown-as-a-berry individual fight fans knew in his best fighting days. Today his face is round and full. His smile is broad and fullsome——unlike the tightened smirk of lips and curt greeting of those days when sharp, glittering eyes bespoke the fighting man in trim for a fight or frolic.

Dempsey is now a successful master of ceremonies in a tavern opposite Madison Square Garden. He has grown heavy and those weak underpins, which cost him the chance to regain his title in that unforgettable battle at Soldier Field in 1927, must needs be strengthened if he is going to carry on a full sixty minutes of hustling when he referees a 15-round fight.

Unlike fighters who get a minute respite between rounds, the referee cannot draw up a stool and take a rest. The best he can do is lean against the ropes in a neutral corner and then step to the center of the ring as soon as the bell rings for another round.

Always On the Go

The nervous energy of Dempsey as he slides around, Indian fashion, and keeps eternally on the go is a marvel to those who know that Jack has done nothing much in the way of training since the country-wide exhibition tour which wound up with that four-round encounter with King Levinsky several years ago.

Dempsey cannot let down suddenly. He is the vigorous type who must be doing something or his nerves will burn out with the suppressed emotion for one of his type. Hence, the need to return to the gym and keep in shape.

The customers at Dempsey's tavern come from far and near to shake the hand of the fighter called the greatest of his time, and Jack does his best to keep them entertained. They enjoy him immensely. It is extremely doubtful if the enjoyment is mutual. Dempsey is a happy-go-lucky fellow who takes a joke well and who is not shy on the retort. But the idea of shaking hands four hours a day to every Tom, Dick and Harry who comes along and saying in parrot-like fashion: "Glad to meet you. How's things?" is beginning to pall on the wanderer who wants to be away and in different places. He is a gypsy at heart. He does not go in for bluffing and the terms of his contract binding him to spend a certain number of hours daily in the tavern is beginning to make him jumpy and restless. How long it will last is a matter of conjecture on the part of those who know the real Jack Dempsey.

Miner to Millionaire

The former world's champion has had an eventful career. Starting off as a lowly paid miner in the mountains of his native Colorado, self-promoter, wrestler, fighter, hobo and jack of all trades, Dempsey was the first principal to share in a million-dollar purse.

As a mere hobo, without the means of knowing where he would rest his weary body from day to day, Jack made his way to New York. He got a fight and emerged with two broken ribs and the callous remark of the promoter ringing in his ears, "the less I see of you the better off we will be." The promoter, or manager as he liked to call himself when Jack was on top, lived to rue the day he chased the ambitious Colorado 'bum' out of his club.

Two years ago Dempsey vouched for Max Baer after the latter made a poor showing in New York and was dubbed "a clown with little to recommend him but an impish grin and a flare for silly dramatics." Jack convinced the fans that Baer was a better fighter than he showed against Tommy Loughran, Ernie Schaf and Tom Henney. The fans took Dempsey at his word and Max came through with a resounding knockout over Max Schmeling. Then came the Carnera fracas and with it the world's heavyweight title.

Cold Toward Jack Now

There are two sides to the story. The Baer management no longer talks of Jack Dempsey promoting the fights of the world's champion. Dempsey remains silent, as expected from one who does little talking when questioned about a controversial matter.

If freed of their contract with Madison Square Garden, Baer and Hoffman were reported to go under the direction of Jack Dempsey as promoter and referee of any bout indulged in by the champion. But nothing is heard about that arrangement these days.

With Baer under his control Dempsey was expected to hold the whip hand in all titular fights. This would have given Jack an opportunity to barge into the affairs of the Madison Square Garden corporation as matchmaker and executive, a position he would welcome, and restore it to the pinnacle it once enjoyed. Ancil Hoffman at one time went to the extent of offering an outright sum, with a percentage over a certain amount of the profits, to lease Madison Square Garden from year to year. Nothing came of it, however, and now we find Jack Dempsey not so close to the Baer outfit, in a managerial capacity, and the future of the former champion in doubt as to future plans.

U. S. RUBBER CO. STRESSES SAFETY

New 1935 Royal Tire Is Safest Ever Built By Manufacturer

The motorist can ride on U. S. Royal tires in 1935 with the greatest feeling of security he has every experienced, according to H. H. Benoit, of the Benoit-Nash Motor company, local U. S. dealers.

Annually acknowledged as one of the safest tires ever built, the Royal today offers twice the security it did only four years ago. This doubling of dependability in such a short time reflects the constant and intensive work of tire engineers to give mental as well as physical comfort to motoring.

Nine major developments account for the unusual degree of security in the 1935 tire. The first development occurred in 1931 when the bead formation was generally reinforced to strengthen the lower sidewall region of the tire.

In 1932 three important developments took place. One of these was another improvement in bead construction which involved the use of soft rubber tipped wire bundle and increased ply lock; the second was the adoption of a two-cord breaker, which increased the resistance of the tire to road blows; the third was the development of the venter tube which prevented trapped air from penetrating the body and blistering the sidewall cover.

Two additional safety features were added in 1933. The first consisted in the use of compression proof cords, for large sizes, with resultant increase in resistance to broken fabric. The second was the inverted breaker, which increased safety especially at high speeds.

Last year witnessed the appearance of the remaining three of the nine major improvements. The flexible rubber valve stem was developed to reduce air leakage and destruction of the tube when punctured. Heat resisting stocks were put into large size tires to make them run cooler. And triple tempered rubber was developed as a new cool-running tread.

Thus, the 1935 U. S. Royal, endowed with the cumulative improvement of many years, merits the appraisal of being the safest tire ever built by the United States Rubber company.

GOERING THANKS HIS PUBLIC

The multitude of gifts showered on him and his actress bride, Emmi Sonnemann, by an admiring nation caused General Hermann Goering, Prussian premier, to thank their well wishers from the stage of a Berlin auditorium. The former Emmi Sonnemann, left, holds two of the elaborate bridal bouquets included in the offerings, while General Goering extends "our heartiest thanks for your many, many remembrances."

INDUSTRIAL--REVIEW OF THE TWIN CITIES

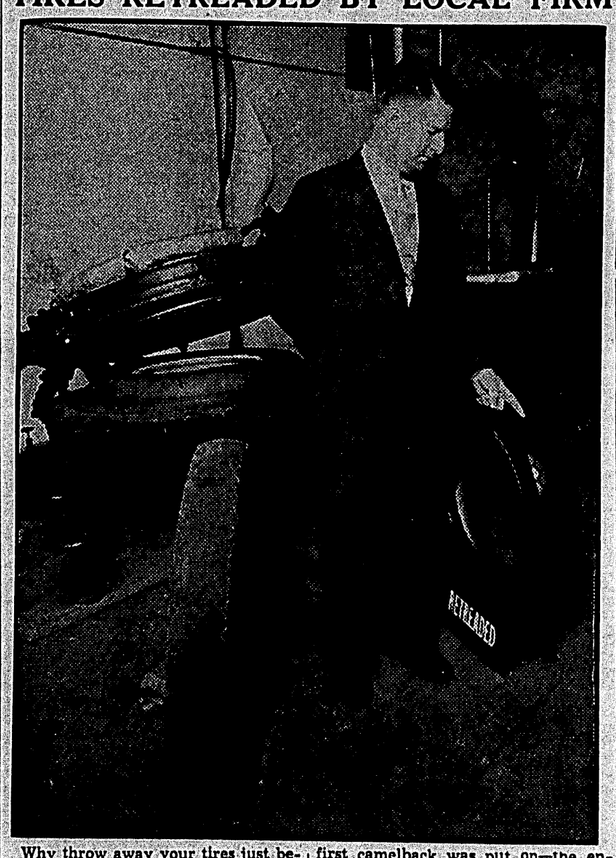
As is readily apparent in the above photograph, the Walters shop is completely equipped for any kind of radio repair job. Their charges are reasonable and all work is guaranteed. The firm also carries a complete line of tubes and other radio accessories. The Walters firm builds amplifiers and operates a modern sound truck.

TIRES RETREADED BY LOCAL FIRM



Why throw away your tires just because the tread is worn away? The Knowles-Elliott Tire company, on Trenton street in West Monroe, is prepared to retread your tires so that they will give you 10,000 to 15,000 more miles. Above is a photo showing an old tire and one retreaded by the Knowles-Elliott company, with Ken Elliott, member of the firm, standing by the "new" tire. The photograph was taken in the Knowles-Elliott shop.

The carcass of a tire is made to go 50,000 miles. When the tire is worn thin, it's only the tread that's gone. The same factory that made the tire could put what they term a new "camelback" or tread on it and it would be exactly like it was originally. That's why it's folly to throw away a tire that has lost it's first tread.

Right here in West Monroe you can have a new camelback put on your worn tire by exactly the same process the factory used when the first camelback was put on—the entire tread being cooked on at one time, hot just in sections. Every particle of rubber is removed, the carcass is immaculately cleaned to receive the new "saddle" or coating of rubber, which is placed on in a full circular mold. That tire is then good for another 10,000 or 15,000 miles of service under Knowles-Elliott's binding guarantee, and at approximately half the cost of a new tire.

SOUTHERN SELLS DELTA MACHINES

Local Hardware Company Has Shop Tools For Any Kind Of Work

There is a Delta tool for every kind of shop work. The wise craftsman selects a circular saw and jointer combination as a basic unit in building a shop. It is a logical choice. There is no workshop operation so fundamental as the sawing of a straight edge and the smoothing of that edge to a satin-like finish. The wise craftsman, too, specifies a Delta machine. Here, indeed, is a worthy foundation for a worth-while shop—a basic unit, and a unit which lives and serves throughout the building of the shop.

Then there is the Delta 14-inch band saw. Introduced only a year ago, the Delta band saw has won overwhelming praise from everyone who has seen it or used it. The reason for this is simple. No other band saw on the market could compare with it, when size, accuracy, convenience of handling, precision of adjustments and moderate cost were all considered. Because of these factors, it has replaced in many shop band saws which cost several times its low price.

The improvements in this machine are real improvements. It has never been Delta's policy merely to add "gadgets" simply to have something to talk about. Every addition to a Delta machine; every improvement must have real value or else it is weeded out immediately, no matter how much has been spent for experiment upon it. As a result, Delta machines represent the utmost value in this field.

Another fine shop machine is the Delta 11-inch double-duty speed lathe. This lathe is the ideal one for vocational training schools. Its moderate price enables a complete battery to be installed for the price of only a few larger machines, and students work with greater facility on machines of this type and size. Every operation possible on any other lathe is performed on the Delta lathe, and the addition of the Delta slide rest enables operations to be performed that are not possible on standard wood lathes.

There is a Delta machine for every job. Delta and the Southern Hardware company invites you to see these fine tools. Read the specifications of these machines in the Delta catalog, witness their performance at the Southern Hardware company and test them yourself under the convenient Delta 10-day trial plan. You are logical in demanding that your shop unit must be a Delta.

Building Is Leased For Canning Plant

In conformity with action taken recently by the Ouachita parish police jury, when it was voted to continue the operation of the West Monroe canning plant, a lease has just been secured from the West Monroe State bank for the building immediately west of the bank building on Natchitoches street. This is the same building used last year for a community cannery.

The season is to be opened on May 1 when the first English peas of the season will be utilized. After the English pea season ends, other vegetables are to be canned.

Mrs. C. A. Kincaid is to be in charge of the plant another season, supervising operations and teaching use of modern canning equipment.

Dew does not fall; it rises. It is the condensed breath of the earth.

Hodge

Since the coming of the Southern Advance Bag and Paper company to Hodge, the community has been graced almost every winter with the brief but pleasant visit of Mrs. John E. Kelley, of Bangor, Maine. Her arrival always signals the beginning of an enjoyable round of lovely parties, as Mrs. Kelley is the recipient of many social favors and is extensively feted during her winter sojourn here. This year, as in the past, Mrs. Kelley has responded to the delightful entertainments planned in her honor, and in a reciprocal manner, just prior to her return to northern climes, and on last Saturday afternoon a wide circle of friends was entertained at a charming pre-Easter bridge in the beautiful home of Mrs. Chas. L. Kelley.

At bridge, Mrs. Thomas Dennis received for high score a hand-painted salad bowl. Mrs. Clark Rankin was awarded, as second prize, an ornate floral center piece. The "traveling prize," a red leather desk memorandum mounted with an ebony "Scotty" guard, was won by Mrs. H. M. Gatlin. An Easter bunny, hauling a gay wagon filled with Easter eggs, driven by a downy chick, was presented individual gift remembrances of Mrs. Lufkin's famous "Pine tree state taffey" made and packaged in Mrs. Kelley's home city.

Delectable confections of molded ices in the form of superb Easter lilies, cakes embossed with a spray of graceful calla lilies, yellow and white mints and fruit nectar were served to the guests.

Those enjoying Mrs. Kelley's hospitality were Mesdames Chas J. Libbey, Royal A. Polhamus, Nelson Michaud, Phillip J. Hannan, Marshall L. Dickerson, H. M. Gatlin, David H. Bell, Jane Gagnon, Tom Callaway, Henry Michaud, Ralph Largay, John C. Michaud Emmett Stewart, J. C. Shows, Benton L. Kelley, Jerome T. Frazier, Tom G. Dennis, William M. Ferriday

Miss Lulu Oxley, who has been slightly ill, is on the road to recovery.

Miss Josephine Oxley, who is making her home in Newellton, spent the past week-end at home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Oxley.

Mrs. Hugh Wiley, the former Miss Virgie Williams, of Delhi, spent the past week-end here as a guest of Mrs. Ed Price.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Lyle Maxwell, of Canebrake plantation on Lake St. John, were among those who attended the jubilee in Baton Rouge for the Louisiana State university, and they also visited their sons, John and Stanley, who are students at L. S. U.

Miss Sarah I. Jones, parish librarian, and Mrs. Julia Knight, custodian of the Vidalia branch, attended the state conference of the Louisiana Library association and the L. S. U. silver jubilee in Baton Rouge.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Caldwell and baby daughter and Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Burley, of Monterey, attended the L. S. U. jubilee in Baton Rouge.

Miss Margaret Frances Wiseman, who attends college at Monticello A. & M., at Monticello, Ark., arrived home this week-end to spend Easter with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Wiseman.

Mr. W. E. Person, principal of the Waterproof high school, and commander of the local legion post, was a week-end visitor to Ferriday.

Announcement is made by the local Legion post auxiliary, that they will hold a dance at the Legion hall on the night of April 23 with Louis Clancy's orchestra from Monroe.

Antares, the red star seen in the constellation of Scorpion, is the largest of all stars whose diameters have been measured. It has a diameter of [illegible] miles.

U. S. RUBBER CO. STRESSES SAFETY

The motorist can ride on U. S. Royal tires in 1935 with the greatest feeling of security he has every experienced, according to H. H. Benoit, of the Benoit-Nash Motor company, local U. S. dealers.

Annually acknowledged as one of the safest tires ever built, the Royal today offers twice the security it did only four years ago. This doubling of dependability in such a short time reflects the constant and intensive work of tire engineers to give mental as well as physical comfort to motoring.

Nine major developments account for the unusual degree of security in the 1935 tire. The first development occurred in 1931 when the bead formation was generally reinforced to strengthen the lower sidewall region of the tire.

In 1932 three important developments took place. One of these was further improvement in bead construction which involved the use of soft rubber tipped wire bundle and increased ply lock; the second was the adoption of a two-cord breaker, which increased the resistance of the tire to road blows; the third was the development of the venter tube, which prevented trapped air from penetrating the body and blistering the sidewall cover.

Two additional safety features were added in 1933. The first consisted in the use of compression proof cords, for large sizes, with resultant increase in resistance to broken fabric. The second was the inverted breaker, which increased safety especially at high speeds.

Last year witnessed the appearance of the remaining three of the nine major improvements. The flexible rubber valve stem was developed to reduce air leakage and destruction of the tube when punctured. Heat resisting stocks were put into large size tires to make them run cooler. And triple tempered rubber was developed as a new cool-running tread.

Thus, the 1935 U. S. Royal, endowed with the cumulative improvement of many years, merits the appraisal of being the safest tire ever built by the United States Rubber company.

GOERING THANKS HIS PUBLIC

The multitude of gifts showered on him and his actress bride, Emmi Sonnemann, by an admiring nation caused General Hermann Goering, Prussian premier, to thank their well wishers from the stage of a Berlin auditorium. The former Emmi Sonnemann, left, holds two of the elaborate bridal bouquets included in the offerings, while General Goering extends "our heartiest thanks for your many, many remembrances."

Hodge

Since the coming of the Southern Advance Bag and Paper company to Hodge, the community has been graced almost every winter with the brief but pleasant visit of Mrs. John E. Kelley, of Bangor, Maine. Her arrival always signals the beginning of an enjoyable round of lovely parties, as Mrs. Kelley is the recipient of many social favors and is extensively feted during her winter sojourn here. This year, as in the past, Mrs. Kelley has responded to the delightful entertainments planned in her honor, and in a reciprocal manner, just prior to her return to northern climes, and on last Saturday afternoon a wide circle of friends was entertained at a charming pre-Easter bridge in the beautiful home of Mrs. Chas. L. Kelley.

At bridge, Mrs. Thomas Dennis received for high score a hand-painted salad bowl. Mrs. Clark Rankin was awarded, as second prize, an ornate floral center piece. The "traveling prize," a red leather desk memorandum mounted with an ebony "Scotty" guard, was won by Mrs. H. M. Gatlin. An Easter bunny, hauling a gay wagon filled with Easter eggs, driven by a downy chick, was presented individual gift remembrances of Mrs. Lufkin's famous "Pine tree state taffey" made and packaged in Mrs. Kelley's home city.

Delectable confections of molded ices in the form of superb Easter lilies, cakes embossed with a spray of graceful calla lilies, yellow and white mints and fruit nectar were served to the guests.

As is readily apparent in the above photograph, the Walters shop is completely equipped for any kind of radio repair job. Their charges are reasonable and all work is guaranteed. The firm also carries a complete line of tubes and other radio accessories. The Walters firm builds amplifiers and operates a modern sound truck.

TIRES RETREADED BY LOCAL FIRM

Why throw away your tires just because the tread is worn away? The Knowles-Elliott Tire company, on Trenton street in West Monroe, is prepared to retread your tires so that they will give you 10,000 to 15,000 more miles. Above is a photo showing an old tire and one retreaded by the Knowles-Elliott company, with Ken Elliott, member of the firm, standing by the "new" tire. The photograph was taken in the Knowles-Elliott shop.

The carcass of a tire is made to go 50,000 miles. When the tire is worn thin, it's only the tread that's gone. The same factory that made the tire could put what they term a new "camelback" or tread on it and it would be exactly like it was originally. That's why it's folly to throw away a tire that has lost it's first tread.

Right here in West Monroe you can have a new camelback put on your worn tire by exactly the same process the factory used when the first camelback was put on—the entire tread being cooked on at one time, not just in sections. Every particle of rubber is removed, the carcass is immaculately cleaned to receive the new "saddle" or coating of rubber, which is placed on in a full circular mold. That tire is then good for another 10,000 or 15,000 miles of service under Knowles-Elliott's binding guarantee, and at approximately half the cost of a new tire.

SOUTHERN SELLS DELTA MACHINES

Local Hardware Company Has Shop Tools For Any Kind Of Work

There is a Delita tool for every kind of shop work. The wise craftsman selects a circular saw and jointer combination as a basic unit in building a shop. It is a logical choice. There is no workshop operation so fundamental as the sawing of a straight edge and the smoothing of that edge to a satin-like finish. The wise craftsman, too, specifies a Delta machine. Here, indeed, is a worthy foundation for a worth-while shop—a basic unit, and a unit which lives and serves throughout the building of the shop.

Then there is the Delta 14-inch band saw. Introduced only a year ago, the Delta band saw has won overwhelming praise from everyone who has seen it or used it. The reason for this is simple. No other band saw on the market could compare with it, when size, accuracy, convenience of handling, precision of adjustments and moderate cost were all considered. Because of these factors, it has replaced in many shop band saws which cost several times its low price.

The improvements in this machine are real improvements. It has never been Delta's policy merely to add "gadgets" simply to have something to talk about. Every addition to a Delta machine; every improvement must have real value or else it is weeded out immediately, no matter how much has been spent for experiment upon it. As a result, Delta machines represent the utmost value in this field.

Another fine shop machine is the Delta 11-inch double-duty speed lathe. This lathe is the ideal one for vocational training schools. Its moderate price enables a complete battery to be installed for the price of only a few larger machines, and students work with greater facility on machines of this type and size. Every operation possible on any other lathe is performed on the Delta lathe, and the addition of the Delta slide rest enables operations to be performed that are not possible on standard wood lathes.

There is a Delta machine for every job. Delta and the Southern Hardware company invites you to see these fine tools. Read the specifications of these machines in the Delta catalog, witness their performance at the Southern Hardware company and test them yourself under the convenient Delta 10-day trial plan. You are logical in demanding that your shop unit must be a Delta.

Building Is Leased For Canning Plant

In conformity with action taken recently by the Ouachita parish police jury, when it was voted to continue the operation of the West Monroe canning plant, a lease has just been secured from the West Monroe State bank for the building immediately west of the bank building on Natchitoches street. This is the same building used last year for a community cannery.

The season is to be opened on May 1 when the first English peas of the season will be utilized. After the English pea season ends, other vegetables are to be canned.

Mrs. C. A. Kincaid is to be in charge of the plant another season, supervising operations and teaching use of modern canning equipment.

Dew does not fall; it rises. It is the condensed breath of the earth.

New York Stocks

By Victor Eubank
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP)—The stock market struck a fast upward gait today as traders returned from their Good Friday holiday in a decidedly bullish mood. Gains of 1 to nearly 3 points were numerous despite some late profit taking. The close was fairly strong. Transfers approximated 1,000,000 shares.

It was one of the liveliest Saturday sessions in about a year. The industrials, especially those of the investment type, showed the widest advances although the rails and utilities were firm.

While most of the commodity exchanges did not reopen, the grain pit at Chicago resumed business with the leading cereals jumping a cent or more a bushel in the first hour. European markets, with the exception of London, money and oils, were still closed and foreign exchanges did little. Bons improved considerably.

Among the most active share gainers were American Telephone, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Case, International Harvester, U. S. Smelting, Allied Chemical, Houdaille-Hershey, Santa Fe, Woolworth, Columbian Carbon and Westinghouse.

Financial observers expressed the opinion that investment demand was the most important equity influence of the day with inflation-mindedness apparently wholly subordinated. The silver buying program and other inflationary factors, it was pointed out, seemed to have been pushed into the background by the cheapest money rates in history and the desire of investors to get idle funds working even at extremely low pay.

The motor field attracted attention when Cram's estimated output for the week ending today at 110,235 units, the highest weekly production so far this year. This compares with 109,537 units in the previous week and 91,224 in the corresponding 1934 week. The commerce department reported that March factory sales of automobiles totaled 429,830 units, the largest for any month since April, 1930.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP)—Stocks strong, leading issues advance briskly. Bonds steady, industrials improve. Curb firm, metals in demand. Foreign exchanges quiet, variations narrow.

Chicago: Wheat, higher, drought spreading eastward. Corn, strong, May squeeze threatened. Cattle, nominally steady. Hogs, nominally steady, quotable top $9.05.

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, April 20.—(AP)—Material upturns of grain values took place early today owing largely to persistent absence of moisture in dry sections of domestic winter wheat territory southwest. Opening 3-8—1 1-8 higher, May 1.00 3-4—7-8, wheat afterward rose further. Corn started 1-8—7-8 up, May 90 3-4-9, and then scored additional gains.

Wheat closed firm, 1 1-3—1 3-4 above Thursday's finish, May 101 1-2-5-8, corn 1 1-8-1 3-4 up, May 91 3-8—1-2, oats 3-8 to 1 cent advanced, and provisions showing 5 to 20 cents gain.

New York Stocks

By Victor Eubank
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP)—The stock market struck a fast upward trait today as traders returned from their Good Friday holiday in a decidedly bullish mood. Gains of 1 to nearly 3 points were numerous despite some late profit taking. The close was fairly strong. Transfers approximated 1,000,000 shares.

It was one of the liveliest Saturday sessions in about a year. The industrials, especially those of the investment type, showed the widest advances, although the rails and utilities were firm.

While most of the commodity exchanges did not reopen, the grain pit at Chicago resumed business with the leading cereals jumping a cent or more a bushel in the first hour. European markets, with the exception of London money and oils, were still closed and foreign exchanges did little. Bons improved considerably.

Among the most active share gainers were American Telephone, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Case, International Harvester, U. S. Smelting, Allied Chemical, Houdaille-Hershey, Santa Fe, Woolworth, Columbian Carbon and Westinghouse.

Financial observers expressed the opinion that investment demand was the most important equity influence of the day with inflation-mindedness apparently wholly subordinated. The silver buying program and other inflationary factors, it was pointed out, seemed to have been pushed into the background by the cheapest money rates in history and the desire of investors to get idle funds working even at extremely low pay.

The motor field attracted attention when Cram's estimated output for the week ending today at 110,235 units, the highest weekly production so far this year. This compares with 109,537 units in the previous week and 91,224 in the corresponding 1934 week. The commerce department reported that March factory sales of automobiles totaled 429,830 units, the largest for any month since April, 1930.

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, April 20.—(AP)—Material upturns of grain values took place early today owing largely to persistent absence of moisture in dry sections of domestic winter wheat territory southwest. Opening 3-8—1 1-8 higher, May 1.00 3-4—7-8, wheat afterward rose further. Corn started 1-8—7-8 up, May 90 3-4-9, and then scored additional gains.

Wheat closed firm, 1 1-3—1 3-4 above Thursday's finish, May 101 1-2-5-8, corn 1 1-8-1 3-4 up, May 91 3-8—1-2, oats 3-8 to 1 cent advanced, and provisions showing 5 to 20 cents gain.

RELIEF MATTERS ARE UNCERTAIN IN NINE STATES

Trouble In Louisiana And Georgia Blamed On Long, Talmadge

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(AP)—Uncertainty in nine states over relief matters was reported today to be hampering administration efforts to turn back to the states the care of persons unable to work under the new four billion dollar program.

Officials familiar with relief plans said the amounts being demanded from the states by Harry L. Hopkins, the relief administrator, represented to a large degree sums needed to take care of the unemployables whose support the federal government hereafter will make a state job.

With the states regularly contributing such amounts, it was said the way would be cleared for their continuing to carry that load after direct relief from the federal government was ended.

Varying situations that have arisen in the nine states, however, have complicated matters. In Georgia and in Louisiana, much of the trouble is blamed by federal officials upon Governor Eugene Talmadge and Senator Long. There has been no indication that relief would not be administered in those states by federal officials as many of the $880,000,000 for direct relief jobs.

Secretary Ickes has said that if public works were handled under the four billion dollar fund as they have been in the past Georgia would get little money and Louisiana might not get any. But he was speaking of that portion of the money which might be loaned to the state or municipalities, and which would be accompanied by a grant from the federal government. In the minds of Washington officials, there existed no doubt that those two states would receive funds for a wide range of projects which, under the works fund, will be financed wholly by the federal government. Much of this money, however, will be spent in cooperation with localities under arrangements by which the money will be repaid.

The other states figuring in the relief fund dispute are Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Florida, North and South Carolina, Virginia, New Jersey and Missouri.

Pennsylvania and Missouri have arranged to supply the money demanded of them for one month. What will be the situation after that month remains to be seen. In each of the states the situation differs.

TELEVISION NEWS IN RUSSIA

Called the first television newspaper, the Telechronique has been placed in operation by the Soviet radio committee in Moscow. It is really a talking picture film, and is televised from Moscow to be picked up by anyone having the necessary apparatus. Two radio receivers are needed, one to pick up the sound, and the other, working on a different wave length, to pick up the vision. It is predicted that television illustrated newspapers will be seen in many countries within two years.

The president of the United States does not have constitutional power to pardon state prisoners; his powers extend only to federal prisoners.

AT THE CAPITOL

A new romantic team, showing a new Barbara Stanwyck, is introduced by First National pictures in "The Woman in Red," in which Gene Raymond has the leading role in support of the glamorous star. Miss Stanwyck has the most dramatic role of her career in this story of fashionable folk who ride hard and fight fair. Others in the cast are Genevieve Tobin, John Eldredge, Dorothy Tree and Russel Hicks. The film based on Wallace Irwin's novel, "North Shore," plays today at the Capitol.

Opera Director Hopes To See Supervision Of Arts

By Russell C. Landstrom
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

CHICAGO, April 20.—Frederick A Stock, who on April 11 quietly observed his thirtieth anniversary as conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, has divulged his dream that music and all the other fine arts in the United States one day would be placed under governmental supervision.

The 62-year-old veteran of the baton advocated further the placing of the entire educational system in America under the federal aegis and declared radio the country's greatest educator in music whose possibilities have only been tapped.

It was a cultural brew of deep potentialities, needled with the piquant flavor of his Teutonic origin, which Director stock served. In his office in historic Orchestra hall on Michigan boulevard, theater of so many of his artistic triumphs, Stock spoke his views and reminisced, his gaze straying out over the lake, memory and mellowness thus drawing fresh inspiration.

"It seems only yesterday that I became conductor of the orchestra here," Stock mused. Tall, lean, silver-haired and smiling, the beloved conductor retains the enthusiasm of his blond youth and much, it appeared, of its calm, harnessed energy. Buoyantly, he advanced his theories to stimulate the arts.

"Music, our entire system of education, I believe, should be under the government's supervision," Stock said. "We should have a ministry of education and fine arts with headquarters in Washington and branch offices in large cities over the country.

"Under such an order the arts really would flourish. Now we are wasting much talent.

"It should be possible for us in time to change the policies now guiding such organizations as symphony orchestras, to develop symphonic bodies of well-trained, well-disciplined musicians in every state of the union, and to organize them under the supervision of the state as such. We should then no longer talk about the 'Chicago symphony orchestra,' but the 'symphony orchestra of Illinois.'"

"The trouble with music in the United States," he declared, "is that we still think of it as a luxury rather than a necessity. We think of music in terms of seasons whereas in Europe it is a year around enjoyment. The Germans call it "Spieljahr, an all-inclusive word meaning year of play.

"In America we apparently are not far enough along for that. We have, in fact, gone backward, as evidenced by the Metropolitan opera's short season this year."

The director defended radio as a contributor to American culture.

"Radio," he asserted, "has been and still is the greatest music educator in this country. The desire for musical self-expression has been increased rather than curtailed by the radio. Our only trouble is how to take care of the abundance of talent thereby encouraged and developed."

It was at Cologne, Germany, that Stock in 1895 met Theodore Thomas, then conductor of the Chicago orchestra.

Stock, a native of Julich, Germany, was a violinist in the Cologne municipal orchestra. "It had always been my dream to go to America," he recalled. "I sought an audience with Mr. Thomas. He told me that if I would make my way to the States he would give me a place in his orchestra."

When the young man arrived here there was no vacancy in the violin section of the orchestra. He took up the viola.

Five years later he became assistant conductor.

Upon the death of Thomas on Jan. 5, 1905, those designated to select his successor thought first of obtaining a conductor from Europe. Stock was told that he would be named if the committee failed to land one of the famous maestros abroad. Stock assented. On March 24 he was named tentative director. The actual appointment followed on April 11.

A composer as well as a conductor, Stock's musical writings include a symphony in C minor, a set of variations on an original theme, a tone poem for large orchestra, a concerto for violin and orchestra, two overtures and several smaller orchestral workers. In 1925, France made him a chevalier of the legion of honor.

MEDIEVAL SKELETONS FOUND

Several skeletons of human bodies, believed to have belonged to medieval times, have been found near Newbury, England. The bones were discovered two feet below the surface, and the positions show that the bodies were buried with their heads to the east. The spot is near a building known as "The Litten," on the site of which at one time was the priory of St. Bartholomew, and attached to it was a chapel, part of which still stands.

WAR VETERANS' SERVICE HELPS

(Editor's note: The following article is the fifth of a series released by H. B. McClendon, Ouachita parish service officer, for publication in the Sunday Morning World. The articles explain benefits available to United States veterans of wars in which this country has participated, and discuss compensations, pensions, hospitalization, funeral expenses and other benefits.)

Veterans Administration Form P-10 is used in all cases where honorably discharged war veterans are in need of hospitalization.

The veteran should submit with this form a copy of his discharge certificate, certified to before a notary or someone authorized to administer oaths. The veteran will be required to state, under oath, the date and place of his enlistment; date and place of his discharge; nearest of kin; the amount of property, real and personal, including cash on hand and in bank that he has at time of making application; whether or not he is a member of a lodge, society, community group, which provides hospitalization to care for its members; and whether or not he is unable to defray the necessary expenses of hospital or domiciliary care, including transportation to and from the hospital.

The medical certificate on the reverse side of the form must be filled out in detail by a physician, who should give a definite diagnosis, with the symptoms and findings to substantiate his diagnosis. The physician should delete those words on the form P-10 which are not applicable, as this is absolutely necessary.

In view of the fact that government hospitals are crowded at the present time, it makes it most important that physicians and service officers should exercise the greatest care in completing this form. The records show that a large percentage of the applicants who are refused admittance to a government hospital or a soldier's home, are refused due to the fact that the applications were not filled out correctly and in detail. This has worked a hardship upon many veterans in the state of Louisiana who are very much in need of hospital treatment.

Service connected cases and emergency cases are given preference over others. If the disability for which the veteran seeks hospitalization is service connected, it should be stated plainly on the form. If the case is an emergency the doctor should so state. Where the veteran would need an operation or hospitalization within twenty-four hours, the physician who is in attendance should telephone the medical officer in charge of Veterans Administration Facility, at Alexandria, La., and explain to him the condition of the veteran, and request authority to send him to the hospital. It is preferable for the physician to call the hospital rather than the service officer. In such cases, the veteran should bring his discharge certificate or a certified copy with him to the hospital.

More information may be secured relative to this benefit by communicating with the local service officer.

Easter

I never see white candles that march in proud parade
On altars Easter morning, or lilies slim and staid,
But I remember Mary saw a tall lad die
Upon an Eastern hillside one day as Spring came by.

Long, long before the twilight strange darkness settled down.
Did Mary leave recalling how He who hung so high
Once asked for love and stories as April dusk swept by?

I never hear glad anthems that tell how He arose,
How angls moved the great stone,
And loosed the binding clothes,
But that I know a gladness because each grief and loss

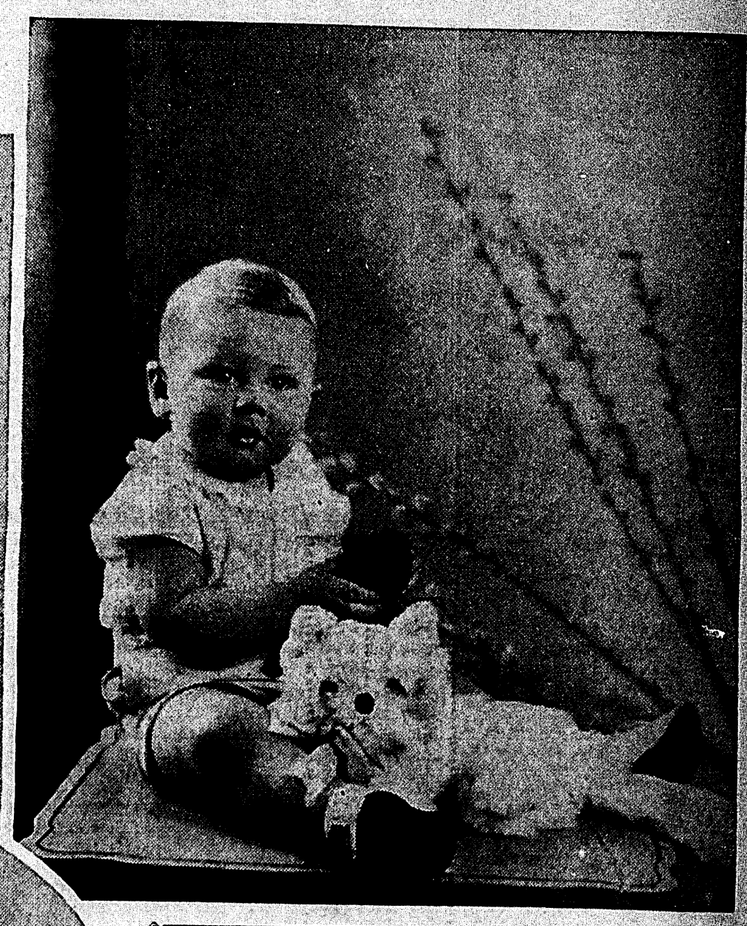
—Helen Welshimer.



EASTER MORNING! Music and color will girdle the globe today to attest the glory and loveliness of life and its hopes . . . whether the heavens frown or smile, nymphs, soft-voiced and young arrayed in brilliant vesture, will be abroad to greet the day . . . fragrant incense will ascend in churches from swinging censors and glorious Ascension lilies. . . . The lily is paramount in its close relationship to the Lord's resurrection and ascension. . . . Jesus always chose familiar objects to illustrate His teachings and it could have been that His eyes rested on the sunny slopes about Him glowing with lilies in all their matchless loveliness. . . . All through the Scriptures the lily is mentioned . . . to this day visitors to Palestine, during the spring season marvel at the beauty of the lilies on the hills and in the valleys. . . . The fasting, the long days of repentance and the abstinence from all forms of worldly pleasures is now over and once again we resume the even tenor of our way. . . . Despite the gloomy atmosphere of Lent we had our high moments . . . gay little interludes with charming visitors in the city supplying the inspiration. . . . In the lobby of the Frances hotel Tuesday night Kay Powell's magnetic personality attracted a throng of admirers. . . . We couldn't help but notice how utterly unspoiled she is from artistic success. . . . Hatless, tall and slender with a nosegay of vivid blossoms tucked under her pointed chin, she held court and exchanged quip for quip. . . . Blanche Oliver was rather downcast because she entertained the erroneous belief that her little French Cajun sketch during the banquet on the Terrace did not go over as well as usual. . . . However, her belief was a mistaken one. . . . We watched the enthusiasm of the police jurors as they chuckled in high glee over her clever impersonation of that ecstatic, impulsive, lovable, easily excitable person known as the French Cajun. . . . The waning days of Lent also were brightened by the presence of another visitor, Verne Lane, of Boston, Mass., who is the very essence of chic. . . . At one social affair last week she was wearing a green flowered ensemble that was breath taking in its charm. . . . Travis and Lida Oliver hopped out of a plane at Selman field on Friday following a visit on the Atlantic coast and straightaway hopped into their automobile for the Gulf coast, the playground of Louisiana bankers during their state convention. . . . Traveling by plane means that trucks follow later . . . but Lida, undaunted by its non-arrival, left word for it to follow her to Gulfport. . . . Society mobilized at Betty and Joe Isaacman's last night for a jolly little cocktail party before the dance at Lakeside club. . . . There were flowers all over the house and an assortment of appetizing things to eat, such as the average person would take a week to assemble. . . . Betty, in one of those diaphonous chiffons she wears so well, radiated the cordiality and sweetness which is so much a part of her hospitality. . . . Freneau and Floy Surguine, in honor of whom the clan gathered, were beaming over the many well wishing messages they will remember when they sail back to Africa. . . . Monroe people seem to take exceptional delight in lavishing their garden flowers upon friends when the occasion arises. . . . Lillian Williamson, entertaining for Virginia Thurman Cole two weeks ago, was unable to keep a memorandum of the many friends who sent her flowers. . . . She expressed herself as being deeply concerned over the situation as she wanted to thank each one personally. . . . Speaking of flowers—have you seen the C. G. Ammer yard on North Fifth street? . . . Drive by today and give your eyes a feast. . . . Hundreds of pink and crimson Radiance roses spill their loveliness and waft their fragrance on the cool spring air. . . . Have you ever in your life seen so many little back yard gardens? . . . Some one has called them "war gardens" because they have been planted through necessity. . . . Not so many years ago we were all too proud to get down on our knees to a patch of carrots but today with the high cost of living and all we are really thrilled over the idea of raising a patch of turnips and string beans to serve the family. . . . Driving along Riverside we caught a glimpse of early corn waving in the spring breeze and the unmistakable odor of crisp new onions nodding by the side of the road. . . . In every section of the city vacant lots have been transformed into gardens that are worth their weight in gold. . . . Cabbage, the lowliest in the vegetable kingdom, is nine cents a pound today. . . . However, those who possess a Jiggs appetite get reckless now and then and indulge themselves. . . . From cabbage to steak is rather a long jump but we sniffed the air around the Arthur Dryburgh home Saturday night and caught the aroma of steak sizzling over the brazier in their garden where they dish out their own special brand of hospitality. . . . Boyce Honnoll of Memphis, always a sartorial figure and radiating individuality, is in the city for a flying visit with her mother, Jessie Sadler. . . . We glimpsed her at the home of a friend last week and while engaged in conversation discovered that she is just home from New York. . . . Such interesting news she gave us of her niece, Boyce Leigh Sadler, who was with her in New York. . . . Boyce Leigh posed for her portrait and incidentally was paid a subtle compliment by the artist who requested that he be permitted to hang the portrait in a gallery exhibit next month. . . . We also found out that she attended the West Point Easter balls and walked down Flirtation Walk and in fact did all the things that is expected of an enthusiastic college girl who is privileged to tread such precious soil. . . . Leslie Garrett, perfectly unaffected and with that air of good breeding which only well bred people have, acted in the capacity of toastmistress at the Police Jury convention banquet last week. . . . Six hundred people listened to her witticisms and vivacious talk. . . . Saw John and Lottie Breard shaking hands right and left. . . . Lottie wore such a becoming model of pastel blue. . . . John is so thoroughly likeable and just the sort of person to head an organization of this kind. . . . Celestial music will be heard tonight at the Methodist church where two choirs will join in singing Rabboni's Easter Cantata . . . a grand and glorious climax to a day that marks the anniversary of the world's loftiest event.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitfield Blanks of Colorado Springs, Colorado, are receiving congratulations of their friends over the arrival of their first child, a lovely daughter, Beverly Dene, in their home on the seventeenth of April. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Blanks of this city are the happy paternal grandparents.

Mrs. E. P. Whitson of Fort Worth, Texas, and two children, Pierce, Jr., and Judith are enjoying a visit in the home of Mrs. J. A. Reid on Speed avenue.

Mrs. E. P. Whitson of Fort Worth, a delightful guest in the home of Mrs. J. A. Reid was introduced to a coterie of friends during the coffee hour, Saturday morning in the home of Mrs. W. C. Faulk. Many charming little courtesies were extended by the hostess.

Mrs. Scott Hamilton completed a brief visit in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Breard, and returned to her home in New Orleans Wednesday morning. Other guests in the Breard home the first of the week were Mr. and Mrs. Frierson of Frierson, La.

Solomon In All His Glory Was Not Arrayed Like Those In The Easter Parade Today

The Easter parade is coming back. Every member of the family will be decked out in new clothes rivaling Solomon in all his glory if one can judge from the number of shoppers we have seen hurrying home with interesting looking bundles and hat boxes. In 1933 if one made a remark about a new hat for Easter the answer was accompanied by a distressful upturn of the nose and a "Goodness no, nothing new for me, I'll be lucky if I can raise the price for a special Easter dinner." The year, 1934, wasn't much better but Easter, 1935, is going to be a joyous one with optimism the keynote. Even the most conservative will appear today in something new and everywhere (weather permitting) happy children will be romping and playing in their colorful Easter togs.

The tradition of Easter—the day of awakening—is immemorial. The name itself, according to the Venerable Bede, is a survival from the old Teutonic mythology as a day sacred to the festivals of Ostara, the Anglo-Saxon goddess of spring. So, both for those of faith and unfaith, the day is linked with the joys of natural as well as spiritual renaissance. The risen Christ, with His promise of immortality, is heralded by the mystery of the rebirth of nature with its promise of the unending return of the season of fruits and flowers and the greening evidence in the reawakening of the sleeping seeds of earth.

The poet Keats, in a pagan spirit, dedicating a volume of his poems to his friends, Leigh Hunt, mourned the decadence of the ancinet festivals in a sonnet more musical than true. He wrote:

Glory and loveliness have passed away,
For if we wander out in early morn,
No wreathed incense do we see upborne
Into the East to meet the smiling day;
No crowd of nymphs, soft-voiced and young and gay
In woven baskets bringing ears of corn,
Roses and pinks and violets to adorn
The shrine of Flora . . .

But the poet must have reckoned without his Easter. It is the one symbolic day of all the year dedicated to glory and loveliness. Flora is not forgotten.

Miss Wossman Honored By The State P.-T. A

The spirit of cooperation and splendid leadership of Miss Julia Wossman, principal of the Barkdull Faulk school, is responsible for the favorable recognition and the honors heaped upon the Barkdull Faulk P.-T. A. during the state convention in Alexandria. This association received honorable mention for exceptional achievement during the past year.

Outstanding was presentation of certificate of life membership, also certificate for being a superior association and certificate for honor roll, having increased publications. These certificates were presented at the banquet and received by the president, Mrs. W. H. Armstrong.

The association was also honored by having its publicity book prepared by Mrs. C. W. Williams selected as one of the outstanding books and sent to the national convention. This association was second in state with its Founders' day donation. The poster, made by fourth grade children, received honorable mention.

Friends Wish Travelers Bon Voyage Ere Departure Two Months' Visit In Sweden

The departure of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Arlig for a two months' visit in Gothenbeg, Sweden, prompted Mr. and Mrs. Jesse L. Hanchey to gather a few congenials together for dinner.

A miniature ship in a "sea" of pink Radiance roses centering the beautifully appointed table, was reminiscent of the approaching ocean voyage. The clever place cards were also suggestive of foreign travel. The conversational theme during the serving of the delectable five-course dinner, naturally centered around Mr. and Mrs. Arlig's visit in his childhood in Sweden. They will sail from New York on the twenty-seventh of April on board the steamer Europa, landing in Bremen, Germany, on the third of May. The remainder of the journey will be made overland, going by rail to Denmark, crossing the sound into Sweden. Mrs. Arlig is experiencing an anticipatory thrill as she has never before visited foreign shores.

Friends were privileged to wish Mr. and Mrs. Arlig bon voyage on this interesting occasion.

Mrs. Verne Lane Of Boston Central Figure At Social Events Of Charming Nature

A charming visitor in the city, Mrs. Verne Lane of Boston, Mass., house guest of Miss Maible Hood has been the central figure at several smart affairs arranged in her honor during the past week.

Conspicuous among the informal affairs was Mrs. Faye Heard's luncheon at the Frances Hotel. Considerable beauty of detail prevailed with the flowers centering the perfectly appointed board in artistic profusion, claiming particular attention.

Miss Hood's luncheon bridge on the Virginia roof Saturday at one o'clock was an artistic triumph. The luncheon table set in the midst of swaying flower baskets, tinkling music of the fountain and the prismatic lighting effects from the lanterns overhead, reflected a purple and silver color theme. A mound of purple lilies formed the central floral note with tall purple tapers in silver candlesticks at the four corners. Exquisite corsages of purple sweet peas tied with silver ribbons marked each cover and created a splash of purple along the board. The place cards were rather unique—large purple mints embossed in Easter lillies and inscribed with the name of each guest.

Each course of the faultlessly served luncheon was developed in shades of purple especially attractive being the aperitifs served in purple frosted glasses.

Bridge was introduced later and Godet print mirrors in Easter wrappings presented as bridge favors. The gift for remembrance to the honor guests was a crystal flacon of French perfume.

Mrs. Lane wore on this occasion a smart navy blue and white model with accessories of blue and her hostess, Miss Hood, wore a charming brown model with all accessories of the shame shade.

State Conventions Bring Club Women Together As A Climax To Year's Endeavors

Forty-eight state conventions will be held by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs during the next three months. On the eve of these conventions it was announced that the organization had 7,000 more members to its credit than one year ago.

In Louisiana 11 state clubs with a membership of nearly 350 will contribute to the discussion carried out May 17, 18 and 19 in Monroe, in line with the economic security program of the National Federation adopted for this year. Judge Grace A. Miles, membership chairman of the National Federation, will be a conference speaker.

The state conventions will act as feeders for the national convention to be held in Seattle in July when several thousand delegates from 48 states, Hawaii, Alaska and the District of Columbia, will gather for the Northwest Biennial with Mrs. Gaile MacDonald Bowman of Richmond, Va., national president presiding. "On to Seattle" will be the slogan at the state meetings, and special notice will be given to the Oriental tour which is attracting many of the delegates. Miss Josephine Schain of New York, chairman of the international study group, announces this is the eighth time Federation members have traveled to foreign countries. The National Federation has just completed a national poster exhibit which was shown in fourteen cities coast to coast. Most of the posters were done by young men and women in their respective competitive nation-wide contest aimed to stimulate poster making in America.

Easter

I never see white candles that march in proud parade
On altars Easter morning, or lilies slim and staid,
But I remember Mary saw a tall lad die
Upon an Eastern hillside one day as Spring came by.

The high road to Golgotha held half the crowded town;
Long, long before the twilight strange darkness settled down.
Did Mary leave recalling how He who hung so high
Once asked for love and stories as April dusk swept by?

I never hear glad anthems that tell how He arose,
How angls moved the great stone,
And loosed the binding clothes,
But that I know a gladness because each grief and loss

—Helen Welshimer.

EASTER MORNING! Music and color will girdle the globe today to attest the glory and loveliness of life and its hopes . . . whether the heavens frown or smile, nymphs, soft-voiced and young arrayed in brilliant vesture, will be abroad to greet the day . . . fragrant incense will ascend in churches from swinging censors and glorious Ascension lilies. . . . The lily is paramount in its close relationship to the Lord's resurrection and ascension. . . . Retirement Of Mrs. Mailhes As State P.-T. A. President Regretted Throughout State

The retirement of Mrs. L. A. Mailhes of Shreveport as state president of the Louisiana Parent-Teacher association is regretted by every member of every association throughout the length and breadth of the state. The following article appearing in the Shreveport Times expresses fully the sentiment of the Monroe P.-T. A.:

"Mrs. Mailhes' retirement will climax a presidential career outstanding for progress in all departments of the organization she had headed during the past three years. Her achievements are all the more spectacular in view of the fact that it was her responsibility to weather the worst financial depression the world has ever known. Tribute to her leadership is evident in a membership increase from 9,000 to 17,000, with 30 new units added to the state body, and extension of the P.-T. A. activities over every section of Louisiana. Further evidence is found in two important legislative victories affecting child welfare in the state. These were the passing of the Hamiter bill to segregate public school funds in the state treasury and the amendment to the act governing marriageable ages in Louisiana, which resulted in the legal age for males being raised from the former 14 years, to 18, and that of females to 16, from a former 12. Both pieces of legislation were actively sponsored by the Louisiana Parent-Teacher association under Mrs. Mailhes' direction.

"The outgoing executive also placed the state congress on a sound financial basis by raising state and national dues for local units, from 10 cents to 20 cents, the increase paid by the total membership and not by the individual members. As a direct result, the state budget has been enlarged to four times its former status, with a more liberal allotment for each department in order to facilitate the work in all.

"The elevation of dues, in practically all cases where this has been done, is usually followed by a sharp decline in membership totals, according to tabulations recorded by the National Congress. The Louisiana association is one of the few exceptions, a subject for surprise and congratulation on the part of the parent body.

"Mrs. Mailhes has been signally honored on numerous occasions by the national organization, which has given Louisiana representation on national programs and planning boards, and placed this state's executive as leader of a national publicity conference and as one of five state presidents on a committee for national goals during conventions of the National congress the past three years.

"The Louisiana Congress, during Mrs. Mailhes' term has had the privilege and benefit of personal contact with notable officers and chairmen of the National Congress, who have conducted conferences and classes in leadership along many prominent lines of the work and proved valuable assistance to district and local chairmen.

"The state president also toured the state twice annually, and gave personal counsel and help to all units of every district.

"Prior to her occupancy of the highest office in the state organization, Mrs. Mailhes served for more than 12 years in local, council and district units, and in the state association as chairman of publicity and vice-president. She began her P.-T. A. activities as a member of the Creswell unit, when the mammoth association, which has long enjoyed the distinction of the largest in the city and state and one of the largest in the National Congress, numbered only 80 members and was just affiliating with the state and national groups. She was identified with Creswell for five years. She organized St. John's P.-T. A., served in the official personnel of South Highlands, and was recording secretary of the first Shreveport council, of which Mrs. Karl McCoy was president.

"Mrs. Mailhes has never lost touch with the local units over the state and she is beloved by members of all, who have never found her lacking in inspiration and guidance, sound counsel and sympathetic insight, no matter how perplexing their problems nor how discouraging their outlook.

"Her career as state executive has been a brilliant one, notable for many worthy achievements for the general welfare of the organization whose interests she has always served loyally and well."

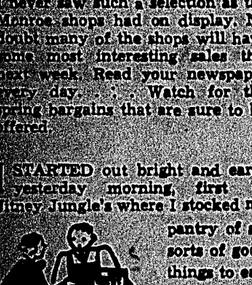
SHOPPING FLASHES
Picked Up Around Town
—By Irene—

DID you think to buy that new Easter outfit yesterday? . . . I never saw such a selection as the Monroe shops had on display. No doubt many of the shops will have some most interesting sales this next week. Read your newspaper every day. . . . Watch for the spring bargains that are sure to be offered.

I STARTED out bright and early yesterday morning, first to Jitney Jungle's where I stocked my pantry of all sorts of good things to eat. You know, there is one feature I adore about this company—if you can't find a parking place at one store, there is always another Jitney Jungle . . . 3 stores in all. What a convenience! Say, housewives, if you don't happen to see what you want in one of their stores, go to the No. 10 store, located at the corner of Stubbs and Fourth. This is a super-store . . . with practically every kind of food that is possible to obtain, including a first class bakery.

WELL, with grocery buying over, I had to go to Eunice Lee Beauty Shop, located over Morgan & Lindsey's, to get my new Easter wave. For, after all, what would my new hat look like without a proper hair style? . . . You know, these new "long-dangle" hats call for unusual hair dresses. I found just the beauticians that could do the "hair-dress" tricks at Eunice Lee Beauty Shop and believe me, you really get quality work in this shop. Don't you just adore patronizing a shop that gives you a dollar's worth for a dollar . . . Phone 2070. . . . Investigate the work in this shop!



WELL, Easter not only calls for a new dress, hat and shoes, but it surely does demand a clean, polished car. I just "natcherally" drove to "Tom" Tire Service, where those "master cleaners" did a pure-enough "jam-up" washing, greasing and polishing job. So, this morning, I will attend church service perfectly [illegible] even to my automobile. . . . you'll be delighted with the excellent work they do. . . . You always need tires! . . . You know those good "Goodyears" at [illegible] easy payment plan. . . . you can put [illegible] summer . . . [illegible] be ready for the

WHILE I was having my automobile washed, I had my lunch at Hemphill's Cafeteria. Have you tried those new dishes down there? . . . Oh! . . . that delicious fresh strawberry pie! . . . Never tasted anything like it. They tell me it is one of their own recipes that no one else has duplicated. Try it next time you eat there. . . . And, say, men, you will like the tender steaks this cafeteria serves. . . . Fresh green vegetables . . . fresh salads and lots of other things that will pep up a jaded appetite.

WELL, I considered now as good a time as any to store my furs for the summer season. . . . So, as I have done for the past three summers, I stored them at the Monroe Steam Laundry. You know, they clean your garments before they are stored, which assures you that no germs remain in your clothes or no germs are gathered from other garments because they are all cleaned. I have always found this service so satisfactory and safe. . . . I rather like the idea of trading at home, don't you? The Monroe Steam Laundry offers you the same dependable moth-free storage that you would pay for out of Monroe. Why don't you send your fur coat to them this summer? I am certain you will be pleased. Phone 102 and 103. Let them tell you about their large storage vaults.

OH! by the way . . . Stefan, the Master of Portraits has established a business in Monroe, 108 St. John St. I called on this studio, just because I had heard so much of Stefan . . . I found masterpieces . . . and saw letters of thanks from the White House, mayors, priests, chiefs, etc., from all parts of the land. If you love really fine art . . . you will be interested in Stefan's work. There is an opening special on this week . . . a regular $5.00 photograph finished in French gray, complete in folder for only $1.00. I don't think this offer will remain for long, so take advantage of it as soon as you can . . . this week sure. Stefan's studio is located [illegible] St. John St.

SAY, folks . . . When doing your spring housecleaning, don't forget that Slagle-Johnson Lumber Company is selling a paint called "Wallhide"—that you can put on your walls in the morning and move back into your room in the afternoon. It dries almost instantly . . . without any trouble, fuss or bother of inconvenience. It's as simple as moving out to have the floors scrubbed. Yes, sir, a one day's service is what this "Pittsburgh product" offers in "Wallhide." Try it next time. Available in any shade to carry out your color scheme. Call 295 for a salesman. They'll deliver.

I DROVE by the Monroe Milk Station . . . honked my horn and a jolly little fellow was immediately at my service . . . Of course, my business was "an Ice Cream Cone" . . . Not an ordinary one, but one of the new "Twin" cones for 5c. . . . This Sweet Cream . . . "Blue Ribbon" Ice Cream (Monroe's newest) is wonderful . . . The flavor, the texture, the taste . . . it's all different. Drive by there and try some of this ice cream. You can order for your Easter dinner today, 15c a pint, 25c a quart, from the factory. Phone 670 or order from your drug store. But, be sure to ask for Blue Ribbon Sweet Cream.

GIRLS, Girls! . . . You should see the perfectly beautiful modernistic streamline living room suite that I purchased at Dixie Bedding & Furniture Co., yesterday. Oh! you would adore it, I know . . . It is the newest type of furniture and believe me, at a price that would astonish you. I have heard that being out of the high rent district enables them to sell furniture so reasonable. How about a new mattress for your beds this summer, or the old ones made over. Maybe your chairs covered, etc. This institution offers a service of almost every kind for the homemaker. . . . Drive out there . . . See for yourself the beautiful furniture at the low prices.

See you next week.

Sincerely,
Irene.

Monroe Club Women Attend Panel Meeting

Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, chairman of the panel group of the state club women's institute held in Baton Rouge last week, introduced the Monroe members of the group, Mrs. W. M. Harper, Mrs. C. C. Colvert, Mrs. A. R. Holloway, Mrs. H. H. Douglas, Mrs. Herbert Breard and Mrs. Frederick Williamson.

Mrs. Idabel Giefers, state parliamentarian of New Orleans conducted a drill which covered the procedure of a well ordered club meeting. The New Orleans group was most interesting in this original comedy skit with its subtle meaning. Mrs. Giefers introduced the group: Mrs. Jesse P. Wilkinson, Mrs. W. D. Clayton, Mrs. W. H. Ennis, Mrs. John Rogan, Mrs. Charles LaBorde, and Miss D. Scharfenstein.

Contests of the federation were given in a scholarly fashion by Mrs. Patrick J. White, poetry; Mrs. D. H. Christman, art; Miss Catherine Winters, drama; Mrs. Turner K. Butler, insurance; Mrs. Arthur Shuey; short story writing; Mrs. Addison Thompson, publicity scrap book; Miss Essie Culver, reading. Miss Culver complimented the club women with reading lists, which afford splendid suggestions for program building with the request that they obtain the books from local libraries as far as possible.

Dr. Stopher, dean of the school of music of L. S. U. presented beautiful copies of the song, "Song of Louisiana," written by his wife, Vashti R. Stopher. This song is becoming increasingly popular as a club song of the state. It was sung by the assembly, led by students of the school of music.

Mrs. Joseph K. Walker, state director of L. F. W. C., Shreveport, gave a forceful address on the importance of the forthcoming triennial meeting of the general federation which will take place in Detroit in early June. A number of Louisiana women plan to attend.

Mrs. S. W. Plauche of Lake Charles inspired her audience to great community projects as she related the accomplishments of her club and its individual members.

Following the address of welcome which was given by President James M. Smith of the university, a measure was passed to make the club institute an annual affair. It is the general consensus of opinion that the club institute affords the most desirable means of informing club women of new methods, and accomplishing the constructive work of the federation.

A series of articles, now running in the Independent Woman, official magazine of the organization, describes the ownership survey made by the Federation among their own members and reveals how 5,000 women successfuly run their own businesses. There are 395 businesses and professions represented in the membership, which is well over 55,000 grouped in 1,400 clubs.

Interesting Events

The first social event of outstanding interest following the Lenten season was the dancing party last night at Lakeside Country club. Other events of equal interest are scheduled for this week with the presentation of Kay Powell in concert Tuesday night under the auspices of the Musical Coterie of paramount importance. Next Saturday night society will dance at Lakeside Courtry club as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Swift and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Surguine with Mr. and Mrs. Freneau Surguine, the guests of honor.

The month of May will be ushered in with a Little Theater major production, "Hay Fever," under the direction of Mrs. Blanche Oliver. Claiming the spotlight later in May will be the sweet girl graduates and that gallant company of young men who will leave high school days behind them forever. The entire month of May will be crowded with charming pre-graduation affairs.

All roads radiating from Monroe will be filled early in May with Business and Professional women from every section of the state, hurrying to the state convention in this city where a royal welcome awaits them.

A breakfast party, a banquet, a barbecue and a boating party on the Ouachita are just a few of the social pleasures planned for this delightful company of women who put aside the routine work of the year and enjoy a holiday in the midsts of congenial friends and fellow club members.

Mrs. E. L. Huber of Mays Landing, New Jersey, is a charming visitor in the city, guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Maroney.

Presentation Of A Noted Mezzo Soprano In Concert Engages Interest Of Public

Miss Kay Powell, mezzo-soprano of Chicago, will be presented in concert at the city school auditorium Tuesday night, April the twenty-third, under the auspices of the Musical coterie of this city.

Miss Powell's glowing personality was seen to splendid advantage in her rendition of a group of Cajun songs written and set to music by Mrs. Blanche Oliver and presented as a prologue to the recent Little Theater production, "The Cajun."

The accompanist, Miss Florence Ziegler, who is well known and greatly beloved by Monroe audiences, will play four groups of piano solos as part of the program, Tuesday night.

Appropriate costumes for each of the groups of songs will increase the effectiveness of Miss Powell's selections. For her Russian group, she will wear a striking peasant costume with gay and voluminous skirt and large flowing sleeves. In the Alice in Wonderland group, Miss Powell appears as the original Alice. In the "Cajun" group, an Evangeline costume is worn.

The last group, "Night and Day," for which Miss Powell wears a black evening gown, is in complete contrast to the rest of the program. Many people from Monroe and vicinity expect to avail themselves of the opportunity to hear this delightful mezzo-soprano singer, and Miss Ziegler, whose selections have been chosen to be in complete harmony and accord with the songs that follow.

The program:

Humoresque (Rachmanioff), Miss Ziegler.

Russian Moods in Song—Little Mother, Do Not Scold Me, folk song; Annie, the Miller's Daughter, folk song; Ah, Twine No Blossoms (Glier); Vanka 'n' Tanka, folk song; The Sleigh (Kount)—Miss Powell.

Retirement Of Mrs. Mailhes As State P.-T. A. President Regretted Throughout State

The retirement of Mrs. L. A. Mailhes of Shreveport as state president of the Louisiana Parent-Teacher association is regretted by every member of every association throughout the length and breadth of the state. The following article appearing in the Shreveport Times expresses fully the sentiment of the Monroe P.-T. A.:

"Mrs. Mailhes' retirement will climax a presidential career outstanding for progress in all departments of the organization she had headed during the past three years. Her achievements are all the more spectacular in view of the fact that it was her responsibility to weather the worst financial depression the world has ever known. Tribute to her leadership is evident in a membership increase from 9,000 to 17,000, with 30 new units added to the state body, and extension of the P.-T. A. activities over every section of Louisiana. Further evidence is found in two important legislative victories affecting child welfare in the state. These were the passing of the Hamiter bill to segregate public school funds in the state treasury and the amendment to the act governing marriageable ages in Louisiana, which resulted in the legal age for males being raised from the former 14 years, to 18; and that of females to 16, from a former 12. Both pieces of legislation were actively sponsored by the Louisiana Parent-Teacher association under Mrs. Mailhes' direction.

"The outgoing executive also placed the state congress on a sound financial basis by raising state and national dues for local units, from 10 cents to 20 cents, the increase paid by the total membership and not by the individual members. As a direct result, the state budget has been enlarged to four times its former status, with a more liberal allotment for each department in order to facilitate the work in all.

"The elevation of dues, in practically all cases where this has been done, is usually followed by a sharp decline in membership totals, according to tabulations recorded by the National Congress. The Louisiana association is one of the few exceptions, a subject for surprise and congratulation on the part of the parent body.

"Mrs. Mailhes has been signally honored on numerous occasions by the national organization, which has given Louisiana representation on national programs and planning boards, and placed this state's executive as leader of a national publicity conference and as one of five state presidents on a committee for national goals during conventions of the National congress the past three years.

"The Louisiana Congress, during Mrs Mailhes' term has had the privilege and benefit of personal contact with notable officers and chairmen of the National Congress, who have conducted conferences and classes in leadership along many prominent lines of the work and proved valuable assistance to district and local chairmen.

"The state president also toured the state twice annually, and gave personal counsel and help to all units of every district.

"Prior to her occupancy of the highest office in the state organization, Mrs. Mailhes served for more than 12 years in local, council and district units, and in the state association as chairman of publicity and vice-president. She began her P.-T. A. activities as a member of the Creswell unit, when the mammoth association, which has long enjoyed the distinction of the largest in the city and state and one of the largest in the National Congress, numbered only 80 members and was just affiliating with the state and national groups. She was identified with Creswell for five years. She organized St. John's P.-T. A., served in the official personnel of South Highlands, and was recording secretary of the first Shreveport council, of which Mrs. Karl McCoy was president.

"Mrs. Mailhes has never lost touch with the local units over the state and she is beloved by members of all, who have never found her lacking in inspiration and guidance, sound counsel and sympathetic insight, no matter how perplexing their problems nor how discouraging their outlook.

"Her career as state executive has been a brilliant one, notable for many worthy achievements for the general welfare of the organization whose interests she has always served loyally and well."

A series of articles, now running in the Independent Woman, official magazine of the organization, describes the ownership survey made by the Federation among their own members and reveals how 5,000 women successfuly run their own businesses. There are 395 businesses and professions represented in the membership, which is well over 55,000 grouped in 1,400 clubs.

Interesting Events

The first social event of outstanding interest following the Lenten season was the dancing party last night at Lakeside Country club. Other events of equal interest are scheduled for this week with the presentation of Kay Powell in concert Tuesday night under the auspices of the Musical Coterie of paramount importance. Next Saturday night society will dance at Lakeside Country club as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Swift and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Surguine with Mr. and Mrs. Freneau Surguine, the guests of honor.

The month of May will be ushered in with a Little Theater major production, "Hay Fever," under the direction of Mrs. Blanche Oliver. Claiming the spotlight later in May will be the sweet girl graduates and that gallant company of young men who will leave high school days behind them forever. The entire month of May will be crowded with charming pre-graduation affairs.

All roads radiating from Monroe will be filled early in May with Business and Professional women from every section of the state, hurrying to the state convention in this city where a royal welcome awaits them.

A breakfast party, a banquet, a barbecue and a boating party on the Ouachita are just a few of the social pleasures planned for this delightful company of women who put aside the routine work of the year and enjoy a holiday in the midsts of congenial friends and fellow club members.

Mrs. E. L. Huber of Mays Landing, New Jersey, is a charming visitor in the city, guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Maroney.

Presentation Of A Noted Mezzo Soprano In Concert Engages Interest Of Public

Miss Kay Powell, mezzo-soprano of Chicago, will be presented in concert at the city school auditorium Tuesday night, April the twenty-third, under the auspices of the Musical coterie of this city.

Miss Powell's glowing personality was seen to splendid advantage in her rendition of a group of Cajun songs written and set to music by Mrs. Blanche Oliver and presented as a prologue to the recent Little Theater production, "The Cajun."

The accompanist, Miss Florence Ziegler, who is well known and greatly beloved by Monroe audiences, will play four groups of piano solos as part of the program, Tuesday night.

Appropriate costumes for each of the groups of songs will increase the effectiveness of Miss Powell's selections. For her Russian group, she will wear a striking peasant costume with gay and voluminous skirt and large flowing sleeves. In the Alice in Wonderland group, Miss Powell appears as the original Alice. In the "Cajun" group, an Evangeline costume is worn.

The last group, "Night and Day," for which Miss Powell wears a black evening gown, is in complete contrast to the rest of the program. Many people from Monroe and vicinity expect to avail themselves of the opportunity to hear this delightful mezzo-soprano singer, and Miss Ziegler, whose selections have been chosen to be in complete harmony and accord with the songs that follow.

The program:

Humoresque (Rachmanioff), Miss Ziegler.

Russian Moods in Song—Little Mother, Do Not Scold Me, folk song; Annie, the Miller's Daughter, folk song; Ah, Twine No Blossoms (Glier); Vanka 'n' Tanka, folk song; The Sleigh (Kount)—Miss Powell.

EASTER GREETINGS!

DID you think to buy that new Easter outfit yesterday? . . . I never saw such a selection as the Monroe shops had on display. No doubt many of the shops will have some most interesting sales this next week. Read your newspaper every day. . . . Watch for the spring bargains that are sure to be offered.

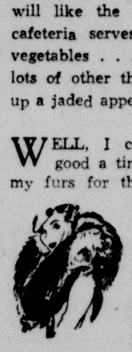
I STARTED out bright and early yesterday morning, first to Jitney Jungle's where I stocked my pantry of all sorts of good things to eat. You know, there is one feature I adore about this company—if you can't find a parking place at one store, there is always another Jitney Jungle . . . 8 stores in all. What a convenience! Say, housewives, if you don't happen to see what you want in one of their stores, go to the No. 10 store, located at the corner of Stubbs and Fourth. This is a super-store . . . with practically every kind of food that is possible to obtain, including a first class bakery.

WELL, with grocery buying over, I had to go to Eunice Lee Beauty Shop, located over Morgan & Lindsey's, to get my new Easter wave. For, after all, what would my new hat look like without a proper hair style? . . .You know, these new "fang-dangle" hats call for unusual hair dresses. I found just the beauticians that could do the "hair-dress" tricks at Eunice Lee Beauty Shop and believe me, you really get quality work in this shop. Don't you just adore patronizing a shop that gives you a dollar's worth for a dollar. . . Phone 2070. . . . Investigate the work in this shop!

WELL, Easter not only calls for a new dress, hat and shoes, but it surely does demand a clean, polished car. I just "naturally" drove to "707" Tire Service where those "master cleaners" did a sure-enough "jam-up" washing, greasing and polishing job. So, this morning, I will attend church service perfectly groomed, even to my automobile. Call 707 . . . you'll be delighted with the excellent work they do. Say, do you need tires? . . . You can buy those good "Goodyears" at 707 on easy payment plan. . . . Fit your car out for summer. . . . Do it soon and be ready for the call of the road.

WHILE I was having my automobile washed, I had my lunch at Hemphill's Cafeteria. Have you tried those new dishes down there? . . . Oh! . . . that delicious fresh strawberry pie! . . . Never tasted anything like it. They tell me it is one of their own recipes that no one else has duplicated. Try it next time you eat there. . . . And, say, men, you will like the tender steaks this cafeteria serves. . . Fresh green vegetables . . . fresh salads and lots of other things that will pep up a jaded appetite.

WELL, I considered now as good a time as any to store my furs for the summer season. . . . So, as I have done for the past three summers, I stored them at the Monroe Steam Laundry. You know, they clean your garments before they are stored, which assures you that no germs remain in your clothes or no germs are gathered from other garments because they are all cleaned. I have always found this service so satisfactory and safe. . . . I rather like the idea of trading at home, don't you? The Monroe Steam Laundry offers you the same dependable moth-free storage that you would pay for out of Monroe. Why don't you send your fur coat to them this summer? I am certain you will be pleased. Phone 102 and 103. Let them tell you about their large storage vaults.

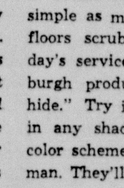


OH! by the way . . . Stefan, the Master of Portraits has established a business in Monroe, 108 St. John St. I called on this studio, just because I had heard so much of Stefan . . . I found masterpieces . . . and saw letters of thanks from the White House, mayors, priests, chefs, etc., from all parts of the land. If you love really fine art . . . you will be interested in Stefan's work. There is an opening special on this week . . . a regular $5.00 photograph finished in French gray, complete in folder for only $1.00. I don't think this offer will remain for long, so take advantage of it as soon as you can . . . this week sure. Stefan's Studio is located 108 St. John St.

SAY, folks . . . When doing your spring housecleaning, don't forget that Slagle-Johnson Lumber Company is selling a paint called "Wallhide"—that you can put on your walls in the morning and move back into your room in the afternoon. It dries almost instantly . . . without any trouble, fuss or bother of inconvenience. It's as simple as moving out to have the floors scrubbed. Yes, sir, a one day's service is what this "Pittsburgh product" offers in "Wallhide." Try it next time. Available in any shade to carry out your color scheme. Call 295 for a salesman. They'll deliver.

I DROVE by the Monroe Milk Station . . . honked my horn and a jolly little fellow was immediately at my service . . . Of course, my business was "an Ice Cream Cone" . . . Not an ordinary one, but one of the new "Twin" cones for 5c. . . . This Sweet Cream . . . "Blue Ribbon" Ice Cream (Monroe's newest) is wonderful . . . The flavor, the texture, the taste . . . it's all different. Drive by there and try some of this ice cream. You can order for your Easter dinner today, 15c a pint, 25c a quart, from the factory. Phone 670 or order from your drug store. But, be sure to ask for Blue Ribbon Sweet Cream.

GIRLS, Girls! . . . You should see the perfectly beautiful modernistic streamline living room suite that I purchased at Dixie Bedding & Furniture Co., yesterday. Oh! you would adore it, I know . . . It is the newest type of furniture and believe me, at a price that would astonish you. I have heard that being out of the high rent district enables them to sell furniture so reasonable. How about a new mattress for your beds this summer, or the old ones made over. Maybe your chairs covered, etc. This institution offers a service of almost every kind for the homemaker. . . . Drive out there . . . See for yourself the beautiful furniture at the low prices.



See you next week.

Sincerely,
Irene.

Question Of Married Women Teaching In Public Schools Answered By Noted Educator

Every American father and mother, school teacher and school child, should stand up and cheer this statement made recently by Mrs. Geline MacDonald Bowman, president of the National Federation of Women's clubs, according to Helen Welshimer, feature writer. She says:

"Mrs. Bowman made her classic assertion in the circuit court of Virginia, where she defended the right of two southern women to continue as teachers. The two women had been dismissed by the county school board because they had husbands. The husbands had no incomes. Just the same, a married woman is a married woman, the school board argued, and it wasn't right for her to have a husband and a check, also.

"The board did not owe these women positions because of their financial needs, she replied, but it did have a moral obligation to them as capable, successful teachers. And the court agreed.

"Children are entitled to the instruction and guidance from the finest men and women in the teaching field. Schools exist for boys and girls, not for school boards and teachers and contractors and architects. If marriage so interferes with a woman's interest in the schoolroom that she becomes inefficient, that is another matter. Incompetence and marriage are not necessarily related.

"Certainly if any vocation calls for a background based on richness of experience, depth of human understanding, long suffering, tolerance, patience and broad-mindedness, that profession is teaching. There are none so foolish as to argue that the average unmarried woman has attained the same maturity of development as the average married woman.

"There are woman, unwed, who instinctively are born to be better teachers than some women with 12 children could ever be. But the average woman becomes a better teacher when she has entered into full understanding of a husband, a home, and family problems. Women with children of their own look at the problems of other women's children with eyes that are more comprehending, sympathy that is quickened, patience that is tempered with understanding.

"Time after time school superintendents have been heard to say that if they, instead of the school boards, controlled the hiring of teachers, only married women would be on their payrolls. The pedagogues aren't making an idle assertion. They have watched their teachers, married and unmarried, and seen their influence on children's lives.

"Most married women don't want to teach! Many of the single women who earn a living must choose the schoolroom, you are saying. Certainly! And it is right and wise. But granting that married women teach well, when they are able to do so—especially when they need to do so—it is unfair to take them from the schoolroom."

Institute Is A Great Success In Baton Rouge

A club institute was defined at the first state-wide meeting of its kind held in Baton Rouge, April 12 and 13, as a "school of techniques, giving instruction in a specific way." It aims to render more effective the work of women's clubs, to rightly direct their energies that they will not waste their time and the time of others. While the entire program of a club institute could not be covered at the one meeting, the institute just closed was in the truest sense, a school of technique and instruction—given in a specific way.

Mr. Fred Williamson, editor of the Monroe News-Star and Morning World, gave instructions in effective publicity methods. He explained that the newest and best method in reporting was to give the entire story in the first paragraph, then follow with related facts. To give the reading public the things which the public is interested in, rather than just the club group is vital. The weakness of club reports as pointed to by Mr. Williamson was that news is not recognized. Often clubs do worthwhile things which the public would be interested in, are not reported, while the non-essentials are repeatedly given, and a stereotyped form of reporting followed as a matter of course. Club women welcomed the instructions of Mr. Williamson and were eager to receive examples of good and bad reporting which he had prepared in printed form as a compliment to the club institute.

The panel on building constructive programs proved to be one of the most interesting features of the institute. A splendid demonstration of the panel method was presented, and valuable ideas on program building were given. There is a decided trend away from the time-honored custom of reading papers f. club programs. The discussion is much preferred. It gives opportunity to more women to contribute to the program, encourages the timid member, and is an incentive to the entire group to become informed on the topics. The varied program of unrelated topics soon becomes "static." Another fact revealed by the panel was that club women do not like to be assigned similar topics repeatedly even though they may have unusual qualifications along certain lines.

Enpassant

Mrs. Elizabeth Oglesby Darnell, to the regret of her many friends, underwent an appendectomy the first of the week at St. Francis sanitarium. Her parents, Judge and Mrs. Oglesby of Winnfield, are at her bedside and will remain guests in the O. M. Grisham home until the first of the week.

Mrs. Louis Hullum, state president of the Louisiana Federation of Music Clubs, left last night, accompanied by Mrs. Carruth Jones of Baton Rouge, member of the national board, for the national convention in Philadelphia. They will stop en route in Wilmington, Delaware, to attend the luncheon given by the Deleware Federation.

Miss Happy Tidwell, student at L. S. U., is spending her Easter vacation at Pass Christian, Miss., as a member of a house party arranged by a class mate.

Mr. and Mrs. William Quiggles returned Friday from a two weeks' visit in Houston, Texas. Mrs. Quiggles enjoyed a plane trip to Galveston where she was delightfully entertained by friends. Mr. and Mrs. Quiggles are spending Easter Sunday with relatives in Shreveport.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Reynolds and children have returned from Houston where they were summoned by the illness and death of Mrs. Reynolds' mother. Mrs. Reynolds has the sincere sympathy of friends in the loss of her mother.

Mrs. F. J. Brandle of St. Louis, Mo., a charming guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. V. S. Garnett, was joined by Mr. Brandle who will spend the week-end in the Garnett home.

Mrs. T. J. McLeod, of New Orleans, is the Easter guest of her mother, Mrs. Frank Edney and her brother, Frank Edney, Jr.

Mrs. Edney has enjoyed the greater part of the winter season with her daughter in New Orleans.

Entertainment of the Missouri Pacific Woman's club of El Dorado by the local club, scheduled for next Friday, has been indefinitely postponed. The regular meeting will take place on Friday as usual.

Mrs. W. R. Kennedy of Memphis, Tenn., is enjoying a visit in the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. A. Walker and Mr. Walker on McKinley avenue.

Miss Laura Grace Kendall, student at Ursuline convent, New Orleans, is spending the spring vacation with her mother, Mrs. E. G. Calvert.

Miss Hoppie Gimbel, who flew from her home in New York City to visit friends in New Orleans, is the week-end guest of Miss Suzonne Hirsch in the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. D. I. Hirsch. Other week-end guests in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Hirsch and Mr. and Mrs. Abe Arent are: Messers Ansell Caine, Jr., and Justin Godcheaux and Dr. Edwin Solomon of New Orleans. Several social affairs of an informal nature have been arranged for their entertainment.

SOCIAL BUTTERFLIES EMERGE FROM THEIR WINTER COCOONS

(Dresses from Lord & Taylor, New York)

Like night-blooming butterflies, spring dance frocks are all airy-fairy loveliness. The gals have shed their heavy, clinging gowns of the winter like old cocoons and emerged in will-o'-the-wispish chiffon, perky taffeta and crisp point d'esprit, all fashioned to express gayety, freedom and floating grace.

Women's Clubs Of The State To Meet Next Week

Miss Lillie May Long, president of the Fifth District Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs, announces the annual spring meeting will take place in Ferriday, Saturday, April the twenty-seventh, the sessions to be held in the auditorium of the Ferriday high school, with the Vidalia Garden club and the Ferriday Woman's club as joint hostesses.

The south central group of states, of which Miss Long is secretary-treasurer, has been asked by the General Federation of Women's Clubs to make a study of the Bankhead cotton control act during the next club year, and, in view of this fact, Mr. Norris C. Williamson of Lake Providence, president of the American Cotton Cooperative association, will address the meeting on the Bankhead cotton control act.

Mrs. R. H. Agate, Lafayette, state president, will be present and will bring greetings from the State Federation. Mrs. J. K. Walker, Shreveport, General Federation director, and Mrs. Edward Pilsbury, General Federation director-elect, will bring a message from the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Other distinguished guests will be Mrs. W. M. Knott, Many, state chairman of membership; Mrs. Addison Thompson, Ruston, state chairman of press and publicity; Mrs. C. E. Hester, second vice-president of the State Federation, and Mrs. Richard K. Boney, Tallulah, past state president of the Federation.

At this meeting two new clubs will be welcomed into the district and State Federation, the Mothers' club of Delhi, with a membership of forty-five, and the Woman's Departmental club of Oak Grove, with a membership of fifty.

Mrs. Virginia Thurman Cole whose paintings are creating quite a furor in this city was the guest speaker at a meeting of the Woman's Department club of Shreveport last week. The Shreveport Times had the following to say:

Mrs. Virginia Thurman Cole gave a very interesting and informative lecture to the large audience at the club rooms of the Woman's Department club, the key note of which was the proper approach to pictures and art in general—with an open mind. She spoke on the fundamental principles of composition, color and technique and the basic qualities necessary for art appreciation and criticism.

Following the lecture Mrs. Cole approached each painting in a short gallery talk; explaining composition, color, unity, technique and harmony to be found in each. Her listeners were delighted with her sympathetic appreciation and clear understanding of each picture.

At the close of the afternoon study the ladies gathered in the dining room for tea. Mrs. W. K. Henderson, Sr., and Mrs. John McCullough presided at a lovely tea table centered with pink radiance roses and bearing tall pink tapers to match.

Clarks

Jelly making was the subject of the lesson taught by Miss Lola Caldwell, parish demonstrator, at the monthly meeting of the Clarks Demonstration club, held in the home of Mrs. H. O. Cooksey. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. George Streetman, president, and Mrs. R. D. White, secretary. It was announced that Mrs. G. N. Harrison would donate a gas stove for the new canning club building. Mrs. W. W. Beasley invited the club members to hold their May meeting at her home. A social hour followed the business session, during which Mrs. Cooksey assisted by her daughter, Miss Dora Cooksey, served refreshments to the following guests: Miss Lola Caldwell, Mrs. S. G. Hines, Mrs. F. A. Minard, Mrs. E. Hindman, Mrs. J. Richman, Mrs. George Streetman, Mrs. M. D. Ballard, Mrs. J. B. Wade, Mrs. W. P. Banks, Mrs. W. A. Smith, Mrs. Clyde Bradford, Mrs. E. Meeks, Mrs. C. W. Wilson, Mrs. J. W. McDonald, Mrs. John Gunter, Mrs. W. E. Megison, Mrs. E. T. Hobson, Mrs. Clyde Stringer, Miss Fannie Beam, Mrs. R. D. White, Mrs. Ira Johnson, Mrs. M. G. Simmons and Mrs. W. W. Beasley.

A vase was presented to Miss Louise Buffington, winner of high score at the Bridgette club, entertained by Miss Mildred Bird on Thursday evening. Following the contract games, a hot tamale loaf was served at the tables. Those present were Miss Sentelle Johns, Miss Dora Cooksey, Miss Marie Minard, Miss Helen Chapman, Mrs. P. C. Yonge, Miss Doyne Buffington, Miss Louise Buffington and Miss Mildred Bird.

More than sixty members and guests of the Ladies' Woodmen Circle, Holly No. 110, attended an initiation of five candidates on Tuesday evening. Prominent among the guests were: Mrs. Elmiro D. Vaeth of New Orleans, state grand manager; Mrs. Joseph Dinnat of Alexandria, supreme representative, and Mrs. Schmidt, guardian of Magnolia Grove No. 112 of Alexandria. Mrs. Dinnat was accompanied by her drill team of Alexandria, which recently won first place over state teams. Guests from Urania included: Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Cupples, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Ramsey, Mrs. Willbanks, Mrs. Streetman and others. During the social hour refreshments were served by Mrs. Laura Patton, Mrs. Nancy Patton, Mrs. Lucy Patton, Mrs. Frankie Kinney, Mrs. Celeto Kraft and Mrs. Lottie Futch of the Clarks lodge.

A hay ride and wiener roast was enjoyed by the Senior B. Y. P. U. members on Tuesday evening. The wiener roast was held at Castor Springs, a delightful picnic grounds near Olla. The party included: Mrs. Charles Riser, Miss Ethel Riser, Miss Mildred Roy, Miss Lottie Parker, Miss Beatrice Corbin, Miss Opal Simmons, Miss Audrey Smith, Miss Helen Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Denver Moore, Oscar Chapman, Damon Bradford, Hartford Jackson, C. L. Perkins, Wilbur Kraft and Morris Andrews.

C. C. Sheppard, president of the National Lumber Manufacturers association, has received an invitation from WLS, Prairie Farmer radio station, in Chicago, to appear as guest speaker on their Dinnerbell program at noon on April 24.

The Yellow river, China, went on a rampage in 1886, flooding 20,000 square miles and claiming 2,000,000 lives.

Question Of Married Women Teaching In Public Schools Answered By Noted Educator

Every American father and mother, school teacher and school child, should stand up and cheer this statement made recently by Mrs. Geline MacDonald Bowman, president of the National Federation of Women's clubs, according to Helen Welshimer, feature writer. She says:

"Mrs. Bowman made her classic assertion in the circuit court of Virginia, where she defended the right of two southern women to continue as teachers. The two women had been dismissed by the county school board because they had husbands. The husbands had no incomes. Just the same, a married woman is a married woman, the school board argued, and it wasn't right for her to have a husband and a check, also.

"The board did not owe these women positions because of their financial needs, she replied, but it did have a moral obligation to them as capable, successful teachers. And the court agreed.

"Children are entitled to the instruction and guidance from the finest men and women in the teaching field. Schools exist for boys and girls, not for school boards and teachers and contractors and architects. If marriage so interferes with a woman's interest in the schoolroom that she becomes inefficient, that is another matter. Incompetence and marriage are not necessarily related.

"Certainly if any vocation calls for a background based on richness of experience, depth of human understanding, long suffering, tolerance, patience and broad-mindedness, that profession is teaching. There are none so foolish as to argue that the average unmarried woman has attained the same maturity of development as the average married woman.

"There are woman, unwed, who instinctively are born to be better teachers than some women with 12 children could ever be. But the average woman becomes a better teacher when she has entered into full understanding of a husband, a home, and family problems. Women with children of their own look at the problems of other women's children with eyes that are more comprehending, sympathy that is quickened, patience that is tempered with understanding.

"Time after time school superintendents have been heard to say that if they, instead of the school boards, controlled the hiring of teachers, only married women would be on their payrolls. The pedagogues aren't making an idle assertion. They have watched their teachers, married and unmarried, and seen their influence on children's lives.

"Most married women don't want to teach! Many of the single women who earn a living must choose the schoolroom, you are saying. Certainly! And it is right and wise. But granting that married women teach well, when they are able to do so—especially when they need to do so—it is unfair to take them from the schoolroom."

Institute Is A Great Success In Baton Rouge

A club institute was defined at the first state-wide meeting of its kind held in Baton Rouge, April 12 and 13, as a "school of techniques, giving instruction in a specific way." It aims to render more effective the work of women's clubs, to rightly direct their energies that they will not waste their time and the time of others. While the entire program of a club institute could not be covered at the one meeting, the institute just closed was in the truest sense, a school of technique and instruction—given in a specific way.

Mr. Fred Williamson, editor of the Monroe News-Star and Morning World, gave instructions in effective publicity methods. He explained that the newest and best method in reporting was to give the entire story in the first paragraph, then follow with related facts. To give the reading public the things which the public is interested in, rather than just the club group is vital. The weakness of club reports as pointed to by Mr. Williamson was that news is not recognized. Often clubs do worthwhile things which the public would be interested in, are not reported, while the non-essentials are repeatedly given, and a stereotyped form of reporting followed as a matter of course. Club women welcomed the instructions of Mr. Williamson and were eager to receive examples of good and bad reporting which he had prepared in printed form as a compliment to the club institute.

The panel on building constructive programs proved to be one of the most interesting features of the institute. A splendid demonstration of the panel method was presented, and valuable ideas on program building were given. There is a decided trend away from the time-honored custom of reading papers f. club programs. The discussion is much preferred. It gives opportunity to more women to contribute to the program, encourages the timid member, and is an incentive to the entire group to become informed on the topics. The varied program of unrelated topics soon becomes "static." Another fact revealed by the panel was that club women do not like to be assigned similar topics repeatedly even though they may have unusual qualifications along certain lines.

Mrs. Elizabeth Oglesby Darnell, to the regret of her many friends, underwent an appendectomy the first of the week at St. Francis sanitarium. Her parents, Judge and Mrs. Oglesby of Winnfield, are at her bedside and will remain guests in the O. M. Grisham home until the first of the week.

Mrs. Louis Hullum, state president of the Louisiana Federation of Music Clubs, left last night, accompanied by Mrs. Carruth Jones of Baton Rouge, member of the national board, for the national convention in Philadelphia. They will stop en route in Wilmington, Delaware, to attend the luncheon given by the Deleware Federation.

Miss Happy Tidwell, student at L. S. U., is spending her Easter vacation at Pass Christian, Miss., as a member of a house party arranged by a class mate.

Mr. and Mrs. William Quiggles returned Friday from a two weeks' visit in Houston, Texas. Mrs. Quiggles enjoyed a plane trip to Galveston where she was delightfully entertained by friends. Mr. and Mrs. Quiggles are spending Easter Sunday with relatives in Shreveport.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Reynolds and children have returned from Houston where they were summoned by the illness and death of Mrs. Reynolds' mother, Mrs. Reynolds has the sincere sympathy of friends in the loss of her mother.

Mrs. F. J. Brandle of St. Louis, Mo., a charming guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. V. S. Garnett, was joined by Mr. Brandle who will spend the week-end in the Garnett home.

Mrs. T. J. McLeod, of New Orleans, is the Easter guest of her mother, Mrs. Frank Edney and her brother, Frank Edney, Jr.

Mrs. Edney has enjoyed the greater part of the winter season with her daughter in New Orleans.

Entertainment of the Missouri Pacific Woman's club of El Dorado by the local club, scheduled for next Friday, has been indefinitely postponed. The regular meeting will take place on Friday as usual.

Mrs. W. R. Kennedy of Memphis, Tenn., is enjoying a visit in the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. A. Walker and Mr. Walker on McKinley avenue.

Miss Laura Grace Kendall, student at Ursuline convent, New Orleans, is spending the spring vacation with her mother, Mrs. E. G. Calvert.

Miss Hoppie Gimbel, who flew from her home in New York City to visit friends in New Orleans, is the weekend guest of Miss Suzonne Hirsch in the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. D. I. Hirsch. Other week-end guests in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Hirsch and Mr. and Mrs. Abe Arent are: Messers Ansell Caine, Jr., and Justin Godcheaux and Dr. Edwin Solomon of New Orleans. Several social affairs of an informal nature have been arranged for their entertainment.

SOCIAL BUTTERFLIES EMERGE FROM THEIR WINTER COCOONS

(Dresses from Lord & Taylor, New York)

Like night-blooming butterflies, spring dance frocks are all airy-fairy loveliness. The gals have shed their heavy, clinging gowns of the winter like old cocoons and emerged in will-o'-the-wispish chiffon, perky taffeta and crisp point d'esprit, all fashioned to express gayety, freedom and floating grace.

Women's Clubs Of The State To Meet Next Week

Miss Lillie May Long, president of the Fifth District Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs, announces the annual spring meeting will take place in Ferriday, Saturday, April the twenty-seventh, the sessions to be held in the auditorium of the Ferriday high school, with the Vidalia Garden club and the Ferriday Woman's club as joint hostesses.

The south central group of states, of which Miss Long is secretary-treasurer, has been asked by the General Federation of Women's Clubs to make a study of the Bankhead cotton control act during the next club year, and, in view of this fact, Mr. Norris C. Williamson of Lake Providence, president of the American Cotton Cooperative association, will address the meeting on the Bankhead cotton control act.

Mrs. R. H. Agate, Lafayette, state president, will be present and will bring greetings from the State Federation. Mrs. J. K. Walker, Shreveport, General Federation director, and Mrs. Edward Pilsbury, General Federation director-elect, will bring a message from the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Other distinguished guests will be Mrs. W. M. Knott, Many, state chairman of membership; Mrs. Addison Thompson, Ruston, state chairman of press and publicity; Mrs. C. E. Hester, second vice-president of the State Federation, and Mrs. Richard K. Boney, Tallulah, past state president of the Federation.

At this meeting two new clubs will be welcomed into the district and State Federation, the Mothers' club of Delhi, with a membership of forty-five, and the Woman's Departmental club of Oak Grove, with a membership of fifty.

Mrs. Virginia Thurman Cole whose paintings are creating quite a furor in this city was the guest speaker at a meeting of the Woman's Department club of Shreveport last week. The Shreveport Times had the following to say:

Mrs. Virginia Thurman Cole gave a very interesting and informative lecture to the large audience at the club rooms of the Woman's Department club, the key note of which was the proper approach to pictures and art in general—with an open mind. She spoke on the fundamental principles of composition, color and technique and the basic qualities necessary for art appreciation and criticism.

Following the lecture Mrs. Cole approached each painting in a short gallery talk; explaining composition, color, unity, technique and harmony to be found in each. Her listeners were delighted with her sympathetic appreciation and clear understanding of each picture.

At the close of the afternoon study the ladies gathered in the dining room for tea. Mrs. W. K. Henderson, Sr., and Mrs. John McCullough presided at a lovely tea table centered with pink radiance roses and bearing tall pink tapers to match.

Clarks

Jelly making was the subject of the lesson taught by Miss Lola Caldwell, parish demonstrator, at the monthly meeting of the Clarks Demonstration club, held in the home of Mrs. H. O. Cooksey. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. George Streetman, president, and Mrs. R. D. White, secretary. It was announced that Mrs. G. N. Harrison would donate a gas stove for the new canning club building. Mrs. W. W. Beasley invited the club members to hold their May meeting at her home. A social hour followed the business session, during which Mrs. Cooksey assisted by her daughter, Miss Dora Cooksey, served refreshments to the following guests: Miss Lola Caldwell, Mrs. S. G. Hines, Mrs. F. A. Minard, Mrs. E. Hindman, Mrs. J. Richman, Mrs. George Streetman, Mrs. M. D. Ballard, Mrs. J. B. Wade, Mrs. W. P. Banks, Mrs. W. A. Smith, Mrs. Clyde Bradford, Mrs. E. Meeks, Mrs. C. W. Wilson, Mrs. J. W. McDonald, Mrs. John Gunter, Mrs. W. E. Megison, Mrs. E. T. Hobson, Mrs. Clyde Stringer, Miss Fannie Beam, Mrs. R. D. White, Mrs. Ira Johnson, Mrs. M. G. Simmons and Mrs. W. W. Beasley.

A vase was presented to Miss Louise Buffington, winner of high score at the Bridgette club, entertained by Miss Mildred Bird on Thursday evening. Following the contract games, a hot tamale loaf was served at the tables. Those present were Miss Sentelle Johns, Miss Dora Cooksey, Miss Marie Minard, Miss Helen Chapman, Mrs. P. C. Yonge, Miss Doyne Buffington, Miss Louise Buffington and Miss Mildred Bird.

More than sixty members and guests of the Ladies' Woodmen Circle, Holly No. 110, attended an initiation of five candidates on Tuesday evening. Prominent among the guests were: Mrs. Elmiro D. Vaeth of New Orleans, state grand manager; Mrs. Joseph Dinnat of Alexandria, supreme representative, and Mrs. Schmidt, guardian of Magnolia Grove No. 112 of Alexandria. Mrs. Dinnat was accompanied by her drill team of Alexandria, which recently won first place over state teams. Guests from Urania included: Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Cupples, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Ramsey, Mrs. Willbanks, Mrs. Streetman and others. During the social hour refreshments were served by Mrs. Laura Patton, Mrs. Nancy Patton, Mrs. Lucy Patton, Mrs. Frankie Kinney, Mrs. Celeto Kraft and Mrs. Lottie Futch of the Clarks lodge.

A hay ride and wiener roast was enjoyed by the Senior B. Y. P. U. members on Tuesday evening. The wiener roast was held at Castor Springs, a delightful picnic grounds near Olla. The party included: Mrs. Charles Riser, Miss Ethel Riser, Miss Mildred Roy, Miss Lottie Parker, Miss Beatrice Corbin, Miss Opal Simmons, Miss Audrey Smith, Miss Helen Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Denver Moore, Oscar Chapman, Damon Bradford, Hartford Jackson, C. L. Perkins, Wilbur Kraft and Morris Andrews.

C. C. Sheppard, president of the National Lumber Manufacturers association, has received an invitation from WLS, Prairie Farmer radio station, in Chicago, to appear as guest speaker on their Dinnerbell program at noon on April 24.

The Yellow river, China, went on a rampage in 1886, flooding 20,000 square miles and claiming 2,000,000 lives.

WOMEN ASKED TO AID PLAN

Field Representatives Are Named To Back Better Housing Program

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A concerted, nation-wide movement to mobilize the women of the United States behind the better housing program, with a corps of 30 women field representatives now engaged and actively explaining the operations of the national housing act to women in the 48 states, according to the federal housing administration.

The campaign is being directed toward the women of the nation because between 80 and 90 per cent of all income, according to good authority, is expected by the women of the country. Moreover, as the wife is the home maker, the federal housing administration is of the opinion that great impetus to modernization, repair, and new building will grow out of a more widespread knowledge among women of the details of the national housing act.

Recently Organized

The organization of women's division to cooperate and function with local better housing committees has been developed within the past two months. To herald what is expected to be an extensive development of enthusiasm among American women, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt added her voice to the movement Friday, April 5, in an address which was broadcast by radio to the women of the nation. Groups of women were assembled in hundreds of communities on the occasion to hear Mrs. Roosevelt sound the "call to arms."

The District of Columbia women's organization is being organized and developed with the specific purpose of acting as a model for similar groups throughout the country.

The primary purpose of the women's organization will be to acquaint the 29,000,000 home makers of the United States with the advantages to be derived from modernization credit plan for repair and improvement and for repair and improvement and the insured mortgage plan for new building and the refunding of old mortgages.

The women field workers will work toward the end of creating a desire for modern homes; assist local better housing committees in the dissemination of information; deliver radio addresses; talk before groups of women and women's clubs; serve at information booths in stores, theaters, etc., and act as a definite unit in the better housing organization throughout the 48 states.

Devise Plan

The field division of the federal housing administration has inaugurated a plan w hich has been passed on to field workers. The work will include the following categories: 1. speaking engagements. 2. Organization of an active women's division. 3 Radio programs.

Detailed instructions to field representatives covering this plan have been sent out by the Washington office to assist them in obtaining a maximum reaction from American women.

REFLECTION PERCENTAGES

In decorating business interiors to increase visibility and brightness, relative reflective quality of different shades is of interest to the property owner. White has a reflection factor of between 82 and 89 per cent. Cream rates at 73 to 78 per cent. Ivory comes next in the scale with a percentage of between 62 and 80. Yellow tests at 57 per cent, while buff and light gray rate 51 per cent.

Utility, Charm Given Cellar by Modernization

A cellar that is for the most part wasted space may be changed into a cozy "hunting lodge" at very low cost, as illustrated in the above illustrations. The architect in designing the above project has utilized the columns in his decorative scheme and cleverly hidden the sewer stack in the rear by building out in front of it, while at the same time providing recesses for a built-in bunk and a fireplace. The round, steel columns are enclosed in wood and the curved wood braces may be either solid or built up. On the ceiling insulating board has been furred down to conceal the wiring and the actual floor joists. To reproduce the effect of heavy beams, false hollow beams of light wood are added, spaced wider than the floor joists. Bevel plank is used on the wall. The fireplace is an imitation. The studded door, addition of latern, fuel bin, and other appurtenances lend atmosphere to the entirety.

Built-In Table Found Useful In The Kitchen

An extra table, of the folding variety, in the kitchen of the home where much entertaining is done is a great convenience for holding extra dishes or food materials when there are many additional guests. A drop-leaf top is hinged to the side of the wall, with substantial movable braces fitted underneath to hold it firm when in use. When not in use the leaf is easily dropped and hardly noticeable, as it occupies but little space against the side of the wall. A table of this kind solves the problem of what to do with the many extra pieces of tableware or plates of salad, desserts, etc., necessary to the serving of many people. The cost of building this table is very little, but the accommodation is invaluable.

Concrete Curing

Curing is an important process in making concrete water resistant. The purpose of curing is to retard the evaporation of water from the concrete, giving it time to unite with the cement, which should be kept moist for approximately 10 days. In hot weather, exposed concrete should be thoroughly wetted twice daily during the first week.

Sunshine Effect a

Floor tones, hangings, and other effects can lend much to the "sunshine" atmosphere of a room. If a floor is painted a medium chrome yellow, it will, by reflection, give white or cream-colored walls a charming, "sunshiny" effect. Curtains of yellow gauze will help to carry out the impression of brilliancy in such a room.

Bathroom Aids

Proper plumbing does not necessarily mean an up-to-date bathroom. Wooden or bare plaster walls are as out of place in the modern bathroom as kerosene lamps. The bathroom today has a wainscoting which will stand up under constant shower spray and at the same time make a handsome appearance. Imitation tile marble and color panels that can be applied right over the old walls are eligible for installation under the terms of the modernization credit plan of the National Housing Act.

Apraxia is one of the oldest diseases known. It brings the loss of power to recognize an object or its purpose and a sufferer may chew soap, shine his shoes with a dinner plate, or do similar strange things.

Maid-chauffeurs, who do housework and also drive milady's car, have been hired in England.

HOUSING QUESTION BOX

Q—I expect to put a new roof on my home and can buy flat-grain shingles a little cheaper than edge-grain shingles. Both look good and are of the same quality and thickness. Would the flat-grain shingles be satisfactory?

A.—Flat-grain shingles are satisfactory for temporary construction where long service is not required. However, they are more subject to warping and checking than edge-grain shingles. If you are installing a roof for permanency the edge-grain shingles are much to be preferred. Also, for permanency, it is desirable to avoid the use of thin shingles. 5-2 shingles are considered much better than 6-2 shingles. This means that when the combined thickness of the butts of 5 shingles total 2 inches in thickness they are better than those that require 6 shingles to total 2 inches.

Q.—I wish to lay new colored wood shingles on my home. Should they be colored after the roof is laid?

A.—You can, of course, obtain shingles already stained practically any color desired. However, if you wish to color them yourself, it is preferable that they be dipped in stain or paint a few days before the shingles are laid. Take a barrel or other container containing stain or paint and dip one or two dozen shingles at a time, butt end down, to a depth of 6 or 8 inches. Then stand them in a trough to catch the drippings. When thoroughly dry they may be nailed to the roof. A second coat may be applied with a brush, taking care that all cracks and joints are filled. A comparatively inexpensive brush is satisfactory for this purpose.

Q.—After a hard rain I have trouble with sewer water backing up and getting in my basement. What can I do to prevent a recurrence of this trouble?

A.—It is probable that you should install back water valves which are designed and manufactured to prevent water reversing its flow. Any competent plumbing contractor should be able to advise you concerning such valves and install them for you.

Q.—We want to enlarge the cellar under our farm home and install a cistern. Should the cistern be placed in the basement or outside of the house?

A.—A decision as to whether a cistern should be placed in the basement or outside of the home is largely one of personal desire and home owner's convenience. You will find a great deal of valuable information on cisterns in U. S. Department of agriculture Farmer's bulletin 1448, entitled: "Farmstead Water Supply." A copy of this may be obtained for 5 cents, cash or money order (stamps not accepted), from the superintendent of documents, Government Printing office, Washington, D. C.

Also, since you contemplate a new basement, you will find valuable information on how to construct it in Farmer's Bulletin 1572, entitled "Making Cellars Dry," a copy of which may be obtained from the superintendent of documents for 5 cents.

6,000 Cities Set The 'Go' Sign For Better Housing

Active better housing programs in over 6,000 communities throughout the country have created a wide-spread public interest in better housing. On February 1, 1935, more than $240,000,000 had been reported as spent for property modernization and repair in the few months since the federal housing administration was created to administer the national housing act.

Manufacturers engaged in the production of building material and equipment have reported major sales increases for the first time in years. Many of them are enjoying better business than they have enjoyed during the past five-year period.

Railroad carloadings of building material are increasing. They are hauling more sand and stone, and lime and cement; more plaster, and bricks, and bath tubs, and kitchen equipment. They are hauling things that make a house a home—the things that create property assets out of property liabilities.

Men who have either a product or a service to sell in the field of property repair and building construction are the first ones to profit from this resumption of building activities.

This opportunity is yours because of the national housing act. This piece of legislation was enacted June 27, 1934, to release credit and thus aid the property owners of America to repair and modernize their properties.

When over 8,000 census takers made a real property inventory in sixty-four typical American cities during the early months of 1934, a series of facts were brought to light, dealing with the lack of modernization and the need for repairs to real property. When checked with the nation as a whole, it became apparent that some 15,600,000 properties were in need of repairs; 3,000,000 of these were in need of major structural repairs; and one-half million in such condition that they should be demolished and replaced. A need for 1,750,000 new homes was revealed.

This state of disrepair and obsolescence, applying to our greatest national asset—our real property—was answered by the national housing act. This act makes it possible for banks and other financial institutions to release credit to property owners for the purpose of financing jobs that need doing. It encourages the property owner to do the work now.

Thus many people who cannot conveniently pay cash at this time are in a position to borrow the money that is needed and preserve property with borrowed cash.

The national housing act makes it possible for responsible property owners to borrow sums up to $2,000 and repay these loans monthly out of income over a period of one to three years. In some cases, at the discretion of the lending institution, even five years can be taken. No endorsers are necessary in making such loans. The government insures the bank against loss and thus guarantees the credit of the borrower.

How is this credit released?

Approved banks and other financial institutions are insured against loss and are given a contract of insurance by the federal housing administration.

The only reservation in the entire plan of lending money to property owners is that the money must be used for property repair and improvement. The property owner makes an application for the loan, and in the application he gives all the information needed by the bank to extend the credit.

What are the conditions for making such loans?

The property owner must have a salary or other steady income, so as to be able to repay the loan in monthly installments (or seasonally, if he is a farmer). He must have a good credit reputation. He may not obligate himself to repay more per year than one-fifth of his total actual or prospective yearly income.

That is modernization credit, and through it you have your greatest selling opportunity!

Now, for the first time in history, owners may repair, alter, and improve their properties on an even better basis than that upon which they have purchased automobiles, refrigerators, washing machines, and other accessories. Now they can buy your material and your service from you on credit—but you are paid in cash.

On February 1, 1935, five thousand five hundred local committee chairmen had been appointed, and 4,305 local better housing programs were under way. One of these is functioning in Monroe with A. V. Miller, chairman. Consequently, one of the first things you should do is to identify yourself with your local better housing program. Cooperate with the committee in what they are trying to do: Encourage better housing. You will benefit directly, as people are encouraged to think and act in terms of better housing! No property improvement or repair can be accomplished without somebody like you doing a part or all of the job.

California Concerns Contacting Workers

Twenty-seven firms employing 13,745 workers are actively engaged in contacting each individual employee to stimulate modernization and repairs as a part of the property-improvement program in Los Angeles, Calif.

Cooperating with executives of these firms is an industrial representative of the federal housing administration and the combined effort, according to reports from Los Angeles, is producing good results in increased modernizing and repair pledges.

The California organization of the federal housing administration is cooperating in every way possible in the furtherance of the "Los Angeles plan for the rehabilitation of the nation," which has set as its goal $100,000,000 in the Los Angeles area.

The committee of one hundred, a group of prominent business and industrial executives, recently signed a manifesto to work toward the accomplishment of the goal set by the program.

Dealer Sells Light Plants To Farmers

Because of the facilities offered by the modernization loan plan of the federal housing administration, a Mankato, Minn., electric dealer recently sold 20 electric-light plants to farmers in his neighborhood.

All the sales were financed through modernization credit. The head of the firm stated that not only has the better housing program been a stimulus to his business but that the plan is particularly helpful to the sale of electric-light plants.

THE LEAKY ROOF

No other part of the house suffers as much abuse as the roof. Beating rains and sleet, strong winds, scorching sunshine share to wear out the roof surface. It is not surprising, then, that the householder is so frequently annoyed by a leaky roof.

When a leak develops, it should be repaired without delay. Else the plaster may become cracked and loose, and eventually fall, or the framework below the leak may rot. Even a small leak can cause discoloration of wall coverings and stains on finished floors. It is economical to have leaks permanently repaired at once, or the old roof replaced with a new one.

PLUMBING TROUBLE

Perhaps the most frequent plumbing trouble is a leaking faucet. There are a variety of possible causes for such leakage. An expert, however, can quickly determine the cause and remedy it. The thumping noise in a faucet is likewise a simple problem. Flush tank leakage is more serious, and should be cared for without delay, lest it become costly.

Water pipes which are exposed to freezing temperatures should be covered. Also it is advisable to cover pipes located in an unheated cellar or garage. This covering is very inexpensive.

J-M Roof Coatings make old roofs absolutely water-shedding

WATER runs off a roof treated with Johns-Manville Roof Coating like water off a duck's back. Even leaky composition or metal roofs may become absolutely water-shedding when treated with J-M Roof Coating. Not a drop of rain, sleet or melted snow can seep through!

When the roof has cracks or small holes, use J-M Fibrous Enamel. Its heavy asbestos fibre content bridges gaps and forms a protective membrane over the entire roof area. Regal Roof Coating, a similar material, but without the asbestos, can be used when the roof is in better condition.

All J-M Roof Coatings can be applied with a large brush. A simple treatment—yet it will make your old roof good for many more years. Full directions on every container.

WOMEN ASKED TO AID PLAN

Field Representatives Are Named To Back Better Housing Program

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A concerted, Nation-wide movement to mobilize the women of the United States behind the better housing program, with a corps of 50 women field representatives now engaged and actively explaining the operations of the national housing act to women in the 48 states, according to the federal housing administration.

The campaign is being directed toward the women of the nation because between 80 and 90 per cent of all income, according to good authority, is exepected by the women of the country. Moreover, as the wife is the home maker, the federal housing administration is of the opinion that great impetus to modernization, repair, and new buildng will grow out of a more widespread knowledge among women of the details of the national housing act.

Recently Organized

The organization of women's divisions to cooperate and function with local better housing committees has been developed within the past two months. To herald what is expected to be an extensive development of enthusiasm among American women, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt added her voice to the movement Friday, April 5, in an address which was broadcast by radio to the women of the nation. Groups of women were assembled in hundreds of communities on the occasion to hear Mrs. Roosevelt sound the "call to arms."

The District of Columbia women's organization is being organized and developed with the specific purpose of acting as a model for similar groups throughout the country.

The primary purpose of the women's organization will be to acquaint the 29,000,000 home makers of the United States with the advantages to be derived from modernization credit plan for repair and improvement and for repair and improvement and the insured mortgage plan for new building and the refunding of old mortgages.

The women field workers will work toward the end of creating a desire for modern homes; assist local better housing committees in the dissemination of information; deliver radio addresses; talk before groups of women and women's clubs; serve at information booths in stores, theaters, etc., and act as a definite unit in the better housing organization throughout the 48 states.

Devise Plan

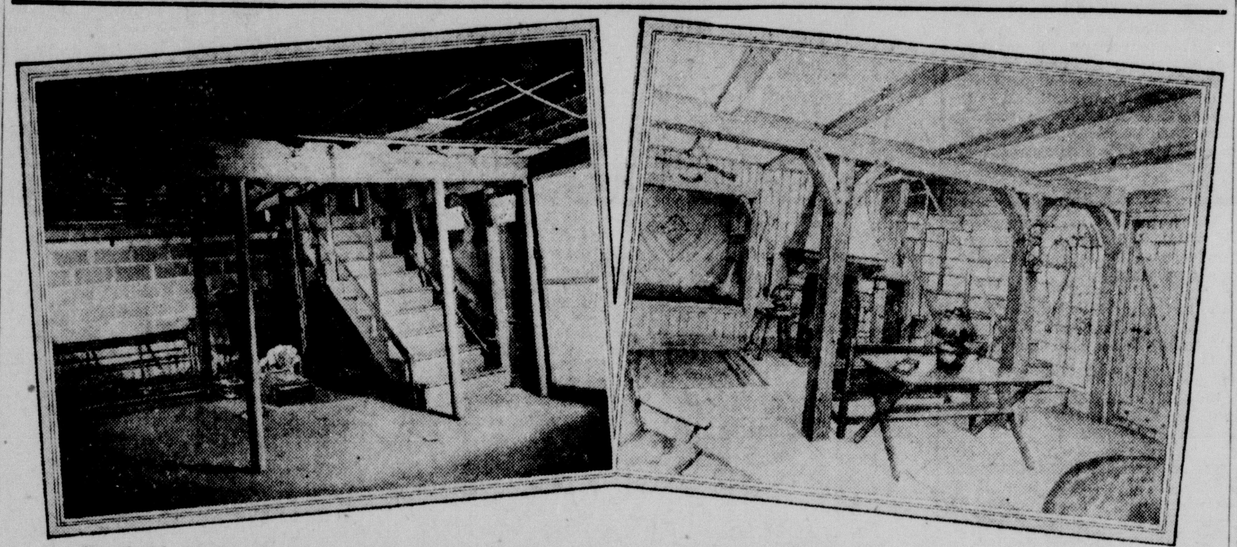
The field division of the federal housing administration has inaugurated a plan w hich has been passed on to field workers. The work will include the following categories: 1. speaking engagements. 2. Organization of an active women's division. 3 Radio programs.

Detailed instructions to field representatives covering this plan have been sent out by the Washington office to assist them in obtaining a maximum reaction from American women.

REFLECTION PERCENTAGES

In decorating business interiors to increase visibility and brightness, relative reflective quality of different shades is of interest to the property owner. White has a reflection factor of between 82 and 89 per cent. Cream rates at 73 to 78 per cent. Ivory comes next in the scale with a percentage of between 62 and 80. Yellow tests at 57 per cent, while buff and light gray rate 51 per cent.

Utility, Charm Given Cellar by Modernization



A cellar that is for the most part wasted space may be changed into a cozy "hunting lodge" at very low cost, as illustrated in the above illustrations. The architect in designing the above project has utilized the columns in his decorative scheme and cleverly hidden the sewer stack in the rear by building out in front of it, while at the same time providing recesses for a built-in bunk and a fireplace. The round, steel columns are enclosed in wood and the curved wood braces may be either solid or built up. On the ceiling insulating board has been furred down to conceal the wiring and the actual floor joists. To reproduce the effect of heavy beams, false hollow beams of light wood are added, spaced wider than the floor joists. Bevel plank is used on the wall. The fireplace is an imitation. The studded door, addition of latern, fuel bin, and other appurtenances lend atmosphere to the entirety.

Built-In Table Found Useful In The Kitchen

An extra table, of the folding variety, in the kitchen of the home where much entertaining is done is a great convenience for holding extra dishes or food materials when there are many additional guests. A drop-leaf top is hinged to the side of the wall, with substantial movable braces fitted underneath to hold it firm when in use. When not in use the leaf is easily dropped and hardly noticeable, as it occupies but little space against the side of the wall. A table of this kind solves the problem of what to do with the many extra pieces of tableware or plates of salad, desserts, etc., necessary to the serving of many people. The cost of building this table is very little, but the accommodation is invaluable.

Concrete Curing

Curing is an important process in making concrete water resistant. The purpose of curing is to retard the evaporation of water from the concrete, giving it time to unite with the cement, which should be kept moist for approximately 10 days. In hot weather, exposed concrete should be thoroughly wetted twice daily during the first week.

Sunshine Effects

Floor tones, hangings, and other effects can lend much to the "sunshine" atmosphere of a room. If a floor is painted a medium chrome yellow, it will, by reflection, give white or cream-colored walls a charming, "sunshiny" effect. Curtains of yellow gauze will help to carry out the impression of brilliancy in such a room.

Bathroom Aids

Proper plumbing does not necessarily mean an up-to-date bathroom. Wooden or bare plaster walls are as out of place in the modern bathroom as kerosene lamps. The bathroom today has a wainscoting which will stand up under constant shower spray and at the same time make a handsome appearance. Imitation tile marble and color panels that can be applied right over the old walls are eligible for installation under the terms of the modernization credit plan of the National Housing Act.

Apraxia is one of the oldest diseases known. It brings the loss of power to recognize an object or its purpose and a sufferer may chew soap, shine his shoes with a dinner plate, or do similar strange things.

Maid-chauffeurs, who do housework and also drive milady's car, have been hired in England.

HOUSING QUESTION BOX

Q—I expect to put a new roof on my home and can buy flat-grain shingles a little cheaper than edge-grain shingles. Both look good and are of the same quality and thickness. Would the flat-grain shingles be satisfactory?

A.—Flat-grain shingles are satisfactory for temporary construction where long service is not required. However they are more subject to warping and checking than edge-grain shingles. If you are installing a roof for permanency the edge-grain shingles are much to be preferred. Also, for permanency, it is desirable to avoid the use of thin shingles. 5-2 shingles are considered much better than 6-2 shingles. This means that when the combined thickness of the butts of 5 shingles total 2 inches in thickness they are better than those that require 6 shingles to total 2 inches.

Q.—I wish to lay new colored wood shingles on my home. Should they be colored after the roof is laid?

A.—You can, of course, obtain shingles already stained practically any color desired. However, if you wish to color them yourself, it is preferable that they be dipped in stain or paint a few days before the shingles are laid. Take a barrel or other container containing stain or paint and dip one or two dozen shingles at a time, butt end down, to a depth of 6 or 8 inches. Then stand them in a trough to catch the drippings. When thoroughly dry they may be nailed to the roof. A second coat may be applied with a brush, taking care that all cracks and joints are filled. A comparatively inexpensive brush is satisfactory for this purpose.

Q.—After a hard rain I have trouble with sewer water backing up and getting in my basement. What can I do to prevent a recurrence of this trouble?

A.—It is probable that you should install back water valves which are designed and manufactured to prevent water reversing its flow. Any competent plumbing contractor should be able to advise you concerning such valves and install them for you.

Q.—We want to enlarge the cellar under our farm home and install a cistern. Should the cistern be placed in the basement or outside of the house?

A.—A decision as to whether a cistern should be placed in the basement or outside of the home is largely one of personal desire and home owner's convenience. You will find a great deal of valuable information on cisterns in U. S. Department of agriculture Farmer's bulletin 1448, entitled: "Farmstead Water Supply." A copy of this may be obtained for 5 cents, cash or money order (stamps not accepted), from the superintendent of documents, Government Printing office, Washington, D. C.

Also, since you contemplate a new basement, you will find valuable information on how to construct it in Farmer's Bulletin 1572, entitled "Making Cellars Dry," a copy of which may be obtained from the superintendent of documents for 5 cents.

6,000 Cities Set The 'Go' Sign For Better Housing

Active better housing programs in over 6,000 communities throughout the country have created a wide-spread public interest in better housing. On February 1, 1935, more than $240,000,000 had been reported as spent for property modernization and repair in the few months since the federal housing administration was created to administer the national housing act.

FARM REPAIRS SHOW UPGRADE

Homes, Barns And Other Buildings Modernized Through Insured Credit

Aided by the rural campaign of the Federal Housing Administration, mountain states and west coast farmers are doing a greater volume of repairing, rebuilding and modernizing their homes, barns and other equipment.

Examination of a group of 24 typical credit advances made to agriculturists in central California under the modernization credit plan revealed the average to run slightly in excess of $400 and that approximately 75 per cent of the money is spent for materials.

Higher prices for farm products are behind the construction of new buildings, especially poultry houses; with livestock barns being enlarged to house more dairy cattle. Irrigation for fruit, citrus and nut orchards is being done in many places, while in other sections land suitable for more profitable crops, such as sugar beets, is being brought into production with the aid of irrigation.

Example Given

A specific instance of where irrigation made possible by modernization credit, has been extremely profitable, comes from Davis, Calif. The installation of a pump capable of watering a 40-acre field, enabled a farmer to grow sugar beets. The gross income, because of his crop, was pumped to $65 an acre as compared with $16 from grain, to which the land previously had been planted.

In Colorado the construction of a small dairy barn enabled the farmer to meet the sanitary laws of the city of Denver, and the higher price obtained for the milk from his seven cows boosted his monthly check from $10 to $14.

The insistence of city health authorities that dairy farms, especially milk houses, meet the sanitation regulation had threatened the market of a number of farmers. This situation was remedied in practically every instance by the erection of new milk houses, financed through local banks, offering modernization credit service.

Leaders Confident

Examples of how agriculturists have been able to improve their earnings through new or enlarged barns and other equipment can be cited in almost every community. Leaders of the improved farm property campaign, just getting under way in most localities, are confident of success because of the initial interest displayed.

While income-producing property has gotten a lot of attention, farm homes have not been neglected. Examination of the work on dwellings shows an unusually large number of dwellings being enlarged, remodeled, and modernized. Rooms are being added, porches built, and old homes made practically new. Conveniences and comforts, such as baths, sewage disposal systems, running water, and electricity for light and power are included in the modernization jobs.

Particularly impressive in the interviews with farmers was the appreciation of their being able to obtain money to make improvements and repay it out of earnings. In most cases work done could not have been financed if modernization credit had not been available.

Cedar Closets Foil Destructive Moths

A cedar-lined closet affords great protection against moths. Heavy woolen clothing, winter coats, furs, etc., may be stored in a cedar-lined chest or wardrobe for the smaller articles of clothing, such as hats, neckpieces, furlined gloves, etc., assure order and ready accessibility.

Any available closet—preferably one not greatly used—may be lined with cedar wood, and housekeepers who can arrange for a closet of this kind will find that it will have time and possibly many dollars in keeping the family clothing mothproof.

Cedar wood has a pleasant odor, and many moth preventives do not, and the absence of clothing in paper wrappings gives the closet a neater appearance.

MAKE A REAL INSPECTION

The flashing around the chimney, and the roof's vent pipes and valleys, should also be inspected. They may be out of place, or rusted. Leaves, rubbish and birds' nests in the roof gutters clog the down spouts, and should be removed. Strainers over the mouths of the down spouts should be cleaned.

Gutters and down pipes may need repainting or a new coat of paint. Obviously, roof repairs are of paramount importance. Without them, the house is subjected to grave dangers of filth and discomfort. If repairs are postponed, they will grow more and more serious, and therefore costly.

Garden Improvement

With the coming of Spring, the home owner has an excellent opportunity to beautify and improve the grounds about the house as indicated in the above photograph. Informal flagstone or molded concrete walks add much charm to the Spring garden. In instances where the garden is on a slope, a permanent concrete wall, properly placed, will offset much erosion and add to the general appearance of the plot. Spring houses, permanently placed trellises, arbors, etc., are all eligible for financing by Modernization Credit of the Federal Housing Administration.

TERMITE CONTROL IN HOUSING PLAN

Opportunity Offered To Overcome Destructive Pest In Local Area

Through exhaustive study the Bruce Chemical Corporation Laboratories developed "Terminix," which has been applied in many thousand homes and buildings during the past six years, by licensed Terminix Application companies in termite infested states. These application companies have been trained in the rather intricate and technical features connected with the treating work and are properly equipped with automotive treating outfits operated under electrical pressure. A uniform contract is used covering all Terminix applications. This contract, among other things, guarantees not only an original and thorough treatment, but frequent inspections over a two-year period, and retreatments, if necessary, at no additional obligation. The E. L. Bruce company is definitely a party to these contracts, guaranteeing that if for any reason whatsoever the individual application company is unable to fulfill the terms of that contract, the the E. L. Bruce company will cause complete performance and furnishes a surety bond, issued by the National Surety company of New York. Through this system purchasers of Terminix treatments are fully protected.

It should be recognized that termites are ingenious creatures, cleverly seeking the most remote places to gain entrance into structures, thus making the matter of treating against them a work only for those who are acquainted with their habits. Because of the human element involved in the treating work an absolutely perfect application job is not always attained at the time of the original treatment. Therefore the service feature included in any contract for termite control is of vital importance. Terminix has been shown in innumerable instances unquestionably effective. Yet, without the guaranteed assurance that any weakness in the original treatment would be promptly remedied, purchasers could not be certain of practical immunity for their treated structures, for the full two-year period. It should also be realized that after two years of constant supervision, following these methods, protection may prove to last indefinitely longer, beyond the contract period.

So, from our experience it is apparent to us and to many owners of Terminix treated property that the termite need no longer be considered, he can be forced out, and kept out of our homes and buildings to the extent that most of his $40,000,000.00 annual food bill, in American homes alone, may be saved to the public for more constructive usage.

The E. L. Bruce company, world's largest manufacturers of hardwood flooring, has licensed the Terminix company, of Monroe, with offices at 705 Ouachita Bank building, phone 1341, an organization which has college and Terminixically trained men on its staff to aid householders and home owners in solving the problem of termite control.

The national housing act offers financial aid to home owners, with 12 to 30 months time to pay for complete treatment against termites.

ALUMINUM HINT

Aluminum is not considered as being subject to corrosion when in contact with concrete if the concrete is dry and seasoned. When it is used in fresh and unseasoned concrete, however, it should be protected with a coating of material, such as asphalt, varnish, bitumen, or pitch; or it may be encased in either felt or tar paper staturated in one of the materials.

HOME BUILDER FINDS NEW JOY

Discovers Happiness Through Help Offered By Housing Program

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Louis D. Rubin, 10 B. Rutledge avenue, Charleston, S. C., wrote President Franklin D. Roosevelt a letter recently, crediting the better housing program of the federal housing program of the federal housing administration with more than its usual accomplishments. Mr. Rubin said its provisions rehabilitated his spirit.

In the face of harrowing financial reverses, Mr. Rubin explained, the long-term, easy-payment plan of the insured mortgage plan has made it possible for him to build a comfortable home for his family.

"There is no way in the world," he said, "that we could have built a house, to finance it as we are now, except for the federal housing administration."

In October, 1932, Mr. Rubin was forced to close out his business, the Rubin Electrical company, of Charleston, which, prior to the depression period, was widely advertised as "Charleston's leading electrical store." To add to his troubles, Mr. Rubin soon afterward underwent seven major operations. For a 6-month period he was rendered helpless by paralysis. He would never be able to work again. The future looked black.

"Then came your federal housing administration," he wrote to President Roosevelt "Now our outlook is changed. By borrowing money on insurance I was able to buy a large lot on the edge of the city, had plans drawn up and submitted to the bank and the federal housing administration. Today (March 18) work began on my home, modest and plain but—OUR HOME.

"There is no way in the world that we could have built a house, to finance it as we are now, except for the federal housing administration.

"We will have room for gardening and planting, fresh air, and room for the children to run and play. For us, life has a different outlook. Through you and your ideas we can look forward to enjoying life, a dream we have hoped for since I became sick and resigned to being disabled for life. We can watch our chilrren grow up in one house, instead of moving year by year. By the time they grow up, the home will be ours, to pass the rest of our life in surroundings that, to us, is like heaven being brought on earth."

Modernize For Better Lighting Of The House

Broad eaves and covered porches on a house often exclude the daylight required to light a room sufficiently. When additional daylight is desired, painting the underside of the eaves and porch ceilings with a fresh coat of light-colored paint will help reflect light into the room.

Good light and good sight are influenced by color. Choosing the best color and shade for each room in the home is a most important problem which currently confronts every home owner. The importance of protecting eyesight is well illustrated in the "Better Light—Better Sight" idea. There should be enough light in each room so that all articles and portions of the room are clearly discernible, but the light should not be so glaring or so bright as to be injurious to the eyes. The color of the room should not be chosen merely from an aesthetic standpoint.

Dentist Capitalizes On Housing Program

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—The business stimulus generated by the modernization credit plan of the federal housing administration has created such marked indirect benefits that even a dentist here was prompted to gratitude.

Recently he walked into the headquarters of the better housing committee in Little Rock and voluntarily offered a $10 contribution to the canvass fund. He told workers there that so many carpenters, painters, contractors, and others had found employment since the inception of the repair and improvement program that his business had jumped noticeably upward. Many were paying old bills, and the current number of patients had materially increased. For these reasons, he told the associate director in Little Rock, he wished to contribute his share to the furtherance of the movement.

CALLS HOUSING PUBLIC SERVICE

Georgian Says FHA Gives Banks New Opportunity Of Helpfulness

ATLANTA, Ga.—Characterizing the federal housing administration's program of financing for modernization, repair, and new building as "fundamentally sound," Herman Jones, vice president of the First National bank, of Atlanta, Ga., stated recently at an industrial conference in Atlanta that the national housing act makes it possible for the banks of the nation to render a valuable public service.

"We look on this program," he said, "not only in that light but appreciate the opportunity that has been created by this act for us to render services to our community which otherwise would have been impossible.

"As evidence of this fact we have advanced funds under the two titles of the act which aggregate nearly half a million dollars. We have reached a point, I am sure, where practically every one realizes that modernization credit can be obtained without difficulty or delay, based on the character of the applicant and his compliance with the few requirements laid down by the administration.

"There is, however, some comment to the effect that mortgage loans are practically impossible to get. I would like to state here that our bank has already closed, or placed in the hands of attorneys for closing, 45 mortgage loans totalling $225,000, with about an equal amount pending.

Character the Basis

"We all realize that modernization credit under Title 1 is made on the basis of character supplemented by the 20 per cent guarantee of the administration. Title 11 in reality places residential mortgage financing on the same basis—character. For with the contract of insurance in force, which guarantees to the lending institution the value of the mortgaged property, the question of character becomes the prime consideration. It so happens that I am connected with an institution which for 70 years has endeavored to serve its community by making loans, not only such loans as are justified from a collateral standpoint but also those based largely on character and earning capacity, and accordingly we are grateful for the opportunity which is afforded by the federal housing administration for increasing our facilities for servces to our community, in that the insurance protection afforded enables us to handle loans which otherwise could not be handled by a commercial bank.

Program Beneficial

"We have found that the program has been very beneficial to our institution in that the public in large numbers has learned that financial institutions are still interested in and willing to make loans on the bass of character. In addition, we have secured business of various types from the applicants who otherwise would probably never have come to our bank, and the good will created has been of value."

FLAWS IN CHIMNEYS

The chimney should be carefully inspected for flaws. Sometimes there is leakage through the joint between the chimney and roof, caused by the chimney foundation's settling, or, vice versa, by the chimney foundation's not settling and the frame's shrinkage and settling. If the top of the chimney is not properly covered with a coping or chimney top, water may run down between the bricks and the flue lining to stain the wall surfaces below. The connection between the roof and the masonry of the chimney should be flashed with metal to turn the water away from the joint. Chimney repairs, highly important as they are, cost little.

KEEP DRAINS OPEN

Floor drains in bathroom, cellar and garage floors should be opened and cleaned as often as necessary. When clogged with dirt or grease they cannot properly perform their functions. If there is a floor drain under the refrigerator, it should be cleaned frequently. These precautions are essential to sanitation and health.

Modernization of the bathroom is an investment that pays large dividends in comfort and health. Showers can be installed at a cost that is within everyone's reach. Modern lavatories, bath tubs, flush tanks, are equally inexpensive. Let your plumber explain what he can do to modernize your bathroom.

The Mount Rushmore memorial carvings of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln, and Roosevelt, in the Black Hills of South Dakota are expected to last several hundred thousand years.

This beautiful bathroom may be purchased on easy monthly payments. Write or call for information.

FARM REPAIRS SHOW UPGRADE

Homes, Barns And Other Buildings Modernized Through Insured Credit

Aided by the rural campaign of the Federal Housing Administration, mountain states and west coast farmers are doing a greater volume of repairing, rebuilding and modernizing their homes, barns and other equipment.

Examination of a group of 24 typical credit advances made to agriculturists in central California under the modernization credit plan revealed the average to run slightly in excess of $400 and that approximately 75 per cent of the money is spent for materials.

Higher prices for farm products are behind the construction of new buildings, especially poultry houses; with livestock barns being enlarged to house more dairy cattle. Irrigation for fruit, citrus and nut orchards is being done in many places, while in other sections land suitable for more profitable crops, such as sugar beets, is being brought into production with the aid of irrigation.

Example Given

A specific instance of where irrigation, made possible by modernization credit, has been extremely profitable, comes from Davis, Calif. The installation of a pump capable of watering a 40-acre field, enabled a farmer to grow sugar beets. The gross income, because of his crop, was jumped to $65 an acre as compared with $16 from grain, to which the land previously had been planted.

In Colorado the construction of a small dairy barn enabled the farmer to meet the sanitary laws of the city of Denver, and the higher price obtained for the milk from his seven cows boosted his monthly check from $10 to $14.

In Oregon, a ranchman, finding eggs from his small flock bringing a bigger check, increased his business because he was able to obtain enough money to build a new poultry house.

The insistence of city health authorities that dairy farms, especially milk houses, meet the sanitation regulation had threatened the market of a number of farmers. This situation was remedied in practically every instance by the erection of new milk houses, financed through local banks, offering modernization credit service.

Leaders Confident

Examples of how agriculturists have been able to improve their earnings through new or enlarged barns and other equipment can be cited in almost every community. Leaders of the improved farm property campaign, just getting under way in most localities, are confident of success because of the initial interest displayed.

While income-producing property has gotten a lot of attention, farm homes have not been neglected. Examination of the work on dwellings shows an unusually large number of dwellings being enlarged, remodeled, and modernized. Rooms are being added, porches built, and old homes made practically new. Conveniences and comforts, such as baths, sewage disposal systems, running water, and electricity for light and power are included in the modernization jobs.

Particularly impressive in the interviews with farmers was the appreciation of their being able to obtain money to make improvements and repay it out of earnings. In most cases work done could not have been financed if modernization credit had not been available.

The spirit of the day is to improve, and to improve is the spirit of progress. You see it in homes, you see it in stores, you see it in factories and office buildings. It is just as true of your property in buildings, regardless of their shape, size or use, that simple improvement and modernization will afford you new advantages and greater opportunities. Whether you decide to improve your buildings inside or out, or both, three definite benefits are immediately acquired. First, your property increases in value. Second, its modern appearance creates new appeal and exacts more appreciation from friends, customers and prospective tenants. Third, its conveniences to occupants are increased, making way for extensive savings to you in operating costs.
We invite you to call on the following yards in the Twin Cities of Monroe and West Monroe to inspect our material and satisfy yourselves as to its high quality.

Christ Our Passover Is Slain

Come to Church Easter

EASTER DAY is the day of days in the year of Christendom. It is a day that brings vivid memories of the eternal triumph of the Saviour of the world. It is a day of joy. It is a day of gladness and exultation, when hearts and minds are filled with the glorious tidings of the gospel. It is a season and energy and gaiety of a Risen Creator, whose love is made manifest in the resurrection of the Son of God from the tomb. If the Christian people should heartily respond to the privileges of public worship on this day and gather together in the churches in expressions of praise and thanksgiving and adoration for all that Easter signifies. A wonderful and warmed invitation is given to the people of Monroe and West Monroe and nearby communities to attend the services next to the churches of the Town. Cities on Sunday, Easter Day.

THE HIGH SATURDAY MESSAGE

HAPPY EASTER!

What then sorrest, Mary, say,
Author, turned to the way,
"I saw the Lord, arisen, for He Hope the Soul hath,
"I saw His Glory as He rose again:
"Hosts and Seas, clothes, and angels round:
"Yea, Christ, my hope, is risen, and He
"All I go before you into Galilee."

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH
Corner St. John and Oak
Thos. F. Jett, Minister
PRAYER

"Dear Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, and of all men, thou dost ever seek the pure in heart to worship thee. We pray for all those who make it the habit of their life to assemble in the sanctuary of the church to praise and magnify thy name. May they come prepared to meet thee. May they enter with hush of heart and with great expectancy. Take away all listlessness and drabness.

"Thou Holy Spirit, though the spirit of the worshippers into a new zeal for the divine. May deep speak to deep, the deep of thy love to the deep of man's need, the deep of thy holiness to the deep of man's sin, the deep of thy eternity to the deep of the eternity thou hast set in the hearts of men. Cast out all inattentiveness and trivialities. Give searching of consicence to everyone. Renew a right spirit. Give to all the joy of fellowship—we stand so much in need of ecstasy these days to carry us over the hard places. Help us to see the smile of thy countenance.

"Do not permit us to tarry too long in the luxury of self-satisfaction—even on the mountain top of communion with the divine. Teach us that worship must lead to duty, to serve, to love in action, but, in our worship, may we gain strength and light to be more worthy builders with thee of thy Kingdom. Amen."

Our Easter services are planned for one and all who care to celebrate the resurrection of the Lord Jesus. Come and worship with us. Sunrise prayer service at 6:30 a.m. Church school at 9:30 a.m. Worship at 10:50 a.m. and 7:45 p.m. Baptismal service at 8:45 p.m.

"Doctrine of Atonement" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, April 21st.

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "But Christ being come an high priest of good things to come, by a greater and more perfect tabernacle, not made with hands, that is to say, not of this building; neither by the blood of goats and calves, but by his own blood He entered in once into the holy place, having obtained eternal redemption for us" (Heb. 9).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook: "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy; "That God's wrath should be vented upon His beloved Son, is divinely unnatural. Such a theory is man-made. The atonement is a hard problem in theology, but its scientific explanation is, that suffering is an error of sinful sense which Truth destroys, and that eventually both sin and suffering will fall at the feet of everlasting Love." (p. 23).

Christ Our Passover Is Slain

1 Cor. 5:7

How rank, through centuries of time,
In fertile field and favoring clime,
The hateful seeds of sin have grown—
Leaving man helpless, and undone.

For never one in all the past,
Of Adam's sons, escaped its blast;
Each life, beneath its baneful power,
At last, has yielded up its flower.

And yet, with careless feet, we tread
The soil that holds so many dead;
As if the spreading hand of death
Had never power to still our breath.

But who, can boast a righteous deed?
Or who forgiveness should not plead?
There's only One, of all our race,
Could lift to God, an unshamed face.

And this dark world will never know
The grief and pain that He passed through
To free them from sin's galling chain,
And wash away its crimson stain.

Through all that loneliness, and shame,
His love for us remained the same—
Willing to bear the sinner's rod,
That He might bring our souls to God.

But love, that lived through that dark hour,
Could not be holden by its power;
God, cast the bands of death aside,
And Lo, He lives, the Crucified.

Yes, lives and reigns, at God's right hand;
The brightest star, of that bright land—
The Ruler, both, of earth and heaven;
For, "Unto Him, all power is given."

Dear Savior, in thy matchless grace,
Let shine on us thy glorious face.
'Till in our hearts thine eyes shall see
The purity that dwells in Thee!

And then, with sin and sorrow done;
With things in earth and heaven one;
With life and all its joys complete,
We'll cast our crowns at thy dear feet.

GRACE CHURCH
Fourth and Glenmar
Edward Farren Hayward, Rector

Services for Easter day, the queen feast of the year, are as follows: The Holy Eucharist, 7 a.m. The entire communicants of the church are expected to make communion at this celebration; and everyone should consider it his duty so to do.

The church school service will be at 9:30 a.m. The children of the parish are asked to bring with them their mite boxes. During this service the mite boxes will be presented and offered over the altar. The 11 o'clock celebration of the Eucharist will be choral. The following are the musical numbers: Organ prelude, Suite Gothique by Bellman and the postlude is March in G by Gullmont. The processional is "At the Lamb's High Feast We Sing," and the recessional is "Come Ye Faithful Raise the Strain." The Introit is Schillings, "Christ Our Passover;" and the offertory is Turner's, "Christ Is Risen." The Kyrie is by Monk, and the Gradual is "Christ the Lord Is Risen Today." Gounod's Gloria Tibi, Gratias Tibi, Sursum Corda and Sanctus, Benedictus qui Venit, Agnus Dei and Gloria in Excelsis Deo, with the above musical numbers, will be sung by the choir. The solo parts will be sung by Mrs. Henry Whitfield, Mrs. Clyde Paine, Mrs. Louise Smelser McComb and Mr. John Winkler. Mr. Roger Frisbie will preside at the organ and direct the choir. The local commandery of Knights Templar will attend the 11 o'clock Eucharist and will be the welcome guests of the rector and congregation. The rector will preach the Easter day sermon. The rector will journey to St. David's Rayville for evensong at 4:30 p.m. and will preach to the congregation an Easter sermon. The public is cordially invited to attend services in Grace church; and if you have no church home, you are invited to join with us.

TRINITY LUTHERAN CHURCH

Burgess, of Portland, Ark., doing the preaching. Rev. Burgess has been a student at Baptist Bible Institute in New Orleans and is now pastor of the First Baptist church of Portland. He comes to us with a splendid record of successful evangelistic work. The pastor will bring the message on Sunday morning using as his theme, "The Resurrection." The evangelist will be with us for the evening worship. An invitation is extended to the general public to be with us.

CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH
3400 Lee Avenue
Roger M. Baxter, Pastor.

The meeting which has been in progress for the last two weeks will close with the two services Sunday. Sunday morning Rev. R. L. Ross, of West Monroe, will speak on the "Resurrection of Christ." Sunday evening on "The Great White Throne or The Judgment." He has done some real preaching during the two weeks and the Lord has given us a blessing so far. An invitation is extended to all to attend these services and be at the other services Sunday. You are given a cordial invitation to be at the Sunday school, which meets at 9:45 a. m. The B. T. U. meets at 6:45 p. m. The singing under the direction of Brother Foster of our own church has been the best that we have ever had. Come worship with us in the remaining services of the meeting.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Corner Grammont and Catalpa
Rev. Ernest D. Holloway, Pastor

Special services commemorative of Easter will be held all day Sunday, with particular emphasis on the Sunday school and young people's activities.

All departments of the Sunday school are making preparations for the occasion, and we look for the largest attendance at these services that we ever had. We urge that every church member, young and old, find a place Sunday in one or other of the Sunday school departments.

The Frank P. Stubbs Memorial Bible class of business men, which meets in Paramount theater at 9:45 a. m., will have a special program, in which the Choral club of Neville high school, numbering 75 students, will participate. The adult ladies' Bible class will meet with this group and the public is invited to attend.

At the 11 o'clock worship service it will be the pastor's privilege to dedicate in holy baptsm a number of children to the service of God. The service will revolve around the joyous Easter celebration. The pastor will use for his theme, "The Significance of Easter." Special music will be rendered by the choir, and the congregational singing will be in harmony with the day's observance.

The 5 p. m. vesper service will be in charge of the young people of the church.

Announcement is made that on Sunday, April 28, a special worship service will be held in behalf of "Young People's Leadership." Young people will have a leading part in the program.

The public is cordially invited to attend all of the services.

Come to Church Easter

EASTER DAY is a day of joy and uplift throughout all Christendom. It is a day that brings vivid reminders of the eternity of life and the responsibilities of living. It is a day of spiritual stimulation and exaltation, one when human hearts and minds are lifted up to an acknowledgement of the goodness and mercy and guidance of a divine Creator, whose love is made manifest in the event which the day symbolizes. It is a day when Christian people should heartily respond to the privileges of public worship, where they may gather together with expressions of praise and thanksgiving and adoration for all that Easter signifies. A cordial and earnest invitation is given to the people of Monroe and West Monroe and nearby communities to attend the services held in the churches of the Twin Cities on Sunday, Easter Day.

Morning sermon: "The Glory of the Risen Christ."
Evening sermon: "The Glory of Christ's Coming Again."

THE RESURRECTION MESSAGE

"Fear not ye: for I know that ye seek Jesus, which was crucified. He is not here: for He is risen, as He said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay."—The Angel.
"This Jesus hath God raised up, whereof we all are witnesses."—Peter.
"If Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain, and your faith is also vain."—Paul.
"I count all things but loss for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord; for whom I have suffered the loss of all things, and do count them but dung, that I may win Christ, and be found in Him, not having mine own righteousness . . . That I may know Him, and the power of His resurrection."—Paul.

Low in the grave He lay,
Jesus my Savior!
Waiting the coming day—
Jesus my Lord!

Up from the grave He arose,
With a mighty triumph o'er His foes;
He arose a victor from the dark domain,
And He lives forever with His saints to reign.
He arose! He arose! Hallelujah! Christ arose.

Monroe's First May Day Baby To Be Honored

First Baby Born After Midnight April 30 Will Be Given Host Of Gifts

Monroe Business Firms Cooperate With World And News-Star In Unique Event On Behalf Of Fortunate Future Citizen

The Morning World and News-Star, with the cooperation of Monroe business houses, will do honor to the first baby born in Monroe on May day—May 1.

Every prospective white mother in Monroe is privileged to enter the contest. There are no restrictions whatever, except that the birth of the baby must be reported to the "Baby Editor" of the Morning World and News-Star.

The first baby born after the stroke of midnight Tuesday, April 30, will be entitled to the gifts which have been contributed by various merchants and business firms of Monroe.

Attending physicians are asked to lend their cooperation in this noteworthy occasion by giving a report to the World and News-Star "Baby Editor" as promptly as possible, indicating precisely the time of the "blessed event."

The business firms having a part in the plan to honor Monroe's first May day baby of 1935, together with the contributions they are making to the new citizen are as follows:

R. & A. Jewelry Co., gold baby ring.
Ferd Levi Stationery Co., baby book.
Ray's Jewelry Co., juvenile set.
Jitney Jungle, 10 cans Stokely's baby food.
Holloway Pharmacy, Johnson's baby set.
W. T. Grant Co., pair soft sole baby shoes.
J. C. Penney Co., two dozen napkins.
Dixie Bedding Co., rocking chair.
Jersey Gold Creameries, order for Jersey Gold milk for one week.
Griffin's Studio, photograph of the baby.

RADIOLOGIST NAMED AS STAFF MEMBER OF RIVERSIDE HOSPITAL

Announcement that Dr. E. Burton Lehman, radiologist, has accepted a full-time position as a member of the staff of the Riverside sanitarium, is made by Dr. A. D. Tisdale, owner and operator of the sanitarium.

Dr. Tisdale also announced that new equipment for the "deep" X-ray treatment of cancer and all associated diseases has been installed in Dr. Lehman's department at the sanitarium.

Dr. Lehman has resided in Monroe for two years. During that time he conducted a private practice of his profession and served as a member of the sanitarium's staff.

He was born and reared at New Haven, Conn., and graduated from high school there in 1918. Continuing his scholastic studies, he later graduated from the Sheffield Scientific school of Yale University, and also received the degree of bachelor of philosophy from the post graduate school of the university. In 1928, he received the degree of doctor of medicine from the University of Tennessee.

Aftr his graduation from the latter university, Dr. Lehman served a rotating internship for two years at the Memphis, Tenn., General hospital. He then held a fellowship for two years at the Charity hospital at New Orleans, being associated there with Dr. Amedee Granger.

Methodists To Make Orphanage Donations

Throughout Louisiana, in all Methodist churches today, offerings will be taken for the benefit of the Ruston orphanage. It is the policy each year to take up an offering for this cause on Easter Sunday and one in the fall. These are the only sources of revenue for the support of the orphanage.

The need for cash for this home is greater now than ever and Mrs. J. C. Sadler, Monroe member of the board of directors, urges that all Methodists in the Twin Cities donate to the best of their ability for this worthy cause.

Choudrant

Preston Albritton, of Ruston, will direct a period of community singing at the weekly ERA night schools, beginning Monday. The school will be attended by all representatives of the ERA workers and other interested persons.

The first meeting of the ERA sewing class was held the past week in the Choudrant high school auditorium. Nineteen persons were present and more are expected to enroll at the next meeting. Materials are furnished free to those members whose husbands are on the ERA rolls.

An unusual display of roses was used to decorate the living room and dining room in the home of Mrs. H. M. Bagly when she was hostess to her Rook club Thursday. She was assisted in the curtesies of the evening by her daughter Mrs. Marie Kirk. The Easter scheme was carried out throughout in decorations and refreshments. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Mondart, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Bagwell, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. O'Neal, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Kidd and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Purnell.

"Old Fashion Mother," a three- act play, was presented by the Indian Village Methodist church Friday afternoon under the direction of Miss Shella Nuttall, state field worker. The cast included Lucile Franton, Roy Smith, Novis Smith, Branch Franton, Vera Butler, Lodie Lee, Prentice Franton and Woodrow Waters.

The Choudrant dramatic club met in special session here to formulate plans for the beginning of their year's work and different committees were appointed. The club will present its first play May 17. After the business meeting, refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held May 6.

Monroe's First May Day Baby To Be Honored

First Baby Born After Midnight April 30 Will Be Given Host Of Gifts

Monroe Business Firms Cooperate With World And News-Star In Unique Event On Behalf Of Fortunate Future Citizen

The Morning World and News-Star, with the cooperation of Monroe business houses, will do honor to the first baby born in Monroe on May day—May 1.

Every prospective white mother in Monroe is privileged to enter the contest. There are no restrictions whatever, except that the birth of the baby must be reported to the "Baby Editor" of the Morning World and News-Star.

The first baby born after the stroke of midnight Tuesday, April 30, will be entitled to the gifts which have been contributed by various merchants and business firms of Monroe.

Attending physicians are asked to lend their cooperation in this noteworthy occasion by giving a report to the World and News-Star "Baby Editor" as promptly as possible, indicating precisely the time of the "blessed event."

The business firms having a part in the plan to honor Monroe's first May day baby of 1935, together with the contributions they are making to the new citizen are as follows:

R. & A. Jewelry Co., gold baby ring.
Ferd Levi Stationery Co., baby book.
Ray's Jewelry Co., juvenile set.
Jitney Jungle, 10 cans Stokely's baby food.
Holloway Pharmacy, Johnson's baby set.
W. T. Grant Co., pair soft sole baby shoes.
J. C. Penney Co., two dozen napkins.
Dixie Bedding Co., rocking chair.
Jersey Gold Creameries, orde. for Jersey Gold milk for one week.
Griffin's Studio, photograph of the baby.

RADIOLOGIST NAMED AS STAFF MEMBER OF RIVERSIDE HOSPITAL

Announcement that Dr. E. Burton Lehman, radiologist, has accepted a full-time position as a member of the staff of the Riverside sanitarium, is made by Dr. A. D. Tisdale, owner and operator of the sanitarium.

Dr. Tisdale also announced that new equipment for the "deep" X-ray treatment of cancer and all associated diseases has been installed in Dr. Lehman's department at the sanitarium.

Dr. Lehman has resided in Monroe for two years. During that time he conducted a private practice of his profession and served as a member of the sanitarium's staff.

He was born and reared at New Haven, Conn., and graduated from high school there in 1918. Continuing his scholastic studies, he later graduated from the Sheffield Scientific school of Yale University, and also received the degree of bachelor of philosophy from the post graduate school of the university. In 1928, he received the degree of doctor of medicine from the University of Tennessee.

Roy Sessums Of Ruston Is Winner Of State University Award

RUSTON, La., April 20.—(Special)—Roy Sessums, of Ruston, who will graduate from the school of engineering at Louisiana Tech in May, has been awarded a graduate scholarship to Louisiana State university by vote of a Tech faculty committee.

Burton Risinger, of Lillie, commerce student, and Mary Ester Roberson, of Arcadia, home economics student, were named as first and second alternates, respectively.

To be eligible for the L. S. U. award, the applicant must have made a scholastic average of not less than B during his or her junior and senior years. Others factors, such as personality and leadership, also are considered.

Sessums has an A minus average for the last two years at Tech. He is president of Delta Alpha Rho, engineering fraternity. He was formerly an assistant in the Tech chemistry department, and recently has been employed in the Ruston postoffice.

The L. S. U. award pays the holder $30 a month for nine months, with exemption from all fees except the diploma assessment. No services are required of the student receiving one of these scholarships.

These awards were first available for Louisiana Tech in 1931, when Mabel May, of Ruston, was the winner. Other Tech recipients of the scholarship are as follows: 1932, Louis Pirkle, Jonesboro; 1933, Beryl White, Arcadia; 1934, Ardis Cawthon, Doyline.

Shreveport To Observe Its Hundredth Birthday

SHREVEPORT, La., April 20.—(Special.)—Interest is keen throughout the Ark-La-Tex area, comprising counties or parishes carved out of three states, in the forthcoming Centennial celebration which Shreveport is planning for June 29-July 4, both inclusive. Elaborate historic pageantry, parades, dances, golf and tennis tournaments, historic tours and band concerts will be some of the features of the Centennial program.

Ownership of Caddo parish, Louisiana, in which Shreveport is located, passed from the Caddo Indians to the United States government by purchase and treaty on July 1, 1835. Shreveport was founded about this time by Captain Henry Miller Shreve, one of the great American pioneers of his day. He was among the first explorers and settlers of what is now known as the Ark-La-Tex region, and aided materially in the development of the American steamboat. Capt. Shreve was a man of great courage and resources, and Shreveport, now the geographical center of Ark-La-Tex and its largest trading city, was named after him.

Elaborate preparations are under way towards making the Centennial celebration the most spectacular and beautiful display of its kind ever held in this section of the country. A historic pageant, lasting three and perhaps four days, will be one of the outstanding events. Over two thousand persons will take part in this night feature. There will be two parades, one historic and the other industrial; a queen's ball and a general dance, and many other attractive features.

To commemorate the founding of Shreveport and its development during the past century, specially inscribed tablets will be unveiled in the Shreveport courthouse, the Confederate defense in and around the city will be marked and other points of interest, to be included in a historic tour, will be designated in a particular way. Shreveport was the civil war capital of Louisiana, and one of the tablets to be unveiled at the court house will commemorate that fact.

To broaden the interest in the Centennial observance, the Shreveport Centennial committee is promoting an essay contest among the public and parochial school children of the Ark-La-Tex area. Cash prizes are being given to elementary and high school pupils in each of the states whose counties or parishes comprise part of Ark-La-Tex. The county or parish school superintendents are cooperating in this plan, which has a distinct educational value, since the subject chosen is "History of the Ark-La-Tex Area."

U. S. Forest Service Man Talks At Posts In This Section

JONESBORO, La., April 20.—Special.—Lectures accompanied by stereopticon slides to show the nation's broad efforts toward reforestation and conservation of forests, game and other outdoor interests, were given by Dr. H. N. Wheeler, chief lecturer of the U. S. forest service of Washington, D. C., before members of all CCC camps throughout north Louisiana.

Dr. Wheeler, who is now lecturing at CCC camps in Arkansas, spoke before collective groups of camps at Alexandria, Winnfield, Jonesboro, Olla, Marion and Bastrop, during which time the camps of Dry Prong, Bentley, Castor Plunge, Woodworth, Calvin, Verda, Sikes, Ansley, Danville, Chatham, Urania, Rosefield and Bastrop were addressed.

The programs and other matter pertaining to the visit of Dr. Wheeler were in the charge of V. L. Brumfield, of the visual educational department of the civilian conservation camps of the state.

6,000 Persons Expected To Attend Big Fox Hunt

CONWAY, Ark., April 20.—(Special)—More than 6,000 persons from over Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Arkansas are expected to gather for the State Fox Hunters meet which is to take place May 15, 16, and 17, at Cedar Pine six miles from here. More than 400 dogs will be used in the chases.

Among those expected to attend will be Harvey C. Couch, of Pine Bluff, president of the Arkansas Power and Light company; Governor Futrell, former Governor Donaghey, Lieutenant Governor Lee Cazort, Attorney General Carl Bailey and many others.

More than 100 old fiddlers, who will compete for the old fiddlers' championship at the time, will also be present.

Officers in charge of the hunt are: President, Dr. S. T. Butler, of Conway; vice president, J. W. Keagan, of Ola; and secrtary-treasurer, O. B. Elgin, of Jonesboro; and also 12 members of the executive committee.

Friendship In Foreign Lands Promoted By Club

WISNER, La., April 20.—(Special)—The World club of the Methodist church here is highly active in the promotion of the purpose of the organization, which is to create a closer friendship between children of America and foreign lands.

Several members of the local club are now corresponding with children in Holland, France, Japan and Germany.

Several months past, D. R. Knight, local banker and cabinet maker, constructed a substantial toy wagon and donated it to the World club, with the idea in view, that it could be sent to some American missionary in a foreign land. The club sent the wagon to a missionary in Korea and Mr. Knight received the following letter from the missionary recently:

"Songdo, Korea, March 12, 1935.

"My Dear Mr. Knight:

"I hope that you received a letter from me some time ago thanking you for the splendid wagon which you made for us. The children have greatly enjoyed it and it will be here to gladden the hearts of those who come to the kindergarten for many a day.

"I am enclosing a picture of a group of the children taken with the wagon. It also shows one of their swings and some of the fence which encloses the kindergarten yard.

"We are in the midst of a financial campaign for raising more money to carry forward our work in the kindergarten. Owing to the falling off of contributions for missions in the churches at home our kindergarten and primary school subsides have been withdrawn and we are dependent on individual gifts from friends and what our patrons here can do. If you know of anyone you think would like to make a good investment for the kingdom I wish you would tell them of our need. I think the kindergartens are doing a very vital piece of work and reaching homes which otherwise are not touched by the gospel message.

"Now is a good time, too, to send American money to Korea, as exchange is very good.

"A thousand dollars American money would bring three thousand, eight hundred yen and so in proportion for any amount larger or smaller. At present so much of my time is taken up with financial matters that I have to miss some very precious time and opportunities for other things.

"Our Korean people are rallying to the call and expect to take over the entire support of the school work but they will have to have a little help for a while yet and I should greatly appreciate any word you might speak for us.

"I shall be in America for a year, beginning in May and should there be any news for us along this line I shall be glad to hear from you at Kathleen, Ga.

"Yours sincerely,

PETITION SEEKS BRIDGE AND DAM

Roosevelt Asked To Aid In Project Across Bayou Near Here

A petition which contained 20 names, inclusive of some police jurors, officials and private citizens, was sent to President Roosevelt the past week by H. C. Ervin requesting that the government undertake the construction of a combination dam and bridge across the Cheniere at Lenwil or at some more favorable location at the discretion of the government.

Mr. Ervin prepared the petition and mailed it to the president in conformity with the published statement of Mr. Roosevelt to the effect that all petitions relating to any public matter, bearing signatures of 12 or more citizens, would receive his personal attention if sent direct to him.

If action is taken it is expected to be done through one of the agencies engaged in relief employment work. The dam and bridge, if constructed, would create an attractive artificial lake, utilizing lowlands unfit for cultivation.

TENSAS LEVEE BOARD WILL RECEIVE BIDS

Announcement was made here Saturday that bids will be received until May 8, at 11 a.m. by the board of commissioners of the Tensas Basin Levee board, at the offices in Hotel Virginia, for removal of structures on the proposed right-of-way of the West Monroe levee.

Houses, barns, outbuildings, garages, water tanks, cisterns and other obstructions are to be removed. There are about 16 buildings concerned. A deposit of $500 is required by those submitting bids and a bond required is to total 100 per cent of the cost of the work.

Right is reserved to reject any and all bids at the discretion of the levee board.

Blanks for the entry of bids can be obtained from the local office of the board in Hotel Virginia or from H. A. Mangham in Rayville.

A. G. McKee Is Named Claiborne Supervisor

HOMER, La., April 20.—(Special)—A. G. McKee, principal of the Haynesville grammar school, has been appointed supervisor of elementary schools of Claiborne parish, according to an announcement made here. Mr. McKee will assume his new duties July 1.

The appointment to the new position was made by the state supervisor and state superintendent of schools on the recommendation of the superintendent of parish schools.

Homer Legion To Hold Annual Easter Frolic

HOMER, La., April 20.—(Special)—The annual Easter egg hunt, given for the children of Homer and the surrounding communities by the Pate-Thomas post of the American Legion here, will take place Sunday afternoon at the city park at 3 o'clock.

More than 3,000 eggs will be secreted on the grounds at the park. Only children under twelve years of age will be permitted to hunt.

Victor Hugo often forced himself to write by having a servant take away all his clothes for several hours, to keep him from becoming impatient to leave his work.

RUNNING TO CHIEF YELLOWPONY'S AID WHEN HE FELL FROM HIS SPEEDING AUTO, IN WHICH BORIS ARSON AND HIS SISTER, ZORA, ARE FLEEING TO THE OZARK HILLS TO HIDE OUT FROM THE COPS, DICK TRACY AND PAT PATTON LEARN THE FULL DETAILS OF ARSON'S SCHEME . .

YELLOWPONY DID NOT KNOW ARSON BIG CROOK TILL ME COME UP HERE WITH DAUGHTER AND SQUAW. NOW YELLOWPONY DO EVERYTHING TO HELP DETECTIVES CATCH THAT OUTLAW AND HIS SISTER.

GOOD, YELLOWPONY! -AND UNLESS I MISS MY GUESS WE'LL NEED YOUR AID BEFORE WE'RE THROUGH! PAT, DID YOU TELL THE CHIEF WE MIGHT BE GONE TWO OR THREE WEEKS?

YES SIR, TRACY. I TOLD HIM WE'RE GOING TO CATCH ARSON IF WE HAVE TO CHASE THAT CROOK CLEAR TO THE OZARKS.

WAIT! WHAT'S THAT LAYING DOWN THERE IN THE ROAD? STOP!

IT'S A SMART TRICK, PAT, AND IT'S GOING TO BE A REAL HELP TO US. WE MUST LOOK FOR THE NEXT PIECE OF BLANKET.

MEANWHILE, SOME FIFTY MILES FURTHER ON DOWN THE HIGHWAY. . .

WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO WITH THEM, BORIS?

I'M GOING TO GET RID OF THEM! WE CAN TRAVEL BETTER ALONE. COME ON, YOU TWO!

IT'S MIDNIGHT! THIS LITTLE RAILROAD STATION HERE IS PROBABLY DESERTED! WE CAN LOCK THEM IN A WASHROOM AND BY THE TIME THEY'RE DISCOVERED TOMORROW MORNING, WE'LL BE MILES AWAY.

THEY'RE LOCKERS!

SURE! THEY'RE THOSE LOCKERS THAT YOU PUT A NICKEL IN - LOCK UP YOUR VALUABLES AND TAKE THE KEY!

I BELIEVE I KNOW WHAT YOU'RE THINKING HERE ARE TWO NICKELS!

COME ON, YOU TWO - BACK INTO THOSE LOCKERS! QUICK! INTO THE LOCKERS!

AS THE TWO RUTHLESS CRIMINALS CLIMB INTO THE INDIAN CHIEF'S CAR AND DRIVE AWAY, THEY FAIL TO NOTICE TWO PIECES OF RED CLOTH LYING ON THE GROUND NEAR THE ROAD - AND ANOTHER UP NEAR THE RAILWAY STATION. . . .

TUNNEY WON HIS FIRST PRO FIGHT VIA THE K.O. ROUTE. HE DID NO MORE PROFESSIONAL BOXING FOR A YEAR, BUT KEPT STRICTLY IN TRAINING.

SAY - LOOK AT THAT TUNNEY KID PLAY CENTER. HE'S GREAT.

YEAH - BUT HE'S EVEN BETTER AS A BOXER.

GENE STARTED TO BOX AGAIN. HE WON SEVERAL BOUTS, AND THEN SERIOUSLY INJURED HIS ARM IN A BASKETBALL GAME. THE ARM BEGAN TO SHRINK. GENE WAS ADVISED TO GET PLENTY OF SUN ON IT.

LOOKS BAD GENE. GO AND EXERCISE IT .. ALL SUMMER IN THE SUN.

THAT'S NOT SO EASY DOCTOR. I MUST WORK.

SO CLERK JAMES JOSEPH TUNNEY, BECAME LIFE GUARD TUNNEY, AND MADE THE SUN AND EXERCISE PAY HIM DIVIDENDS IN HEALTH, AND CASH.

OH YOU WERE SO WONDERFUL TO RESCUE ME ... TEE-HEE ..

BOOTS

By EDGAR MARTIN

BOOTS and her brother, Billy, went ashore, for a good rest, on a South Sea island that Billy owns. The liner that landed them will not return for several weeks. Shortly, they discovered that their provision boxes had been looted. They do not know that Gwen, a crook whose robbery scheme Billy once frustrated, was also on the liner and did the looting for revenge. In the meantime, they're making the best of things.

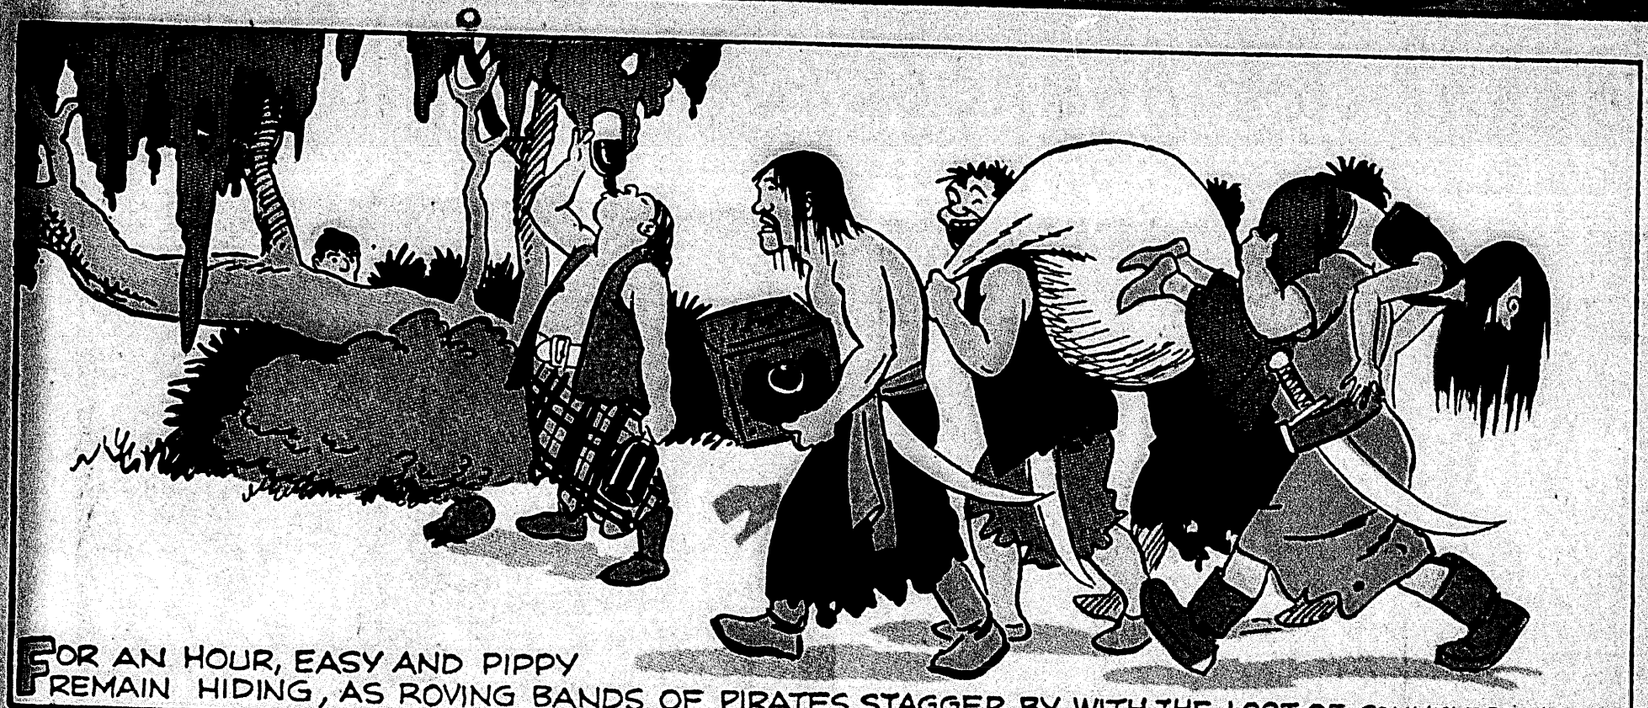
CAPTAIN EASY

SOLDIER OF FORTUNE



FOR AN HOUR, EASY AND PIPPY REMAIN HIDING, AS ROVING BANDS OF PIRATES STAGGER BY WITH THE LOOT OF COUNTLESS HOMES.

THE SKY IS OVERCAST WITH THE SMOKE OF BURNING FARMS AND VILLAGES.

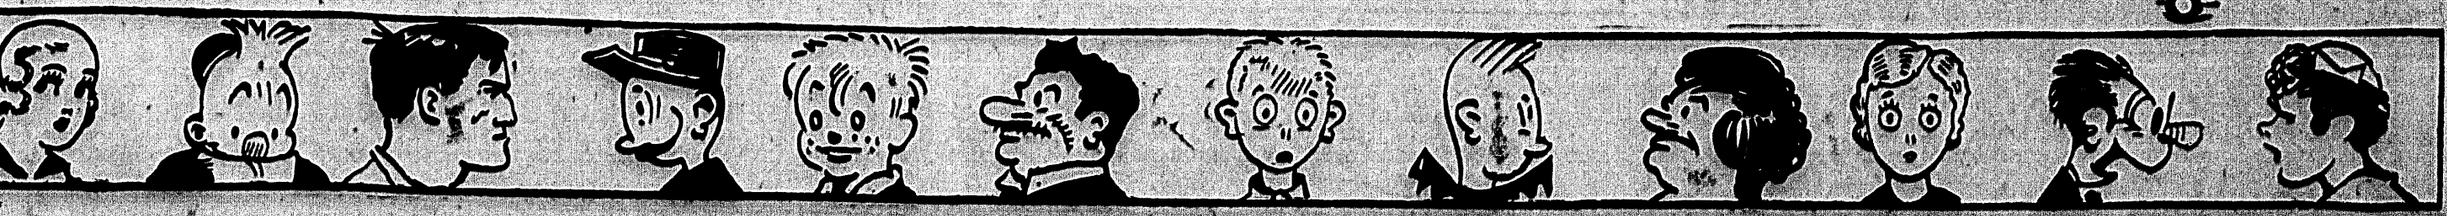
NEXT WEEK: OUT OF THE FRYING PAN!



CAPTAIN EASY

★ ★ ★ SOLDIER OF FORTUNE

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

CAPTAIN EASY and his friend, Pippy, made a forced landing on the shores of a lake in the wilds of Asia. They were captured by natives, but escaped in a rubber boat taken from their plane. After drifting for 36 hours, they were blown ashore on a large island, where they discovered pirates ransacking farms and villages.

FOR AN HOUR, EASY AND PIPPY REMAIN HIDING, AS ROVING BANDS OF PIRATES STAGGER BY WITH THE LOOT OF COUNTLESS HOMES.

THE SKY IS OVERCAST WITH THE SMOKE OF BURNING FARMS AND VILLAGES.

WEE-EE!

HUM! I RECKON WE BETTER KEEP TO THE WOODS.

RIGHTO! AN' BEGGIN' YER PARDON, SIR, YOU'D BETTER 'IDE THAT SACK O' PRECIOUS JOOLS.

HIST! SOMEBODY'S COMIN'!

SHUX! IT'S ONLY A GIRL.

AND PRETTY AS A PICTURE.

STOP, O MISERABLE OFFSPRING OF A FLEA-BITTEN GOAT! STOP!

BUT I DON'T LIKE YOUR LOOKS.

WHACK!

WELL, THAT'S THAT! NOW, WHERE DID THE GIRL GO?

NEVER MIND 'ER, SIR! RUN FOR YOUR LIFE! 'ERE COMES THREE MORE O' THE BLOODY RASCALS.

Tarzan

EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

AMIDST THE FLAME

SYBIL STONELY GAZED CALMLY, EVEN DEFIANTLY, AT THE MOUNTING FLAMES. "THIS IS THE END!" SHE SAID. TARZAN NODDED.

GARU AND ZUTO, THE WITCH-DOCTORS, GAZED WITH DELIGHT UPON THEIR MURDEROUS HANDIWORK. NOW THEY WOULD RULE THE TRIBE.

WITH BLOODCURDLING CRIES, THE SAVAGES DANCED IN FRANTIC ECSTASY TO THE WEIRD, HOLLOW RHYTHM OF THE TOM TOMS.

NOW BOHGDU THE APE, AROUSED BY THE SHOUTS, OPENED HIS SLEEPY EYES AND BEHELD THE FOREST AGLOW

SENSING SOMETHING AMISS, HE HURRIED TOWARD THE SHOUTS, CRYING OUT CONSTANTLY TO TARZAN, HIS MASTER.

BOHGDU SWUNG SWIFTLY INTO THE TREE TO WHICH TARZAN AND THE GIRL WERE BOUND.

"HURRY!" TARZAN URGED, FOR NOW THE FIRE WAS ALMOST UPON HIM AND THE BRAVE SYBIL.
